REBUFFS BREAK ROOSEVELT RULE OVER CONGRESS

Relief Issue Defeat Turns Tide.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 29.—[Special.]—Far reaching implications of the defeat of President Roosevelt on the relief appropriation in both houses of congress occupied the attention of official Washington today.

That the President has lost control of congress, despite its overwhelming Democratic majority in both branches, was asserted by the Republicans and conservative Democrats and only feebly denied by the New Dealers.

Among the politicians the incident is interpreted as an augury of still more signal reverses for the President yet to come. Not only will the President, it is now conceived in the light of his repudiation on the relief legislation, be unable to obtain acceptance of the remaining social and economic innovation on his program, but will be compelled to acquiesce in a radical modification of New Deal institutions.

Defeated on Red Inquiry.

Hard upon this defeat suffered by the President came the disclosure today that he has failed in his effort to snuff out the investigation of un-American activities by the Dies committee of the house which brought Secretary of Labor Perkins, Attorney General Murphy, then governor of Michigan, and other New Dealers under fire for their radical leanings.

Mr. Roosevelt undertook to put an end to the Dies committee by causing the house to refuse it a new appropriation, its previous appropriation of $25,000 having been exhausted. Today it transpired that the house leaders have agreed on an appropriation of $100,000 to continue the life of the Dies committee another year.

There are numerous other evidences of the President's loss of control of congress. When Representative J. Parnell Thomas [R., N. J.] moved the impeachment of Secretary Perkins last week the Democratic leaders in the house thought at first they would squelch the proceedings with a motion to table.

Can't Squelch Proceedings.

A counting of noses, however, revealed that they would be defeated in such a move by the votes of Democrats hostile to the administration in general and to Miss Perkins in particular. They, therefore, were compelled to allow the impeachment motion to go to the judiciary committee.

Everywhere in Washington it is being whispered that "Jack Garner has licked the President." For it was notorious that the action on the relief bill in the senate was a battle between the President and his loyal New Dealers on the one hand contending for the 875 million dollars he had recommended and Vice President Garner and the conservative Democrats and Republicans on the other defending the reduction of the amount to 725 million.

On both sides it was recognized that overshadowing the merits of the reduction was the question of upholding or repudiating the President upon which hinged the future of the New Deal and perhaps the Democratic nomination for President in 1940.

Both the President and the Vice President pulled every wire they could command to help their factions in the fight. Mr. Garner's room in the capitol was the G. H. Q. of the economy forces. Senators James F. Byrnes [D., S. C.], Pat Harrison [D., Miss.], Harry F. Byrd [D., Va.], and other conservative Democrats were the Vice President's chief lieutenants.

Farley Burns Up Wires.

Mr. Roosevelt's assurance that this congress would be permitted to legislate without executive interference went completely by the board. One of the President's chief lobbyists, Assistant Attorney General Joseph B. Keenan, was established in a room just off the senate chamber, where he summoned uncommitted senators and applied the executive heat.

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace likewise labored with senators to bring them into line for the presidential recommendation. Postmaster General Jim Farley, who was in New York, burned up the telephone wires in promising patronage rewards to senators who would "go along" with the President. Boss Tom Pendergast of Kansas City put the heat on Senator Harry S. Truman [D., Mo.] and Mayor Ed Kelly of Chicago endeavored to deliver Senator Scott W. Lucas [D., Ill.] for the President. Both failed.

REFUGEES BARE SPANISH TERROR OF ANARCHISTS

Report Massacres of War Hostages.

BY ALEX SMALL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LE PERTHUS, France [At the Spanish Frontier], Jan. 29.—Starting from this frontier station today for a trip into the horrible and pitiful shambles which all northern Catalonia has become, THE TRIBUNE correspondent learned a new horror has fallen on the hapless Spanish refugees in the form of an anarchist revolt.

It is a civil war within a civil war—one faction of Spanish republicans turning against the others—and is proof that Barcelona anarchists, even in rout, have lost none of the ferocity which made them notorious in the first months of the Spanish war.

Shoot Political Hostages.

Gaining control of the situation in many localities, the anarchists have seized political prisoners who were transported to this region shortly before the fall of Barcelona and who the republican government hoped to use as hostages for bargaining with Gen. Francisco Franco. All such prisoners—Franco sympathizers living in Barcelona—whom the anarchists have been able to get hold of have been summarily shot.

At Bourg-Madame, a French town about fifty miles west of Le Perthus, fifteen escaped political prisoners reported that anarchists gained control of the neighboring Spanish border town of Puigcerda, imprisoned the military command, and shot prisoners and even republican soldiers accused of being sympathetic to Franco.

The anarchists are able to have their own way because the civil guards—the only force of law and order still operating—appear to be demoralized.

See Civil Guards Shot.

In Catalonia many of the civil guards want to lay down their arms and bargain with Franco while there still is time. At the international bridge at Bourg-Madame, French guards saw two Spanish civil guards on the opposite side shot and wounded. It was conjectured the shots were fired by anarchists or possibly by pro-Franco civil guards.

More evidence of the terror prevailing in northern Catalonia was reported by refugees arriving from Figueras. They said there was open fighting at Figueras and other points between anarchists and syndicalists.

Tragic scenes take place at all frontier stations. Able bodied men between the ages of 18 and 50, by French government decree, are refused entry into France. These age limits—18 to 50—are those within which all able bodied Spanish males are supposed to be mobilized. Therefore, in the eyes of their own army they are deserters and liable to summary execution. The French guards allow some to pass through.

Many Die in Snowdrifts.

Thousands of others who have been driven back have taken to the mountains trying to cross the frontier by Banyuls' pass and by mule tracks which are safe only for mountaineers and smugglers thoroughly acquainted with the country. Already it is calculated hundreds have perished in snowdrifts.

A few hundred refugees, mostly men who were plainly deserters, arrived by boat at Banyuls, Port Vendres, and Collioure. They have been interned provisionally. These refugees reported that hundreds of small boats heavily loaded set out from Catalan ports, but only a few have arrived in France. The refugees conjectured that all the rest had been lost in the Mediterranean.

French Guards Efficient.

Adding to the plight of the miserable mob huddled at the frontier is the weather. Ice cold rain has been falling in torrents and ceases for only blasts of cutting wind.

Amid the incredible confusion of this gigantic mass migration, the French guards have done their duty efficiently and humanely.

One of the worst places is the railway tunnel about two-thirds of a mile long between Portbou and Cerebere where from the French side fires can be seen blazing in the darkness while the tunnel vault echoes with hideous screams.

Pat, a Rooster, Has Something to Crow About

Pat is a White Leghorn rooster with a knowing eye, a red comb, and an ear-splitting crow.

Now Pete steps forward to affirm, on a stack of sardine cans, that Pat should be a partner in the business, along with the other Kallas brothers, Gus and John. And he tells this story to prove it:

"That rooster came in here three and a half years ago in a crate with five other Leghorns," Mr. Kallas explains. "We sold the five—took 'em out and chopped off their heads, right on that meat block over there.

Crowing Saves His Life.

"But every time we went to sell Pat he'd crow at us. We'd put off the sale from day to day. One customer insisted on that particular rooster. We finally had to tell her he wasn't for sale. We started to call him Pat. He seemed to like it.

"One day we let him out of the pen. He strutted around the store like he owned the place. Each time a customer came in he'd crow.

"Pretty soon he got to answering the telephone. Now, whenever it rings, he flies over to it and crows.

"On sunny days he walks down the street as if looking for customers.

Jealous of Other Fowls.

"He's jealous of other chickens, too. When we have them in the store he flies at the netting on the pen."

A photographer who had heard about Pat went to the grocery to take his picture. He hinted to Mr. Kallas that he didn't think there was a rooster ever hatched that could do the things claimed for Pat.

"So?" said Kallas. "You just watch. Get your camera set up."

"O, Pat," he called. The rooster quit strutting around and hopped up on the counter. He cocked an inquiring eye at Pete.

"Pat," asked Kallas. "What happened to your brothers and sisters?"

The rooster, with a dejected squawk and with tail feathers drooping, flew over to the meat block. He rolled over on his back with his feet in the air, and lay motionless.

You doubt it? Turn to page 5.

CHIVALROUS POLICE PERFORM A TICKLISH JOB TO HELP A LADY

Mrs. Helen Zaiser rang and rang the front door bell of her home at 2403 Noyes street, Evanston, early yesterday. No luck. She had just returned from driving her maid home. Her husband, William, was dozing in an arm chair.

Getting chilly and annoyed, Mrs. Zaiser summoned Policemen George Hildebrecht and Walter Egebrecht. They forced open a living room window. But it was too far above the ground for them to enter.

Then Mrs. Zaiser had an inspiration. The policemen went to the garage, got a fishing pole, reached through the window, and tickled Mr. Zaiser in the ribs. Mr. Zaiser awoke. Mrs. Zaiser got in.

OUGHT TO BE LAW —NO TOMATOES IN MAINE CHOWDER

Booth Bay Harbor, Me., Jan. 29.—[Special.]—A bill soon to be introduced in the legislature to outlaw the mixing of clams and tomatoes is focusing interest on Maine clam chowder, according to Arthur R. Greenleaf, fishery commissioner. His office is being besieged with letters, telegrams and telephone calls requesting the typical Down East recipe.

The department is sending out this recipe:

One quart clams, one quart sliced potatoes, one onion cut fine, one-fourth pound salt pork, one quart milk. Fry out pork diced, then place potatoes in kettle with the fat and cold water [the clam water which has been drained from clams] and cook until potatoes are tender. Then add clams and boil just three minutes. Season with salt and pepper and add hot milk.

HARVARD DEAN, IN HOUSE SHOES, SAVES A DIVER

Boston, Mass., Jan. 29.—(AP)—A Harvard dean, not taking time to remove his bedroom slippers, rushed from his home today to save the life of a 243 pound diver stricken with the "bends" while doing salvage work on the sunken British freighter City of Salisbury.

The diver, Oliver Howard, 37 years old, recovered after four hours in a Harvard school of public health decompression chamber under the supervision of Dr. Cecil Kent Drinker, dean of the school.

The "bends" is caused by oxygen in the blood bubbling off when the blood stream pressure is reduced rapidly.

Gangster Uses Gun of Guard to End His Life

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 29.—[Special.]—George Weinberg, on whom District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey placed much of his hope of convicting James J. [Jimmy] Hines, Tammany district leader, of conspiracy to protect policy racketeers in New York, outwitted Dewey's guards and shot himself to death today.

Weinberg had been in Dewey's protective custody since last September, when the first trial of Hines on the conspiracy charge was thrown out of court on a technicality by Supreme Court Justice Ferdinand Pecora, who was politically allied with Tammany. Dewey had planned to put Weinberg on the witness stand this week.

Weinberg killed himself in a White Planes hideout, where he and two other prosecution witnesses in the Hines case were under guard of six of Dewey's detectives. The other two witnesses are Richard [Dixie] Davis, former attorney for Arthur [Dutch Schultz] Flegenheimer, organizer of the policy ring, and Harry Schoenhaus, Schultz's bookkeeper. The three were co-defendants with Hines. They had pleaded guilty and turned state's evidence.

Shoots Self Before Mirror.

Weinberg left the dinner table in the hideout, took a detective's revolver from a secret pocket of his overcoat which was hanging in a hallway, went to a second floor bathroom, stood before a mirror, and fired one shot into his temple. He was taken to a hospital a few minutes after the shooting and died an hour and a half later without regaining consciousness.

The suicide of Weinberg today was a blow to Dewey's case against Hines which went to trial again last Monday. The prosecutor said tonight, however, that the testimony given by Weinberg in three and a half days on the stand in the first trial would be read into the record of the present trial. He remarked that it would not be so effective as having his witness in court.

Weinberg's suicide was attributed by Dewey to worry over his physical condition, his future and his wife and two children. Weinberg's friends in the underworld said he killed himself because he did not want to testify against Hines again and because he knew his life was in danger whether he went free for helping Dewey or to prison under a light sentence.

Schultz Ruthless Terrorist.

Before the gang slaying of Schultz in a Newark, N. J., saloon the night of Oct. 23, 1935, Weinberg was his chief lieutenant. A ruthless terrorist when he had the backing of Schultz, Weinberg, who was 38 years old, was known for the coldness with which he carried out the gang leader's orders.

Weinberg calmly confessed a life of crime a year ago after he and Davis had been trapped in a Philadelphia hotel where they had been hiding to avoid arrest on the New York policy conspiracy indictments. The two were cellmates in Tombs prison for several months before they confessed. The fact that Weinberg always close mouthed, talked was attributed to failure of Hines to provide $10,000 bail for his release.

In Hines' first trial Weinberg told a chronological story of the organization of the policy ring by Schultz. Formerly policy games had been operated by independent bankers, mostly in the colored district of Harlem. Schultz conceived the idea of bringing all the policy bankers under his power and taking for himself and associates a daily share of their income.

Hines Calls Weinberg Liar.

According to Weinberg's previous testimony, Hines attended a meeting in 1932 when Schultz outlined his plan for a policy syndicate. The only word Hines spoke during the first trial was to shout "You know you lie" when Weinberg told about the meeting.

Then Weinberg testified Schultz told him Hines had agreed to provide police protection for the policy bankers, runners and collectors in his district. In return Hines was to receive $1,000 as a down payment, $500 a month and such other sums as he called for within reason. Weinberg said Hines was carried on the Schultz gang pay roll under the name "Pop."

While Dewey lost a valuable witness today, he gained another. Julius Williams, colored political aid of Hines, who repudiated a statement implicating Hines in the first trial, sent word from the Tombs that he would testify for the state against Hines.

DEWEY CHARGES LOANS TO JUDGE; ASKS U.S. ACTION

Lists $450,000 Deals in Manton Case.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Picture on page 2.)

New York, Jan. 29.—[Special.]—Judge Martin T. Manton, senior member of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, was charged tonight by District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey with accepting nearly $450,000 from litigants before his court.

Judge Martin T. Manton.

Dewey made the charges in a letter to Representative Hatton W. Sumners [D., Tex.], chairman of the house judiciary committee in Washington, D. C. Impeachment proceedings are usually initiated by this committee. Federal judges are removable only by impeachment.

The district attorney listed six cases in which he alleged that loans were received by Judge Manton or by corporations he controled from litigants whose cases were later decided in the litigants' favor. He offered to present evidence before the committee in support of his charges.

Dewey, who is a state prosecutor, said in his letter that the discoveries concerning Judge Manton's conduct were made in an investigation of state income tax returns.

Only a Fraction Repaid.

The six charges accused Judge Manton or his corporations of receiving a total of $439,481, of which amount only a small fraction was repaid.

Three of the charges related to sums received from persons acting for companies interested in litigation before the Circuit Court of Appeals. Three others dealt with transactions involving individuals alleged to have aided Judge Manton financially under circumstances open to criticism.

Dewey's first charge was that Judge Manton's corporations received, between Nov. 10, 1936, and May 26, 1937, a total of $77,000 from George M. Spector, an insurance agent. Spector was described by Dewey as confidential agent for the late Archie M. Andrews, who controled the Dictograph Products Corporation, Inc., and a number of other companies.

Ruling Reversed on Appeal.

The prosecutor's letter pointed out that the District court ruled against the Dictograph Products corporation in a patent infringement suit brought against it by the Schick Dry Shaver, Inc., manufacturer of electric razors. An appeal was taken to the Circuit court. Dewey charged that while the appeal was pending some $52,000 was given or lent by Spector to corporations wholly owned or controled by Judge Manton.

Dewey further pointed out that the Circuit court, on April 12, 1937, reversed the lower court's decision, by a divided count, with Judge Manton voting for reversal. After that, the prosecutor charged, Spector paid $25,000 for Judge Manton's account, $3,000 going to the Forest Hills Terrace corporation, $1,803.90 to an unnamed creditor of the judge, and $20,196.10 to Marie D. Schmalz, Judge Manton's secretary.

The district atorney declared these sums were obtained by Spector from Andrews or on Andrews' order.

$250,000 Loan Described.

A second charge by Dewey dealt with an alleged loan of $250,000 made on May 11, 1932, by the advertising firm of Lord & Thomas, Inc., then agent for the American Tobacco company, to James J. Sullivan, a business associate of Judge Manton. The loan was made, it was charged, at the request of Paul Hahn, assistant to George W. Hill, president of the tobacco company. Hahn acted, Dewey asserted, at the suggestion of Louis S. Levy of the firm of Chadbourne, Stanchfield & Levy, which represented both Hill and the tobacco company in a litigation then pending before the Circuit Court of Appeals.

The suit, Dewey declared, was an action by a stockholder to recover more than $10,000,000 of bonuses alleged to have been paid illegally. It was argued May 3 and 4, 1932, with Judge Manton presiding, and was decided, by a divided court, in favor of the American Tobacco company.

on June 13, 1932. Judge Manton voted with the majority.

Of the $250,000 lent to Sullivan, Dewey charged, $232,981 went into business enterprises owned or controled by Judge Manton. Dewey also charged that Judge Manton, in a Surrogate court proceeding, had testified that he sent Sullivan to Levy to ask him to arrange for a loan from one of his clients.

None of the $250,000 has ever been repaid, Dewey said. He declared that withdrawals from Sullivan's account for the benefit of the Manton corporation began about a month before the decision was given in the American Tobacco company case.

Various Payments Recalled.

A third charge by Dewey was that Judge Manton borrowed a total of $50,000 from Harry M. Warner, an officer and substantial stockholder in Warner Brothers Pictures, Inc. The loan was made, according to Dewey, at a time when a decision was awaited from the Circuit Court of Appeals in a suit brought by Cinema, Inc., against Warner Brothers Pictures, Inc., involving important patent rights. The arguments in the case were heard by the court on May 5 and 6, 1933, with Judge Manton presiding, and a decision in favor of Warner Brothers was given Sept. 12, 1933.

Dewey charged that on July 20, 1933, $25,000 was paid to Judge Manton by check from funds of a company headed by Warner. This check, it was alleged, was deposited the next day to the account of a Manton corporation.

The remaining $25,000, Dewey alleged, was paid by two checks of $12,500 each, drawn Sept. 11, 1933, the day before the court's decision was announced. They were said to have been drawn on trust accounts of Warner's two daughters and indorsed by Judge Manton to the same corporation which got the $25,000 check, the latter transaction occurring Oct. 11, 1933.

Banker Under Indictment.

A fourth charge related to an alleged loan to one of Judge Manton's companies by the Fort Greene National bank of Brooklyn, on Jan. 6, 1936, at a time when John L. Lotsch, chairman of the bank's directorate, was under indictment for soliciting a bribe while acting as special master.

Lotsch was acquitted by directed verdict and reindicted for extortion. He obtained a writ of habeas corpus and appealed to the Circuit court when the writ was dismissed by the District court. At that time, Dewey alleged, Judge Manton personally owed the Lotsch bank $37,500, but did not disqualify himself in the case and took part in the court's decision which reversed the lower court and ordered the indictment dropped.

A fifth charge was that in December, 1934, Charles A. Rogers, an insurance broker, lent $10,000 to Judge Manton, receiving a note for that amount signed by James J. Sullivan, a business associate of the judge, and indorsed by the judge.

Judge's Associate Gets Loan.

Dewey charged that William J. Fallon, a close associate of Judge Manton, approached Rogers for the loan, representing that if it was made Rogers would get the insurance business on the Kings brewery, then in reorganization and of which Sullivan was a co-trustee. Rogers did not get the insurance, Dewey said, and the loan was repaid in instalments.

Fallon later was prosecuted by Dewey for commercial bribery in another case and on Dec. 27, 1938, sentenced to an indeterminate term in the state penitentiary.

A sixth charge made by the prosecutor against Judge Manton was that John M. McGrath, a trustee of the Prudence Co., Inc., now in reorganization in the District court, gave Judge Manton $12,000 on May 28, 1937. Dewey declared McGrath was named one of three Prudence trustees on Feb. 1, 1935, and that Judge Manton had recommended him to the appointing District judge as one worthy of appointment to a trusteeship in important matters.

Manton Reserves Comment.

Judge Manton said tonight: "I will have no comment to make on Mr. Dewey's action until I have read the full text of Mr. Dewey's report to the house committee." He indicated surprise at learning that the district attorney had been investigating him, remarking, "I hadn't heard anything about it."

P. W. Andrews, president of the Dictograph Products corporation, said at his home tonight that while Dewey's investigation was going on he checked over the books and records of his concern and could find no evidence of any payments to Judge Manton or his corporations. He explained that while he was in charge of the corporation, a manufacturing concern, his brother, Archie M. Andrews, who died last April, was in charge of the Progress corporation, the marketing concern.

"I am certain that no one connected with the manufacturing corporation knew anything about such payments if they were made," Andrews said.

Lasker Makes Statement.

Albert D. Lasker of Lake Forest, Ill., principal owner of Lord & Thomas, and its retired president, said here tonight at the home of his son, Edward Lasker, after listening to a summary of Dewey's statements:

"Last September District Attorney Dewey's office questioned me in fullest detail as to the Sullivan loan. At that time I gave them a complete statement of all the facts that I know. The complete record is there."

Hill, American Tobacco company president, or other officials of the company could not be reached.

Warner, president of Warner Brothers Pictures, said tonight in Santa Monica, Cal., after Dewey's charges were read to him: "If he [Judge Manton] paid back forty [$40,000], all I can say is that I hope he pays back the other ten [$10,000]." Warner said he did not know much about the matter, since most of his smaller business affairs were handled by agents.

Other Charges Under Inquiry.

In his letter to Representative Sumners, Dewey asserted there are several other charges against Judge Manton which are under investigation but which could not be disclosed now. The prosecutor told Sumners that all the assistant district attorneys participating in the investigation are available for testimony.

The house judiciary committee, after investigating charges against a federal judge, reports to the house, with recommendations. If the house adopts a recommendation for impeachment, formal charges are sent to the senate, which tries the case and gives the verdict. An impeachment verdict requires a two-thirds vote of the senate.

Attorney General Frank Murphy announced in Washington yesterday that the department of justice has been investigating charges of misconduct against Judge Manton to determine whether there is a basis for action by federal authorities.

Manton Given High Ranking.

In filing his charges, Prosecutor Dewey described Judge Manton as ranking second only to the nine justices of the United States Supreme court in the American judicial system. Technically, of course, all judges of the various Circuit Courts of Appeal rank equally. However, Manton is given such high rating because the 2d circuit—comprising New York, Connecticut, and Vermont—is regarded by far the most important in volume and significance of litigation.

As senior judge, Manton is the closest equivalent to a chief judge of this most important of the penultimate courts. He long has been rated a "liberal" on the bench and in his legalistic thinking.

Before his appointment to the District court by President Wilson in 1916 and his elevation in 1918 to the Circuit bench, Manton was a law associate of the late W. Bourke Cocnran and of John B. Johnston, now a justice of the Appellate division of the state Supreme court, second department.

Salary $12,500 a Year.

Manton's most publicized pre-judicial case was the defense, in collaboration with Cochran, of Police Lieutenant Charles Becker, who in 1912 was convicted and electrocuted with four others for the murder of the gambler Herman Rosenthal.

Manton's official salary, for the last few years, has been $12,500 a year, plus allowance for some official expenses. At one time he is said to have rated his net worth at $1,000,000.

Judge Manton is of Irish descent. He was born in New York City, Aug. 2, 1880, was educated in the public schools of Sayville, N. Y., and received his legal education at Columbia university.

At the time of his appointment as district judge he was only 36 years old, and was the youngest federal judge at the time. He was the first appointee in the history of the federal judiciary to have received that honor so early in life. A similar distinction came to him when he was elevated to the Circuit Court of Appeals bench.

GREEN TO REVEAL LABOR PLANS ON RADIO TONIGHT

G. O. P. Candidate to Talk About Jobless, Too.

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

Dwight H. Green, Republican candidate for mayor, will carry his campaign to the ranks of labor tonight in a radio broadcast. Three other talks are scheduled by the former United States district attorney this evening as he starts the final month of the primary race.

Green will be introduced over WMAQ at 9:30 by Judge Oscar F. Nelson, Republican leader who was vice president of the Chicago Federation of Labor for twenty-five years.

Yesterday Green was busy at G. O. P. headquarters in the La Salle hotel preparing tonight's talk on the subject of "Labor."

"No doubt will be left as to my plans, not only for all those who labor, but also for those who would labor if they could find work," Green said.

Builds New G. O. P. Sentiment.

The 42 year old candidate, entered in a political contest for the first time, is engaged in building new Republican sentiment not only for the mayoral primary and election, but for the national balloting next year.

Before his broadcast Green will address the Women's City club in the Hotel Sherman and the Union Teachers' league in the Auditorium theater. He will present to the teachers the pledges he made last Monday night to make Chicago's school system the finest in the world.

Later tonight Green will appear at the first of fifteen ward meetings booked for this week. It will be in the 7th ward at 7517 Yates avenue, with Committeeman Charles L. Gerds as chairman.

Among the indorsements coming into headquarters yesterday was one from Arthur C. Lueder, former postmaster of Chicago, and vice president of the Carl Schurz Round Table.

"Many of our citizens of German ancestry are joining the thousands of Republicans and independent voters in supporting Dwight H. Green," Lueder's statement said.

Lauds Him as Crime Foe.

"To know him is to respect him. As United States attorney he was a prosecutor, not a persecutor. He brought to justice the heads of organized crime, which gives us the assurance that under his administration there will be no alliance between crime and politics.

"Here is the candidate whose pledges for city improvements can be accepted at face value. He will fill the office of mayor with honor and distinction."

Green, a world war aviator, is the first veteran to seek the mayor's chair in Chicago.

ONLY 4 JUDGES IMPEACHED AND OUSTED BY U. S.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 29.—[Special.]—Only four federal judges have been removed from office by impeachment since the foundation of the American government.

The first was in 1803 when Judge John Pickering of New Hampshire, was impeached and ousted from office for drunkenness. Judge West H. Humphries of Tennessee was convicted of having joined the secessionists and was removed from office in 1862.

In 1913 Judge Robert W. Archbald of Pennsylvania was impeached for corrupt collusion with coal mine owners and railroad officials. He was convicted on five of thirteen charges.

Judge George W. English of Illinois was impeached by the house in 1926, but he resigned before he was brought to trial.

The last impeachment was that of Judge Halsted L. Ritter of Florida, who in 1936 was found guilty of splitting fees with his law partner.

Only once has a President been impeached. That was in 1867 when a hostile house impeached President Andrew Johnson. In 1868 he was found not guilty by a senate vote of 35 to 19.

World Military Costs Up $1,500,000,000 Last Year

[Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.]

GENEVA, Switzerland, Jan. 29.—An increase of 1½ billion dollars in total world military expenditures during 1938, as compared with 1937, was shown today in the latest edition of the armament's yearbook. The figures do not include expenditures for semi-military public works, such as roads and airports. Seven powers were responsible for the expenditure of 7 billion 400 million dollars, or 78.7 per cent.

Miss Allene Gausby and H. Lloyd Child, whose engagement has been announced.

Hamilton, Ont., Jan. 29.—[Special.]—Miss Allene Gausby of Hamilton has announced her engagement to be married to H. Lloyd Child of Buffalo, N. Y., who last Tuesday shattered all speed records by diving a pursuit airplane at 575 miles an hour. Miss Gausby said she met Child last summer while both were competing in a tennis tournament. Child made his record power dive at Buffalo. He is chief test pilot for Curtiss-Wright corporation.

ORDERS INQUIRY AFTER CAPTURE OF PROBATIONER

William D. Meyering, chief probation officer, will begin an investigation today of the reported slipup in the probation system that allowed Raymond Harding to continue his career as a burglar.

Harding was captured Saturday by Hugh W. Ewing, president of an incinerator company, in Ewing's apartment at 7231 Sheridan road. Harding was on probation on a larceny charge, and was supposed to report monthly to Probation Officer Edward S. Gorski, 5101 Cullom avenue.

Policeman Wilbur Davis of the Summerdale station had connected Harding with two other robberies and had asked Gorski to detain him when he reported to the probation officer on Jan. 12. Meyering's investigation will center around the question of whether Harding reported on that date. He said Gorski had been a probation officer for eight years and had a record for reliability. There are 34 probation officers in the county, supervising 3,800 probationers.

Seize 5 Irishmen with Explosives in Liverpool

LIVERPOOL, England, Jan. 29.—(AP)—Police raided homes near the Liverpool dockyards today and arrested five Irishmen on a charge of possessing explosives. A countrywide search for explosives and firearms has been conducted following a series of bridge and electric power plant bombings Jan. 17. The bombings were believed to have been fomented by the Irish republican army.

Political Notes

In comment on the apparent certainty that the general assembly will pass the bill dropping party barriers for the mayoralty primary, State's Attorney Courtney said yesterday that he favors open primaries at all times.

"It seems strange," he continued, "that the Democratic mayor, Mr. Kelly, would favor any legislative act aimed at taking voters out of our party primary. His purpose is to prevent a great number of disgusted citizens from cleaning house in the Democratic primary."

Jan Romaskiewicz, president of the Polish National alliance, has indorsed Mayor Kelly. In his letter, he said:

"Mayor Kelly is able, industrious, and exceptionally well experienced—a model administrator who understands the needs of all classes of Chicago citizens. He is a humanitarian who hastens to help the indigent and who is untiring in his efforts to provide work for the unemployed. I see no candidate in the field so well qualified to fill his place in Chicago.

State Representative Benjamin S. Adamowski, recently appointed attorney for the Chicago election board, will speak for Courtney tonight at a 44th ward meeting at 2425 North Halsted street.

In a radio talk yesterday, John E. Northup, an assistant state's attorney under John A. Swanson and an assistant district attorney under George E. Q. Johnson, attacked the regular Republican organization and its mayoralty candidate, Dwight H. Green. He spoke for William Hale Thompson.

POLICEMEN GIVEN BOUND COPIES OF TRIBUNE SERIES

Ten thousand copies of the series of articles on the Chicago police department which were published in THE TRIBUNE last November were distributed last week to all city policemen. They were reprinted in pamphlet form by THE TRIBUNE and given to Commissioner Allman.

The articles described the department's enviable record for law enforcement in recent years and told of the improvements which are reflected in declining crime statistics.

"I am glad that each policeman will have the articles to keep," Commissioner Allman said. "All the men will be acquainted with other branches of the service. Those in the ranks, especially the new men, will get a clear picture of the way in which the entire department operates."

RED BROADCAST SENDS REGARDS TO ROOSEVELT

New York, Jan. 29.—[Special.]—Soviet Russia's greetings to the American people and to the New York world's fair of 1939 were voiced today by Mikhail Kalinin, chairman of the presidium of the supreme soviet of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, in an address broadcast from Moscow.

M. Kalinin declared that international good will is particularly important at present because it fortifies "international coöperation so necessary to safeguard peace."

He expressed his cordial regards to the President of the United States, expressing "my wish for the further prospering of American democracy," thus returning the compliment of President Roosevelt to soviet Russia on the occasion of the soviet government's anniversary several months ago.

CAVALIER CRASH AWAKENS BRITISH TO FAULTS IN AIR

Disaster at Sea Laid to Ineptness in Landing.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 29. — [Special.] — Motor failures forcing the descent of the Imperial Airways flying boat Cavalier upon the ocean Jan. 21 would not have cost three lives, according to investigators, had the plane been able to alight safely upon the water.

The sea was not rough when the plane came down, there being only a long, oily swell at that time, said members of the crew. The big machine, as seaworthy as any flying boat ever built, would have floated safely for days. Its radio would have brought rescuers directly to it, had it not been wrecked when it was dropped into the water with such force as to split the hull.

Information to sustain these points, it was disclosed here today, has been presented to the joint British-American board of inquiry that just completed its study of the accident. The board has adjourned awaiting arrival this week of an accident expert from England.

Conditions Defend Pilot.

Ordinarily, information such as disclosed here would indicate that bad piloting at the critical moment of alighting had been the chief fault. This would point directly at Capt. M. R. Alderson, skipper of the flying boat. In this instance, however, there are a number of extenuating circumstances.

First of all, he was forced to land the big 40,000 pound flying boat with all four engines dead. This meant that he was unable to follow the usual technique of gently flying such big planes to the water. He had to land at higher than the usual speed, because the propeller blasts on his vital tail controls—rudder and elevators—were lacking.

Secondly, he made the landing into smooth swells unbroken by any wave crests which give sharp visibility. All flying boat pilots know that with smooth water or unbroken swells, it often is impossible to accurately judge height above the water. This was especially true in this instance because there was low mist that interfered with the pilots' vision.

Ignorant of Forced Landings.

It is reported that Imperial Airways has not encouraged its pilots to practice simulated forced landings in which they do not use their engines. According to information from a reliable source, Capt. Alderson never before had attempted to land one of the boats without using his motors.

Neil Richardson, first officer of the Cavalier, told the investigators that Alderson had made the best possible landing under the circumstances. He said Alderson had done an excellent job to get the machine down without worse damage.

Temperatures in the ocean at the time of the landing were in the 70s. Air temperatures were only slightly cooler, according to the Cavalier's crew. They said no ice had formed on the outside of the plane at any time. There was no ice on the wings, hull or tail surfaces when it hit the water.

Crash Dooms Ship.

Both Alderson and Richardson said that if the plane had not had its hull opened in landing it could have floated without difficulty. The sea remained oily throughout the more than ten hours that the survivors of the accident clung to a line of life rafts until picked up by an oil tanker. There was no wind, they said.

According to information here, the investigation may result in the adoption of an entirely new, modern, and scientifically engineered flight technique and crew training program for the British air transportation line. This new program, it is said, probably will be dictated by the British air ministry.

The inquiry contrasted sharply the fundamental differences between the British and American systems of operating ocean airlines. These differences include pilot psychology, flying training, methods of operation, and instrument equipment in the British airplanes.

Tenth of Line to Crash.

Cavalier was the tenth of twenty-eight sister ships built by Short Brothers of Rochester, England, to crash in Imperial Airways service. It was the fourth machine, according to information given the inquiry board, to be lost in an accident. Cavalier sank at the spot where it crashed within fifteen minutes after the forced landing.

These cumulative losses caused the air ministry to seek a broader and deeper explanation for the Cavalier accident than the immediate factors. Some of these explanations have been found, it is reported.

A survey shows that most of the British pilots have had but little experience in handling big flying boats. Most of them were land plane flyers who were given a six weeks transition course on the Short boats and then sent into regular service. The American lines demand long experience in the peculiar problems of flying boats before making any man a first pilot.

Britons Defy Weather.

American lines also have a greater respect for weather, it is said, than British pilots. Records show that few of Imperial's scheduled trips over the New York-Bermuda route have been canceled. Pan-American Airways, which flies the same route, frequently has conceled flights because of weather.

Records also show that few of Imperial's pilots have turned back after once starting a trip. Pan-American encourages its pilots to turn back if difficult flying conditions develop. It may be pointed out here that, 56 minutes before the Cavalier went down, Alderson reported by radio that he was in difficult weather and might have to land.

An unanswered question is: "Why didn't Alderson turn back when he first met the conditions he described in his radio messages?" The log of the flight shows that he continued to head straight out to sea for the entire time he was in the air. The result was that the plane was 322 miles from New York and nearly 300 miles from shore when it struck the water.

J. O'D. BENNETT, VETERAN TRIBUNE WRITER, RETIRES

War Correspondent with German Armies.

James O'Donnell Bennett, one of the most distinguished of American newspaper writers, will retire on pension tomorrow after twenty-five years as a member of the staf of THE TRIBUNE. He will devote himself [the words are his] to "leisure and books."

"I shall relax, take all things easily and enjoy myself," Mr. Bennett said yesterday. "There will be work, too; the kind I like. I have a literary project in mind and I shall begin soon to carry it out."

Will Remain in Chicago.

In other years, because of a bronchial ailment, Mr. Bennett spent portions of the winters in the southwest. This winter is so mild, he said, that he plans to remain at his home in Chicago.

For forty-six years Mr. Bennett has been in newspaper work as a reporter, dramatic critic and war correspondent. He was one of the first Americans to cable eyewitness accounts of the world war. Some of his articles are regarded as classics of accurate and vivid reporting.

Covers Speech by Kaiser.

In one of these Bennett covered a speech the German kaiser made to his troops after they had conquered Warsaw, the Polish capital, in 1915, after 80,000 Russian prisoners had been marched past.

"Not even Belasco could have imagined a scene with more drama," Mr. Bennett wrote. "The magazines of distant forts were still blowing up. And when the kaiser finished his talk the horses of the cavalry standing near him all neighed in unison."

New York, Jan. 29.—(AP)—Arm in arm with Hope Hampton, his blonde actress wife, Jules Brulatour strode out of Lenox Hill hospital today, recovered from the mysterious shot in the neck he suffered in his home a week ago. The film magnate, 68 years old, says it happened when he was looking at a gun. The district attorney's office says "We still don't know who shot him."

Brulatour is under bail on a charge of illegal gun possession. The case is expected to come up in Felony court this week.

Accused Slayer in Parking Row to Face Trial Today

Rubin Jersky, 25 years old, is scheduled to go on trial in the Criminal court of Judge William J. Lindsay today for the slaying of Donald Warden, 27 years old. Warden, a former amateur boxer, was shot to death Nov. 3 during a quarrel with four men who had parked their car partly on the lawn of Warden's home at 1143 South Central Park avenue. Jersky, who has a police record, fled at the time, but surrendered later to police. His attorneys indicated he would plead self defense.

GIRL, 12, AND HER BABY DAUGHTER ARE DOING NICELY

The condition of Jennie Renelli Rota, 12 years old, who became the mother of a baby girl Saturday in the Loretto hospital, was reported good yesterday. She was placed in an oxygen tent for a while and the baby, which weighed 4 pounds 11 ounces at birth, was put in an incubator.

Jennie became known as Chicago's child bride after her marriage to Frank Rota, 24 years old, in Valparaiso, Ind., last August. Rota, who was a boarder in the Renelli home at 1220 Harrison street, eloped with the girl. Her parents later approved the marriage.

Juvenile authorities, however, acted because the marriage of a girl under 16 years of age is illegal in Illinois, even with parental consent. Judge Frank Bicek in the Juvenile court ruled that she and the baby would be wards of the court and that she could not remarry Rota until she became 16 years old.

POLICEMAN OFF DUTY CAPTURES 3 THIEVES; 1 SHOT

John Ryan, 33 years old, a former convict, and two companions were held as robbers by the Des Plaines street police last night after their capture by a policeman, John Hock, who was off duty.

Hock heard a crash of glass late Saturday in the restaurant at 608 Van Buren street. He found the men had broken into the place. He fired one shot when Ryan moved as if to draw a gun. The bullet struck Ryan inflicting a slight chest wound. All three then surrendered.

Ryan was in Joliet penitentiary for robbery from Dec. 23, 1925, until Nov. 11, 1929, when he was pardoned by former Gov. Louis L. Emmerson. Ryan gave his present address as 8656 Loomis street. The others said they were Leo Cohen, 23, of 1557 South Christiana avenue, and William Joseph, 21, of 1122 North Clark street.

KING OF THE KODIAKS

By CALEB

OFF the east coast of Alaska lies an enormous island, fifty miles long and a hundred miles wide, famous as the home of the world's biggest bears. And here the morning of May 8th, 1935, found a Chicago big-game hunter, J. Bruce Allen, with Capt. Charles Madsen, his personal guide, roaming the fastnesses with ready fingers on the triggers of their Springfield 30-06's.

On different days of the trip, they sighted two tremendous hulks, larger than any Kodiak they had ever seen; and the chase was on. The smaller (if such a word can be applied to a brute that squared ten feet, four inches, after killing) was an easy target at about twenty-five yards' distance, and a single shot brought him down.

But the Goliath of the pair, when discovered, was nearing the top of the sheltering range. His distance, approximately three hundred and fifty yards, meant that only a long, lucky shot could get him; and there was always the chance— In all, Allen fired four times, and fortunately, two of the shots took effect. The huge fellow crashed to earth—according to estimates, there was nearly a ton of him—and never was hunter's trophy more splendidly worth the capture.

Ultimately, this gigantic specimen of Ursus middendorffi — we like, privately, to think of him as "King of the Kodiaks"—was transported to the States, and when measured from nose-tip to tail-tip, and from left front-foot claw-end to right, squared at eleven feet, three inches. He was mounted life-size by Jonas Brothers of Denver; arrived in Chicago in an express car, and ever since has towered on display in our Gun Shop on the fifth floor of the Store for Men.

From his formidable height, the King looks down on the polished parallels of racked rifles and shotguns . . . on glittering cases of revolvers, automatics and target pistols — even a seductive pearl-mounted, hand-tooled Colt that shoots both .45 and .22 cartridges. But an ageless impassivity broods on his majestic visage; and in those deep-set eyes is neither lust, nor fear, nor hunger, nor pride . . . only emptiness. For the last image imprinted there was that of a crag-crowned kingdom of escape—erased by the scepter-flash of a new master.

REFUGEES SWAMP FRANCE; FRONTIER GUARDS OVERRUN

Franco's Forces Advance 8 to 10 Miles a Day.

PERPIGNAN, France, Jan. 29.—(AP)—French efforts to control thousands of women, children and deserters fleeing government Spain before swiftly advancing rebels were swamped today under the constantly rising refugee tide.

Gen. Juan Yague. [A. P. Wirephoto.]

Officials said at least 40,000 persons had fled across the frontier into France since the fall of Barcelona on Thursday. Of these, they said, at least 10,000 were soldiers from the government army who joined the masses of bewildered, destitute civilians.

Unconfirmed reports on the border said that panic in government Spain's shrinking area of Catalonia was spreading to government officials. Foreign Minister Julio Alvarez del Vayo was said to have commanded government troops to guard the frontier to prevent public officials from trying to flee into France.

No Evidence of a Stand.

There was no indication that government armies were making a stand against Generalissimo Francisco Franco's rapid strides north of Barcelona.

The latest border reports from the front said the rebel advance was continuing virtually unopposed at a pace of from eight to ten miles a day.

Rebel dispatches said Gen. Juan Yague's Moorish column already was beyond Arenys de Mar, twenty miles northeast of Barcelona, and that another force had passed Granollers, fifteen miles to the west.

Arenys de Mar, on the Mediterranean coast, was to have been the eastern end of a new government defense line. Granollers was to have been an advance communications post of a new government front.

[Franco's headquarters said his forces had captured La Garriga, six miles north of Granollers and reached the foot of the Sierra de Montseny, thirty miles north of Barcelona. It was also reported that Gen. Garcia Valino's army corps had reached a point between Berga and Vich which was only thirty miles from the French frontier.]

American Envoy Turned Back.

The French government rushed 3,000 additional troops to the Pyrenees border today. The number of French troops on the frontier endeavoring to hold the tide of defeated Spanish soldiers and refugees was estimated at 7,000.

Frontier roads both at Cerbere and Le Perthus were blocked on the Spanish side for miles. They were clogged with many vehicles abandoned because the dense throngs could move faster afoot.

It was virtually impossible to get into Spain. Walter C. Thurston, American chargé d'affaires, was turned back at the border when he tried to get to Figueras to confer with Spanish government officials there.

Rebel and government warplanes brought the war to the border during the day. Government fighting planes took the air near Portbou and drove three rebel bombers from the vital coastal road and rail junction.

Rebels again bombed the outskirts of Figueras, where some of the government ministries are located.

SIAM NIPS PLOT TO SEIZE THRONE FROM BOY KING

BANGKOK, Siam, Jan. 30 [Monday].—(AP)—An official broadcast today announced discovery of a plot against the government to restore former King Prajadhipok or his brother, Prince Nagor Svarga, to the throne. Siam's boy king, Ananda, who is 13 years old, sailed for Europe only two weeks ago after his first visit here as monarch. He is a nephew of Prajadhipok.

Few details of the conspiracy were disclosed, but it was indicated the army was involved. The announcement said "the whole country, including the capital, is completely quiet. The army has announced that a number of officers have retired without gratuity or pension."

King Prajadhipok signed an abdication March 2, 1935, at his English country estate. His many titles, including "possessor of the twenty-four umbrellas," passed to Ananda.

Radical Beats Gandhi's Aid in Indian Party Election

BOMBAY, India, Jan. 29.—(AP)—Subhas Chandra Bose, a leftist leader, was reëlected president of the Congress party today. He defeated Pattabi Sitaramayya, who had been supported by Mohandas K. Gandhi and the Congress party high command. As a result of the surprise vote, it was expected the party would exert stronger opposition to the all-Indian federation project to unite the democratically governed provinces and those governed by the princes under one representative government.

Refugees Tax France

(Story in adjoining column.)

France yesterday rushed 3,000 more troops to the Spanish frontier. About 7,000 troops are attempting to control the flood of refugees seeking to enter from Spain. Arrows indicate the passes in the Pyrenees, through which thousands are pouring. Many refugees are also attempting to enter by difficult mountain trails. Heavy dotted line locates the war front.

NEW BARCELONA REGIME ORDERS CREDIT INFLATION

Workers to Get Month's Pay in Advance.

BARCELONA, Jan. 29.—(AP)—Gen. Francisco Franco's new rebel government of Barcelona today ordered private companies to pay their employés a month's wages in advance as the city slowly returned to more normal conditions after two years and a half of war.

A special commission was ordered to control credits for private industry, and the rebel government poured money into the city to enable banks and stores to reopen.

An official exchange rate of government currency for rebel money was fixed at 10 to 15 per cent of the stated value of the government notes.

Full electric light service was restored, and train and street car operations resumed. Some business establishments reopened their doors.

Bread Lines Fill Streets.

Bread lines still thronged the streets, but food trucks rolled into the city as the rebels pushed plans to feed the population of 1,500,000 that remained after the Franco government took over. The rebels said several days' supply of food already had been given to tens of thousands of inhabitants.

Hotels served slightly larger meals, which still consisted mostly of soup, bread, beans, or lentils.

The rebel minister of the interior, Ramon Serrano Suner, who has been selected to direct rehabilitation work in Barcelona, arrived and assumed control of relief work.

His ministry, as well as other departments of the rebel government, are expected to move here from Burgos whenever the army completes its Catalonian offensive.

All Americans Safe.

Meanwhile, Douglas Flood of Kenilworth, Ill., acting United States consul general, said approximately 150 Americans remaining in Barcelona were safe.

Flood said he would remain in Barcelona pending instructions from Washington, D. C. Assisting him was Vice Consul John D. Jernigan of San Diego, Cal.

Before the rebels arrived, Flood directed the work of aiding Americans from his residence at Tibidabo, on the outskirts of the city. But he planned to resume normal functions at the Plaza de Cataluna, in the center of Barcelona, at once.

Rebel crews tonight continued to tear down government war slogans erected in the streets and boulevards and to replace them with giant signs, reading, "Saludo a Franco" and "Arriba España." [Salute Franco and Spain arise.]

FORECASTS NAZIS WILL TAKE OVER RULE IN HUNGARY

[Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.]

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Jan. 29.—"Our plans to assume power are prepared and the moment we are masters of the situation we will make public our organization." This statement was made today by Deputy Koloman Hubay, leader of the Hungarian Fascist party, at a political rally here. He added that the entire country would soon go Fascist.

At a by-election, however, Koloman Borcha, the government's candidate and chief of the press service, was elected over his Nazi opponent.

At its annual meeting the Socialist party decided to change its name from the Hungarian Socialist party to Socialist party. Jewish leaders of the party said they did not wish to continue in office as party executives. Their resignations were accepted.

ANXIOUS WORLD AWAITS SPEECH BY HITLER TODAY

Nazis Hail 6th Birthday of 'Reborn' Germany.

BERLIN, Jan. 29.—(AP)—Adolf Hitler today shaped a speech to which an anxious world will listen for a clew to how he intends to use the power that has made Nazi Germany a dynamic factor in Europe's destiny.

The first greater German reichstag will provide a background of triumph and accomplishment for the Fuehrer when he addresses it tomorrow on the sixth anniversary of National Socialist [Nazi] rule in Germany.

Berlin was decorated with red-white-and-black swastika flags and deputies were arriving from all corners of the nation to celebrate the rebirth of a bigger, stronger Germany as a continental power.

Hitler was expected to speak for more than two hours on domestic and world affairs, starting soon after the reichstag convenes at 8 p. m. [1 p. m. C. S. T.].

[Hitler's speech and an English translation will be broadcast by W-G-N beginning at 1 p. m. today. For more information see radio programs on page 17.]

No Upheaval Visioned.

Moderate circles predicted, however, that Germany's new power would bring no upheaval during 1939. The Frankfurter Zeitung, which often reflects calmer foreign office views, said "calamity prophets whose voices pour in on us from many lands fool themselves, as they so often have done."

"We believe it to be a year of hard but peaceful and constructive development, despite inevitable clashes of power," the newspaper predicted. "Certainly that will be the German intention."

Foreshadowing what Hitler may announce concerning Nazi backing for Italian territorial demands on France, the paper recalled Mussolini's acceptance of Germany's annexation of Austria last March 13 and his aid at the Munich conference which gave Germany Czecho-Slovakia's Sudetenland last Sept. 29.

"Germany," it said, "always will stand behind Italian rights with the same firmness that Mussolini gave his unconditional support to the reich's justifiable and, therefore, realizable aims."

Contents of Speech Secret.

The contents of the Fuehrer's speech were carefully being kept secret. But much, doubtless, will be dedicated to summarizing six years of Nazidom, with special emphasis on 1938, which Nazis call "the greatest year in Germany's history."

That Hitler will say something about the speech of Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain of Great Britain last night at Birmingham, England, was taken for granted. The German press accused Chamberlain of not being "very clear" in the address, in which he said peace could be endangered by an attempt to rule the world by force.

A similarity between Chamberlain's statement and that of President Roosevelt's Jan. 4 message to congress, Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering's Essener National Zeitung said, "permits the conclusion that this conception has been fairly accurately laid down in diplomatic negotiations between the two countries."

"How far the American government has tied itself down to such a definition may, however, not become known because of American public opinion," the newspaper added.

May Prolong Labor Service.

There were some rumors Hitler might announce prolongation of the German labor service term from six months to one year, making a total of three years for labor and military services together.

Austrians, Sudetenlanders, and Prussians will sit together for the first time in the greater German reichstag. Arthur Seyss-Inquart, governor of Austria, who played a leading rôle in the anschluss [union], and Konrad Henlein, the Sudeten Fuehrer, will be present.

The members of the reichstag will be reminded of Germany's rebirth by this proclamation from Goering, the No. 2 Nazi:

"On Jan. 30, 1939, the greater German reich stands erect amid the world, firmly knit, a steel block of inner strength and cohesion.

"Free is the country, free are 80,000,000 people, free are our rivers, broken are the shackles of the reparation system.

"The honor and independence of the nation are safeguarded by the party and the new German defense power on land, at sea, and in the air."

Meet at Reception

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Senator Alben W. Barkley with Eleanor Powell, actress, at reception in Washington yesterday.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 29.—[Special.]—Early among the events which precede the President's birthday balls in Washington for the fight against infantile paralysis was a reception this afternoon for film actors and actresses who will attend the dances tomorrow night. Tonight the President and Mrs. Roosevelt attended a benefit performance of Sutton Vane's "Outward Bound," and later were hosts at a White House supper for the members of the New York cast. It is expected that 10,000 to 12,000 birthday balls, the proceeds of which will go to the fund used to fight infantile paralysis, will be held throughout the country tomorrow night.

JAPAN SHIES AT ARMED ALLIANCE WITH NAZIS, DUCE

Resists Offers by Hitler and Mussolini.

PARIS, Jan. 29.—(AP)—A project for an outright military alliance among Japan, Germany, and Italy was reported today to have been shelved "temporarily" by a conference of six Japanese diplomats in Paris.

Mamoru Shigemitsu.

Sources close to the Japanese embassy said the Tokio government had notified the diplomats it would make its decision upon their recommendation.

Both Reichsfuehrer Hitler and Premier Mussolini were said to have been pressing for action so they might take it into account in their speeches this week.

The diplomats were represented as having differed widely over the advisability of concluding such an alliance immediately.

Await a Calmer Europe.

The ambassadors to Berlin and Rome were reported strongly in favor of immediate action while their colleagues from four other capitals insisted the project would fail to benefit Japan.

The only agreement reached in the conference was to postpone further discussion until the European situation should become clearer.

The diplomats meeting here included Mamoru Shigemitsu, ambassador to London; Toshio Shiratori, ambassador to Rome; Sasuro Kurusu, ambassador to Brussels; Makoto Yano, minister to rebel Spain; Eiji Amau, minister to Berne and observer at the league of nations, and a secretary representing Gen. Matahiko Oshima, ambassador to Berlin, who was prevented by illness from making the Paris trip.

The conference was called at the suggestion of Shiratori and Gen. Oshima, who met recently at San Reno on the Italian Riviera.

Would Replace Anti-Red Pact.

Both of these ambassadors were said to favor the immediate signing of an outright military alliance to supplant the present anti-comintern pact, which they helped to negotiate.

[The anti-comintern pact, which binds the signatories to a defense against communism, was formed on Nov. 25, 1936, by Germany and Japan. Italy joined on Nov. 6, 1937, and last Jan. 13 Hungary accepted an invitation to become a partner.]

Other diplomats at the Paris conference, however, were said to have declared that Japan would only increase the hostility of the United States and Great Britain in signing such an open agreement.

CHAMBERLAIN'S PEACE CRUSADE LAUDED IN ITALY

Editor Calls Roosevelt an Alarmist.

ROME, Jan. 29.—(AP)—Virginio Gayda, authoritative Fascist editor, today praised Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's policy of appeasement. He held it up in contrast to what he called French intransigeance and President Roosevelt's "drum beating, alarmist policy."

Gayda, who often has access to Premier Mussolini's own views before writing his editorials, declared Mr. Roosevelt's "intemperance" was contrary to the spirit of Chamberlain's speech at Birmingham, England, last night. The editor accused France of showing little tendency of following the British prime minister's plan of appeasement by negotiation in dealing with Italy's territorial demands.

Expect Aid from Germany.

Gayda's expressions in La Voce d'Italia came as Italians remained outwardly confident that Germany would back Italy's demands on France when the time comes to press them. They awaited some word from Adolf Hitler tomorrow in his reichstag speech which would put him on record.

The Fascist press unanimously reported promises of support from Nazi newspapers. In diplomatic circles Hitler was expected to give Mussolini the benefit of benevolent neutrality until there is a sharpening of a crisis and to aid him if necessary.

Italy's actual demands on France, Fascists indicated, were marking time until Spanish rebels, which include many Italian troops, have occupied Catalonia up to the French border.

Justifying Italy's aspirations in Africa and the Mediterranean, Gayda said: "Dissension between the 'haves' and the 'have-nots' is almost a permanent fact of human history.

Calls Nations Selfish.

"When has the selfishness of those with large possessions ever adjusted itself to the needs of those with insufficient possessions?

"There are between nations reasons for a class struggle more evident and more urgent than those acting within nations. It is singular that democracies are the last to understand and especially to justify this."

Gayda called Chamberlain's speech "clear, honest and willing."

"Nobody in Italy," he said, "can think of discouraging this tendency of the British prime minister to seek a definite peace formula for Europe with good will and negotiation.

[Chamberlain's speech, stressing British war preparations, said "Peace could only be endangered by a demand to dominate the world by force."]

"Contrary to the spirit recommended in the Birmingham speech, is the drum beating, alarmist policy which, to justify those great armaments on both sides of the ocean, seeks to pour on young nations still excluded from equality of rights and world position, perennial suspicion of aggressiveness and nonexistent plans of world domination which President Roosevelt sought to revive with customary intemperance in his unhappy New Year's message."

He intimated that Italians hoped Britain would be on their side in the territorial dispute with France.

France's refusal to make any concessions to Italy even before negotiations, Gayda declared, was "the primary cause of that political tension which worries the British minister and justifies in his eyes his policy of big armaments."

FRENCH AID SOCIETIES URGE ROOSEVELT TO HELP SPAIN'S REFUGEES

PARIS, Jan. 29.—(AP)—The French conference for aid of the civilian population of Republican [government] Spain appealed today to President Roosevelt for official aid from America for Spanish refugees.

The conference cabled the President:

"The national French conference, grouping representatives of organizations of all beliefs and meeting to confer on urgent aid for the population of Republican Spain, begs the President of the great American republic to bring the support of official, humanitarian aid to millions of human beings suffering from bombardment, hunger, and cold in Republican Spain."

JAPANESE SLAY 1,190 OF FOE IN 65 HANKOW CLASHES

HANKOW, China, Jan. 29.—(AP)—Japanese military authorities reported today their forces killed 1,190 Chinese guerrillas in sixty-five engagements in the Hankow area the first ten days of this month and took twenty-four prisoners. Japanese losses were fixed at forty-one killed and ninety-two wounded.

To Forbid Export of Metals.

SHANGHAI, Jan. 29.—(AP)—The Japanese owned paper Mainichi reported today the Chinese Reformed government of Nanking soon would issue regulations prohibiting the export of gold, silver, and copper without special permits. The newspaper said an order would also be issued forbidding "groundless rumors concerning central China finances."

Mao Yu-hong, secretary general of the Japanese sponsored Nanking city government, was found shot to death here today in a hotel room. Hotel employés expressed the belief he was slain by gunmen, who escaped.

TOLL OF DEATHS IN CHILE'S QUAKE RISES TO 25,000

8 Looters and Profiteers Shot in Chillan.

SANTIAGO, Chile, Jan. 29.—(AP)—Chile's earthquake death toll mounted hourly today as small towns in the stricken area established contact with the outside world for the first time since Tuesday night's catastrophe.

Conservative estimates of responsible persons indicated the total deaths would run somewhere between 25,000 and 35,000.

A tabulation of the estimates of deaths by localities follows:

Chillan, 15,000; Nuble province and Concepcion, 2,500; Bulnes, 2,500; Cauquenes, 2,000; Parral, San Carlos, and Linares, about 2,000; scattered farming areas, 2,000.

Every House Destroyed.

Cauquenes, one of the latest of the towns to report on the disaster, had a population of 5,000. Its authorities advised Santiago that every house in the community was destroyed and that severe shocks were felt for two days. They reported a serious shortage of food, water, and medicine and expressed fears of disease. Virtually every farmhouse in the Cauquenes area was said to have been destroyed.

Eight persons were reported to have been shot summarily at Chillan on charges of looting and profiteering.

Two of them were said to have been executed for profiteering on private burial ceremonies. One was accused of charging excessive prices for placing bodies in graves and the other of high charges for coffins. The six others were reported to have been shot for looting.

Earth Shocks Jar Ruins.

A series of minor earth shocks jarred the ruins of Chillan, once a city of 40,000 population. Several landslides forced suspension of service on the trans-Andean trailway.

The shocks failed to interfere with the army of civilians and soldiers who are working day and night removing débris and extracting bodies of victims. Most of the dead still were buried beneath the wreckage. Rescue workers said they found a boy, 10 years old, alive, though injured, beneath the ruins of the Municipal theater, in which 400 persons were killed.

Chilean authorities gave able bodied men the choice of working or leaving the area. Large trucks rumbled out of the city during the day heading northward with survivors. Train service was restored and the first train started for Santiago filled with refugees and injured persons. Carpenters are erecting mammoth wooden barracks to shelter the homeless temporarily.

1,040 Buried at Concepcion.

Lighting and telephone services were restored in Concepcion, and work on clearing the streets of débris had been started. The government hoped to have some stores and industries reopened tomorrow.

Up to last night 1,040 bodies had been buried at Concepcion and the small town of Bulnes, where the population was 5,000, had buried 2,004.

Concepcion reported it had sufficient medical supplies but lacked food. Visitors were ordered to leave in order to conserve water and food for victims of the earthquake or pay a daily fine of 500 to 1,000 pesos [$25-$50].

Call Out Reservists.

In Santiago the commander of the garrison yesterday issued a call to the colors to reservists of 1916, 1917, and 1918. They will be sent into the destroyed towns and cities.

Rain fell throughout the city at Santiago, but Pan-American Grace Airways reported the weather was good in the stricken area. Four planes of the line continued to carry medical supplies into the region, transporting injured persons on their return trips.

A 25 car train of food, clothing and medical equipment arrived here from Mendoza, Argentina, and immediately started southward. A plane brought medical supplies from Rosario, Argentina.

The government, after a cabinet session tonight, planned to ask extraordinary powers to cope with the situation when congress meets Monday. The finance ministry was considering a project under which it would negotiate a $75,000,000 foreign loan while at the same time continuing payments on its present foreign debt.

U. S. Planes Near Chile with Aid for Quake Zone

LIMA, Peru, Jan. 29.—(AP)—Two United States army bombers en route from the Panama canal zone to Santiago, Chile, with medicine and supplies for Chilean earthquake victims, refuelled here today and proceeded toward Chile. The bombers were expected to reach Santiago tomorrow morning.

GERMANS OFFER ECUADOR A BIG RADIO STATION

[Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.]

GUAYAQUIL, Ecuador, Jan. 29.—While the Radio Corporation of America and the American Telephone and Telegraph company are negotiating with the government for the installation of broadcasting stations and radiophone service, representatives of Trans-Ocean, German government company, today offered to build a powerful broadcasting station here.

The Germans are offering the newspapers part of the news service free with an extremely low rate for the rest.

Trans-Ocean is the Nazi government's officia' propaganda service and is already supplying so-called news in many other Latin American countries. The stations in Latin America will supplement propaganda broadcasts from Berlin. A station is being built at Lima, Peru. It is expected to be in operation late this year.

THREATS SPEED COURT PROBE OF KANSAS CITY VICE

Judge Southern Tells Plot to Besmirch Name.

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 29.—[Special.]—Circuit Judge Allen C. Southern tonight prepared to push an investigation into vice, crime, gambling, and political corruption in Kansas City, despite threats he said he had received to attack his integrity.

Tomorrow a grand jury will begin to hear evidence into all phases of law breaking in Jackson county. The investigation is the result of an order from Gov. Lloyd C. Stark, who last month told the attorney general to prosecute every peace officer in the state who refused to coöperate in a state-wide cleanup.

The governor's order further widened the breach between him and Thomas J. Pendergast, for years the Democratic political boss of Kansas City and more recently virtual boss of the state.

Investigate Income Taxes.

A federal grand jury also is getting evidence against the gamblers and their political backers, and will prosecute them for income tax evasion. Treasury agents have been investigating gamblers' incomes for more than a year, according to Judge Albert L. Reeves. It was in Judge Reeves' federal court that 237 defendants were convicted, pleaded guilty, or had no defense in their trials for election frauds in 1936.

Judge Reeves denounced the Pendergast machine when he was directing grand jury investigation into the vote scandal. He said business men were afraid to protest against political racketeers because they would be driven out of business.

The judge told the jury about a political espionage system in force in Kansas City and how business men were intimidated by boycotts and tax assessments.

Judge Informs Public.

Judge Southern took his foes unawares with his announcement of the threats. He warned the people of Kansas City and Jackson county of stories they might expect to hear. The judge said he wishes the public to know in advance that these stories are false, malicious, and libelous.

Judge Southern refused to let Attorney General Roy L. McKittrick, a political ally of Boss Pendergast, appear before the grand jury. McKittrick will start a crime investigation in St. Louis tomorrow.

Gov. Stark blew the lid off his fight with Pendergast last Dec. 23 when he charged a definite breakdown in law enforcement in Kansas City, over which Pendergast and his political machine have unchallenged control.

"In Kansas City," the governor said in his cleanup order to McKittrick, "homicides go unsolved and the perpetrators go unpunished. Gangsters and racketeers ply their trades, unmolested by public officials, and prey upon citizens and business men."

580 EXILES BUILD STRANGE TOWN IN "NO MAN'S LAND"

[Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.]

CHUST, Czecho-Slovakia, Jan. 29.—A strange community has arisen in the no man's land between the Carpatho-Ukraine [Ruthenian] and Hungarian borders, near Sevljus.

Five hundred and eighty men, mostly farmers but including two engineers, one doctor and a lawyer, are living there. They were expelled either from Carpatho-Ukraine or from Hungary. The men are constructing small huts and accepting all types of work from nearby villagers in exchange for food and pay.

The community apparently is not anxious to dissolve since it pays no taxes, has its own judges and mayor. The fate of this community will be settled with the delimitation of the new Hungarian-Czech border.

RED CROSS ASKS DONATIONS FOR QUAKE VICTIMS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 29.—(AP)—Reports of conditions in the Chilean earthquake zone even worse than first indicated caused Norman H. Davis, chairman of the Red Cross, to direct 3,700 chapters throughout the United States today to accept donations for relief.

Officials said the Red Cross here already had spent $20,000 to aid the victims of the catastrophe. Of this sum $10,000 was sent in cash and the rest in medical supplies and powdered milk.

Red Cross officials made it clear that Red Cross chapters would not be asked to solicit for the funds, but merely to accept whatever contributions might be volunteered.

OFFERS DETECTIVE A JOB; JAILED AS SWINDLER OF 100

Nine Tell of Paying Him Fees for 'Uniforms.'

Detectives Guy Willoughby and Edward Kirby took one glance at the man, snapped their fingers, and said in unison: "That's him!"

They were driving in Washington street, between La Salle and Wells streets, on Friday. The man they saw leaned casually against a building opposite two employment agencies.

Joseph Parsons Jr.

He had reddish brown hair. He was about average height. He was wearing a trench coat. Between 100 and 150 men had complained to police of such a man.

Preys on Job Seekers.

Lurking near loop employment agencies, they said, he preyed on men seeking work. As they left an agency he would approach and offer them a job, usually as an elevator operator in a loop hotel. All they had to do was to give him $10 or $15 or as much the trafic would bear. This was to be a deposit for uniforms. That was the last any of them saw of their money.

After sighting the suspect Detective Kirby sauntered over to the agency windows, looked at the job placards, then walked across the street.

Offers Detective a Job.

The man with the reddish brown hair spoke to him. He offered Kirby a job as an elevator operator—a good steady job with a big loop hotel. All Kirby had to do was give him a $15 deposit. Kirby and Willoughby took the man to the central station.

His name is Joseph Parsons Jr. He is 34 years old and said he lived at 815 Dakin street. In 1935 he served sixty days in the Bridewell for the same racket.

Yesterday nine men, whose money he took in the job racket, identified Parsons, police said.

BEG YOUR PARDON

It was incorrectly stated on Jan. 18 that Wilbur Pease, an ex-convict, who confessed stealing from truck cargoes, had been paroled from the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth last August. This information came from the state police who questioned Pease. Department of justice records show that Pease was released from prison upon expiration of his full term on Aug. 8, 1938, after once being returned for violation of a conditional release.

Two robbers early yesterday stole an automobile and $10 from the garage at 901 Willow street.

OUR MILITARY ALLIANCE REVEALED.

Is Test Pilot John Cable the first casualty in another war to save democracy, or Europe, or civilization, or the French conquest in Tunis?

The disclosures forced by the unhappy tragedy at Los Angeles are such as to raise that question seriously in the mind of the nation. Has the President, without the knowledge or assent of congress, much less of the American public, entered into a military alliance with France or any group of foreign powers? What is the understanding that brings about the delivery of military aviation secrets to the French authorities? What brings the American ambassador to France into secret confabs over the military conditions of the French armament? What is the interest or responsibility of the secretary of the treasury in the coöperation of American airplane production with the French government? What is the policy and objective of the President in assisting French armament apparently with little regard even to his own program for the expansion of our air defenses?

Americans will regard these revelations with concern if not alarm. They will also not ignore the fact that they were made by accident. If the Douglas plane had not crashed, killing its pilot and injuring its passenger, who is an officer of the French service on a military mission to the United States, the American public would not have had a sufficiently dramatic warning of the development of our government's relations to the European crisis. It is true they have had reason to be on guard. The President's speech at the dedication of the Chicago bridge revealed his inclination to entangle us in European politics and to obligate us to take part in the clash of nations abroad. The reception by the nation of that appeal was not such as to encourage Mr. Roosevelt's purpose, but it seems apparent that it was not relinquished. On the contrary, the policy of the administration has been repeatedly provocative and plainly partisan. High officials close to the President have not hesitated to indulge in violent abuse of governments with which we are formally at peace. The President himself has classified the nations so as to imply obviously if not declare our hostility.

The effect of this conduct has been inevitably to raise expectations in the nations favored that the United States will support them in the event of war.

The American people has no such expectations. But they are not being consulted, either themselves or their congress. The Los Angeles tragedy should wake them up. They should demand a clarification of the situation the President has been creating. They should demand full and exact knowledge of the commitments they will be asked to make good in blood and treasure.

CITIZENSHIP DAY.

Important events in the life of the nation, as in that of the individual, are celebrated in some form or another. It is a strange oversight in our wide-awake social organization that one of the most important of these events has been and is allowed to go with a minimum of attention. That is the taking on of the status of citizenship, the passing of minority, the arrival of political majority. This is surely an event of consequence to the individual in our democracy, and to the nation. Yet the nearest thing to a ceremony in connection with this portentous event is the registration of the voter, which consists of a removal of his hat, the raising of his right hand, and his assent to the mumbled formula of an oath.

About 2,500,000 members of the American household are each year thus inducted into the grave responsibilities and high privileges of citizenship. There is nothing in the procedure attending this momentous change in the individual's status to impress him with its significance. No wonder most of us take it as a matter of course.

The omission we think is unfortunate. There is influence in ceremonies. They are important, perhaps they are more important in democratic societies than in any other form of society, for they make for unity and common understanding and the divisive and centrifugal forces are the chief dangers of democracy. We ought not to overlook any longer the opportunity which the entrance of youth into full citizenship offers the nation to impress upon them and the whole citizenry the solemnity and significance of the event.

We wish to applaud, therefore, the citizens of Manitowoc, an enterprising and progressive city of Wisconsin, who propose to remedy for their community this lack, and at the suggestion of Prof. Colbert of the extension division of the state university have appointed a day to be known as Citizenship day for appropriate ceremonies to welcome the 1,200 young men and women of the city and county, and are already at work organizing a program which will include services in the churches, addresses and instructions, a parade of the new voters under escort of the National Guard and civilian organizations, a flag ceremony, and the administration of the oath of citizenship by the chief justice of the Supreme court, and distribution of certificates to the voters. The Citizenship day is set for May 21 and THE TRIBUNE shares the hope of the proponents of this patriotic celebration that it will be imitated throughout the country. The general executive committee for the Manitowoc Citizenship day, with the coöperation of Prof. Colbert, has brought out a mimeographed manual of suggestions which other communities disposed to adopt the plan will find useful.

THE TRIBUNE warmly indorses the Manitowoc project and hopes it will find universal adoption. The idea is a splendid one, not cooked up in Washington, but an inspiration of local patriotism. If kept free from political manipulation its influence should be potent for the development of enlightened citizenship.

THE STALINITES SEIZE AN INDUSTRY.

The civil war in the auto union can be used for a study of a successful communistic maneuver. The motor industry, like the steel industry, is concentrated in great units. The workers are in large communities which the communists regard as the equivalent of Viborg, the great industrial suburb of St. Petersburg, from which tens of thousands of revolutionary workers could be rushed into street demonstrations.

The motor industry, like steel and the maritime transport in which the communists are entrenched, is also a field for war sabotage if the war should be one the communists did not want, such as one not on the side of the soviet union. The classic formula for the work of the communist vanguard, by choice a minority in the mass to be affected, requires penetration of large organizations closely knit and easily affected.

It isn't necessary for these communist activities, as they are called, to be learned doctors in Marxism or to try at once to make communists of the workers. The immediate purpose is to prove that communist agitators are the best organizers of disorder, the most daring fighters and provocateurs, and the most eloquent advocates of extreme demands.

If Homer Martin had been supported by John Lewis he would have retained control of the auto union and he would have run the Stalinites out of the positions which they had taken. He would have swept the union clear of Moscow influence. Lewis, however, deserted him, and Philip Murray, steel organizer, and Sidney Hillman of the garment workers, acting for Lewis, restored the communist management. Consequently Martin has been deserted by a majority of his executive board and his future in the union will depend entirely upon which faction, his or the Stalinite, can gain the support of the rank and file. That outcome will be definitly known in March.

Martin, an evangelistic type, he having been a preacher, might have organized the motor industry peaceably throughout and obtained agreements for collective bargaining as satisfactory as in any other organized industry. He could have accomplished the purposes of the national labor act in an orderly fashion and apparently was bringing Henry Ford into line by reasonable negotiations when the final successful attack was made upon him.

A peaceable solution of the organizing problems in the motor industry is not wanted by communist agitators. Settlement would definitly remove this industry from the field of constant and violent conflict. Such conflict is the imperative necessity of the communist drive. John Lewis knows this and he knew it when he threw his support to the Stalinites and allowed them to carry the executive board against Martin. The task now confronting the Stalinites is to win a majority of the workers of the union to support, not their doctrins, of which very little will be heard, but the management which they control.

Martin has eloquence, but with Lewis against him the odds may be against him. Curiously enough, considering his outspoken fight against communism and his frank description of what is going on, he is in some fashion or another connected himself with a communist deviation, the party of Jay Lovestone, which is very little concerned with politics but a great deal with trade organizations. That only embitters the conflict because the communist sects know no bitterness like the bitterness they have for each other, a preview of what purges would be like if the comrades gained control. Jay Lovestone would precede even the economic royalists to the executioner.

Editorial of the Day

HUMAN NEED OR POLITICAL NEED?

[Kansas City Times.]

In his attack upon a house subcommittee for cutting down his request for the WPA, Mr. Roosevelt indicates that the committee members have put dollars above human needs.

Now if you will read "political needs" instead of "human needs" you will have the point.

The danger to the administration in the committee's action is this: It comes at the virtual beginning of the session of congress. It is an extremely disturbing precedent. If allowed to go on it might become a signal for adverse congressional action on many appropriations and policies the White House desires.

Hence the alarming cry of human needs. But what are human needs in relation to the WPA? Who knows? Admitting without any argument whatsoever that public aid should be given the unemployed who have no other means of support, what does that have to do with maintaining 500,000 more or 500,000 less on the WPA?

Ever since the agency was started the WPA rolls have been juggled up and down, now off a million or so, now on—mainly as election time approached. The people who are made the victims of this kind of shifting are not under any illusions about its serving of human needs. Nor is the general public.

Here was the original formula of the WPA: It was to provide jobs for all the employables who were idle, leaving the states and local communities to provide by direct relief for all the unemployables. But the nation's jobless are estimated at 10 million or more, while the WPA has never employed more than 3½ million, and that number for only a brief period. It has something more than 3 million on its rolls now. The subcommittee has cut 150 million dollars from the 875 million desired by Mr. Roosevelt to carry the WPA along at an average of about 2,800,000 on its rolls until the end of June.

But human needs can't be arbitrarily averaged in any such fashion as that. Furthermore, if it's human needs we're after, and if the WPA is the only way to meet them, then Mr. Roosevelt should be asking for double or more than double the amount of his request.

No, it's political needs—the need of defending the administration's prestige at the very outset of the session and the need of defending the most costly form of relief because it is an established administration policy.

We trust the subcommittee and the rest of congress get the point.

CHICAGO SCENES FOR MOVIES.

"My hobby," writes a Gentleman with a Camera, "is taking movies of unusual sights in and around Chicago. I have been able to get only twelve unusual subjects. They include the smallest postoffice in the United States, at Roby, Ind.; the Leaning Tower at Ilgair Park; the Couch tomb in Lincoln park; the fourteen year old impression of a hand on the fire station window at 13th street and Oakley avenue. You gave me one in 'A Myth in Evanston.' Do you know of any others?"

Here are a few random suggestions:

The grave of David Kennison or Kinnison in Lincoln park. He was a survivor of the Boston tea party and a soldier in the American revolution. He died in Chicago, aged 115.

The small structure used for car greasing in the parking lot on the site of the old county jail. It was a part of the jail known as "the morgue" because of its use after executions. Many notorious criminals have passed through it on their last journey.

The scene of the Haymarket riot, Des Plaines street at Randolph and north to the alley. Many people will be interested in seeing movies of this area as it is today, not greatly changed. Be sure to include the Des Plaines street station, from which the police marched to disperse the mass-meeting. It is almost unchanged. Then nip out to Waldheim cemetery and take the tomb of the anarchists.

The scene of Chicago's forgotten taste of modern shell fire—South Park way at the elevated railway embankment. A caisson of shrapnel exploded there among federal troops on march in the summer of the great railroad strike, 1895; severe casualties. "Shoot" the area north of the embankment to Oakwood boulevard.

The machine gun bullet marks on the corner stone of the Holy Name cathedral, mementos of the murder of gangster Hymie Weiss. Also take the place of ambush across the street.

An Atlantic ocean vessel coming up the Chicago river, or into harborage. Norwegian and Dutch boats can be caught in the act.

ADVICE TO THE LOVELORN.

If you would have a beau or two,
Here is my advice
To you.
Let your hair go flying high
And forget
Your paint.
(You still can make a good pretense
At being what
You aint'.)
And even tho' your dress
Is old—your hat all
Out of date,
There'll still be scads
Of men around to think
You're simply great!
But let your stocking seams turn in,
Or footwear heels turn out,
And you'll soon learn,
To your surprise,
There
Are No

MAL A LA TETE.

I like my attire to be chic, also simple,
But should I look winsome or weak in a wimple?

If my head were enswathed in what's labeled a snood,
Should I appear stunning or stupid, when viewed?

Now as to chapeaux, would these vernal creations
Cause my nearest and dearest to sever relations?

A skeptic, I stand facing Spring '39,
Askance at the diablerie of design.

Cook County's Biggest Elm.

Cook county has its own giant elm in the Chicago river bottom southwest of Morton Grove, in the St. Paul Woods forest preserve. Its circumference at the base is 28 feet 4 inches; the breast high [no midget] circumference is 18 feet 8 inches. The north to south diameter is 3 feet greater than that measured east to west.

PITYRIASIS MAY MIMIC OTHER SKIN MALADIES.

BECAUSE we have heard so much about syphilis some of us may be unduly concerned whenever a blemish is noted on the surface of the body, as the so-called secondary lesions may resemble many other cutaneous affections. The very fact not infrequently gives rise to unnecessary alarm, as pityriasis rosea, for example, may be mistaken for the more serious malady. It is imperative, therefore, that an accurate identification be made in every instance as confusion may lead to much heartache.

The term pityriasis comes from the Greek word for "bran" and is applied to the disorder because of its typical flaky scales. While various organisms have been blamed the chances are that the cause is one of the filtrable viruses, the nature of which is not clearly understood. Occasionally the infection will appear in epidemics. Autumn and winter are its favorite seasons for hunting victims and many invasions follow some weakening ailment such as a severe cold.

Ordinarily the illness is ushered in with the advent of a single plaque which is termed the "herald" or "messenger," giving notice of numerous oncoming manifestations. Sometimes signs will be misinterpreted as in the following case:

A man, 32 years old, on arising observed on the side of his neck an oval, pinkish spot about as large as the end of his little finger. He had recovered recently from an attack of influenza accompanied by sore throat and inflammation of the nasal passages. Two or three days later the area had more than doubled in extent. On visiting his physician a diagnosis of ringworm was made and sulphur ointment was prescribed. Despite the fact that this was applied regularly new blotches occurred on the upper portion of the chest and beneath the arm. By this time itching was quite pronounced. Within ten days the trunk, thighs, and upper arms were decorated generously with pityriasis markings, which were recognized at sight by a skin specialist who had been called in.

Just where this condition may break forth is uncertain and its debut may involve the buttocks, thighs, upper arms, legs, forearms, or face. As a rule the shade is a pronounced pink and if the skin is grasped between the fingers the scaly surface of the center will crinkle like cigaret paper. The border is usually slightly raised. Within a week or two a secondary eruption—quite different in nature—may come on and the services of a skilled dermatologist may be required to reassure the individual that he has not contracted syphilis.

The case is reported of a business man, 35 years of age, who presented himself to his physician with the statement that he was afraid he had lues. For several weeks he had suffered from an extensive rash on the abdomen, thorax, and arms, which was accompanied by itching. It was hard to persuade him that he was not suffering from the difficulty he suspected. He responded promptly to exposure to ultraviolet light.

We may look upon pityriasis rosea as chameleonlike in its tendencies—that is, at some stage it may mimic not only syphilis but ringworm, drug eruptions, psoriasis, or a scaly form of seborrheic dermatitis.

If the skin is examined carefully, using a magnifying glass, there need be no error as to the true character of the infection. If the laboratory tests [Wassermann and Kahn] are negative we may rule out the disease caused by the spirochetes.

Treatment should be in the hands of an expert and ultraviolet light probably gives the best results. Under this type of management the eruption should disappear in from two to three weeks.

CONSULT PHYSICIAN.

Mrs. A. C. writes: I have had a cyst beneath my right knee for a number of years. It has increased in size gradually and is beginning to bleed. It looks red and inflamed though it is not very painful. I am an invalid and have to sit in a wheel chair and I probably irritate the part. Would you advise me to have it examined?

REPLY.

We strongly urge you to have this condition investigated as an aneurysm [enlargement of an artery] may be present. Your physician will advise the necessary treatment.

SURGERY REQUIRED.

V. M. writes: My month old baby was born with a cleft palate. Will this heal spontaneously or is an operation advisable? Will the condition interfere with her speech? If an operation is necessary at what age should it be performed?

REPLY.

A cleft palate can be reunited only by skilled surgery. Failure to repair the defect usually results in speech disturbances and difficulty in swallowing food. Furthermore, the child's social outlook will be disturbed as she grows older. We suggest that you consult a physician trained in oral surgery.

NERVOUS HEART.

J. S. writes: I have been told I have a nervous heart. Is this serious? Can it be overcome? My work requires me to walk and climb stairs. Should I seek other employment?

REPLY.

This is a functional disturbance and no organic disease is present. Attempts should be made to overcome anxiety, fear, apprehension—in fact, all emotional upsets. If you can conquer your feelings the chances are that the heart will resume its normal rhythm. If your employment demands nervous tension another post may be desirable.

MASSAGE HELPS.

G. R. writes: What causes broken capillaries in the legs? Can anything be done to prevent further damage?

REPLY.

Capillaries may be ruptured by injury or some condition which renders their walls more fragile. A compression bandage [elastic stocking] is advised. Massage will be helpful.

SELDOM HARMED.

T. writes: If children swallow grape seeds are they harmed in any way?

REPLY.

Ordinarily not. Such objects pass through the intestinal tract unchanged although occasionally one may find its way into the appendix.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

BY ARTHUR SCHOLES.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HONGKONG.—"I saw tears in China, just as I saw incredible suffering, but not once did I hear a word of complaint or pessimism from any one—coolie, soldier, banker, or statesman."

This statement was made here recently by the Rev. Edwin Orr, British preacher and author of travel books, following a tour of China's southwestern provinces. He is now on his way to Canada and the United States. Before he left he gave his impressions of what he saw in China.

"The spirit of the people is superb," the Rev. Mr. Orr said. "It seems likely that the same unyielding resistance will continue indefinitly until the invaders become exhausted or are killed off."

The author was in a Chinese city during an air raid by twenty-seven Japanese planes which dropped eighty-one bombs. He took photographs after the raid. The pictures showed most of the victims were civilians and that the destroyed property comprised private dwellings.

After a hazardous journey, the Rev. Mr. Orr was received by Dr. H. H. Kung, premier of China. The following message for the Christian world was entrusted to the Briton by Kung:

"China as a nation is very grateful for all the Christians have done for her. Just now the people of China are disappointed with the attitudes of professed Christian countries. Cowed by brute forces, they have lost their courage in the face of evil and aggression. While we appreciate the sympathy of Christian nations, we have the right to expect more.

"In the league of nations covenant they have given their word to protect their neighbor, and in the nine power treaty they gave their word to protect China. But because of unchristian selfishness they broke their word and China stands alone. For a year and a half the world has witnessed the raging fire in the far east, and millions of peace loving Chinese homes have been reduced to ruins.

"China will fight on. To the surprise of the world and the consternation of our enemy, we have stubbornly waged a defensive war, undismayed by the temporary loss of any city, unbroken in spirit, united as never before as a people."

MORTGAGE RENEWAL.

Brookfield, Ill., Jan. 20.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. When a mortgage on a home is renewed and the interest is to be 5 per cent instead of the former 6 per cent, will the owner of the home have to sign all new papers or only the new interest coupons?

2. What is to be done with the canceled interest coupons of the former mortgage?

3. When it is difficult for the owner to go to the office of the investment company to pay the interest, which is the safest way to send it? A. H.

1. We see no need for complete new papers on the facts that you state.

2. They should be held until you are ready to ask for a release deed.

3. If you are asking as to method of transmitting the money, then a check or postoffice money order or express money order would involve practically no risk. If what you are interested in is being sure that you are paying to the right party the only way to be sure of this would be by sending the money by a messenger, who would insist on receiving a canceled coupon before making a payment. Instead of a messenger you could have your bank do substantially the same thing.

MORTGAGE NOTES.

Chicago, Jan. 21.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My wife had the misfortune to have her purse stolen, losing among other things a certain first mortgage valued at $1,000, with a series of notes, etc., according to the conventional forms of such mortgages. I believe it was registered with the title and trust company. We had traded this particular one for another $1,000 mortgage which we had purchased at a now defunct bank. If I mistake not, both papers were issued by this same erstwhile bank. How do we proceed to protect our interests, if you please? H. S.

If the notes are not yet due and are so worded as to be payable to bearer, then they might be transferred to a holder in due course so as to defeat you. Otherwise you would presumably be protected. We suggest that you notify the title company and the trustee, if the trustee is a person other than the title company. In view of the amount involved, we also advise you to go over your facts in a personal interview with an attorney. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

SHARING ESTATE.

Chicago, Jan. 19.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. A husband died and six months later the wife died. They were married over twenty-five years and had no children.

2. The husband had two children, a boy and girl, by a former marriage. They left three pieces of property with houses on each in Tennessee.

3. The wife has two blood sisters, both old, and widows. The wife worked hard and helped pay for the homes.

4. Would like to know if these two sisters are entitled to a share with the two stepchildren? L. S.

1. Rights would depend in part on whether the title was held in joint tenancy and on the state in which the land is located.

2. In general, her stepchildren would not share as heirs to her estate.

3. We do not understand what you mean by these two words.

4. The sisters would divide the wife's estate. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

ESTATE INFORMATION.

Chicago, Jan. 19.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My uncle passed away Nov. 30, 1938, in Jamaica, Long Island, N. Y., and my father is administrator of the estate. My father, who also lives in Jamaica, wrote my sister here in Chicago to have me write him, which I have, but received no answer.

1. Please advise me to whom or to what court to write to secure a copy of the will, also the address of the court.

2. Would my father be able to deny my sister or myself a copy of the will? G. K.

1. Write to the clerk of the Surrogate's court at the county seat of the county in which the deceased resided at the time of his death.

2. Yes; he is under no legal obligation to supply copies to you, but you could obtain a copy from the clerk of the court by paying him.

UNCLE SAM AS PHYSICIAN.

Chicago, Jan. 26.—It is reported by THE TRIBUNE today that a professor from Yale came out here to support the plan of Washington to dictate to medicine and thereby thwart that individualism which has made the profession in our country the foremost in the world.

Now, a professor from Yale should know, as every high school pupil should, that so far as medicine is touchable by government at all it must be by that government which possesses the police power over "the health, morals, safety, and general well-being of the people." The police power is inherent in the states. They and their people conferred none of it by their constitution upon the national government.

Therefore, the plan of Washington to seize ungranted power will, if effected, add one more to its number of lawless acts. We have been so much concerned with governmental lawlessness in other lands that we have, apparently, not observed the foul blows to our own liberties. Here is another in preparation.

THOMAS JAMES NORTON.

FENCING IN THE SCHOOLS.

Chicago, Jan. 27.—Fencing in public high schools is very popular, but up to date no qualified instructor has been engaged to meet these demands. On the contrary. Otherwise clever gym teachers are compelled to act as fencing masters, although none of them knows a thing about it. The results cannot be laughed off.

There are a few students with a limited knowledge of fencing; the majority, however, is absolutely ignorant of it all. To crown this unfortunate system, competitive fencing among schools is encouraged and highly publicized. To win honors, teams don't hesitate to take private lessons—at whose expense, we should like to know?

It deserves to be recorded that fencing in our public high schools is ill-conceived and detrimental to the art of fencing. Furthermore, the expenditures for equipment run into thousands of dollars every year. If the board of education cannot procure the services of capable fencing instructors let's drop fencing altogether, save our boys from disgrace, and save our taxpayers' money.

OUT IN THE COLD.

Chicago, Jan. 26.—If your correspondent, Mr. Emil C. Ericksen, found more work to do for himself and had less time to sit all day in a nice warm office watching a crew of WPA men he would have less fault to find. My husband is one of those unfortunate men that have to stand all day out in the cold and try to work, not because that is the height of his ambitions but because we have to eat.

A regular job would be greatly appreciated by my husband.

Why doesn't Mr. Ericksen furnish him one? Then that would be one less man on the WPA for him to sit and watch.

Chicago, Jan. 24.—In connection with the reported superiority of Germany in military aviation it is interesting to note the following statement of Jean Paul Richter, German writer, as quoted in The Edinburgh Review in 1827: "Providence has given to the French the empire of the land; to the English that of the sea; to the Germans that of—the air!" MR. CHANDLER ON PAROLE.

Chicago, Jan. 21.—May I ask you to correct an impression given by the report in THE TRIBUNE of this date of my informal remarks last evening before the Chicago Academy of Criminology that I am opposed to the indeterminate sentence law of this state because of its faulty administration?

I do consider that higher qualifications should be required for membership on the parole board. The delicacy and difficulty of the task call for persons measuring up to the best type of judges. Politics should be absolutely eliminated in the selection of parole officers who supervise the parolees. These officers should be chosen solely on the basis of their understanding of the individual and social factors involved in parole and their absolute conscientiousness. Unfortunately this has never been the case in Illinois. With some notable exceptions parole officers have been appointed on a patronage basis. Naturally the benefits which might be derived from an indeterminate sentence law have been greatly impaired.

The remedy, however, in my opinion, is not to repeal the law, but to improve the administration. Even as it is, I consider that the indeterminate sentence law is much superior to a law prescribing determinate sentences. In my opinion [although I know that you do not agree with me] any lessening of the indeterminate element in the present law and in the discretion given to the parole board to determine the time of release of a prisoner in reference to his fitness to return to society, would be a distinct step backward.

ARMY PREPARES GLAD FAREWELL TO 'SQUADS RIGHT'

Drill Will Be Revised in Streamlining Program.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 29.—[Special.]—The army is preparing to say good-by to "squads right." The change is part of the streamlining program designed to enable American forces to strike more rapidly and with greater force in combat.

The infantry board has been testing a new drill and is preparing to write new infantry drill regulations which will fall into ten new chapters.

The chapters relate to the soldier, the soldier with arms, drill for foot troops, drill for units with animals, drill for units with motor carriers, drill for motorized units, formation of the battalion and regiment, ceremonial drill, battle formations and movements, and signals.

Present Drill Outmoded.

Under the new drill the infantry will throw off the intricate convolutions of the squad, platoon, company, and battalion, which are modified relics of civil war days. Officers regard these as binding as strait-jackets and as outmoded as the corset.

The army high command is certain that when these are dropped the soldier will be a better and more efficient fighter, because he will have freed his mind of mental and physical shackles imposed by the present system.

The basis of the new drill is a squad of variable size instead of the present rigid eight man squad. The new rifle squad will have twelve men, the light machine gun squad will have seven, and the 60 mm. infantry mortar squad five. Other special units belonging to infantry regiments will have other squads of various sizes. The variable size is necessitated by development of new weapons and fighting tactics.

The new drill permits of flexibility in the units, both in peace or war, as none of the squads is expected to be of full strength in all units at any time.

Test Column of Threes.

To maneuver such squads in platoon or company formations the infantry board is testing and is expected to adopt the column of threes drill used by German and French armies. This drill is flexible enough, however, to employ the column of fours formation for any unit whose squads are not multiples of threes.

In the new drill squads form a single line to the left or right of the squad leader instead of the present formation of two files of four men each, with the leader at the left of the front line. For a platoon front, the three squads of the platoon form three lines in depth. To form a column of threes from the platoon front the three squads right or left face.

Positions, paces, marchings, and the manual of arms will be subjected to little change. The old "parade rest" is to be abolished. The command "port arms" is to be executed in two movements rather than one, so that the new semi-automatic rifle will not be thrown and grabbed in the air.

Arms' Movements Changed.

The command "right shoulder arms" will not be executed as part of the command "forward march," as at present. The arms will be shouldered before a marching movement starts, so units carrying light machine guns and mortars can get them in marching position before stepping off. Arms will not be grounded at the command of "halt," but at the command of "order arms" after the halt.

Under the squad streamlining there are to be virtually no squad or platoon drills except forming of the column, opening ranks for inspection, turning the column right or left, and putting intervals between soldiers for tent pitching and similar maneuvers. The company will have a few more movements for mass formation.

Drill for animal drawn cart or part animal units, motor carrier units, and motorized units will be practically the same and will follow roughly the foot troop drill framework, so officers transferred from one unit to another will not have to learn a different close order drill.

Adapted to Combat Use.

All drills are adapted to combat use, so the soldier does not have to learn one drill for peace and another for war. The present extended order drill is to be eliminated and will be replaced by simple provisions for handling units in battle.

Ceremonies are to be standardized, with the review as the basic one.

"The psychological idea in drill is to develop response of the individuals to the commands of their leaders and to make them an integral part of the military unit," said Maj. Gen. George A. Lynch, chief on infantry. "Nothing gives a man so strong a feeling of being part of a group as actually moving in unison with it, smoothly and confidently, to a measured cadence. Even the ancient Egyptians knew this.

Long Training Required.

"At the same time, learning the old and complicated evolutions took so large a part of training time that cadenced drill too often assumed an importance far beyond that of the training actually used in battle.

"The new drill meets requirements as a disciplinary and integrating exercise, but, most important, the formations of the new drill develop smoothly and logically into those of battle. This still is the main business of soldiers.

"The army is in a mechanistic age—striving with might and main to adapt newly invented devices and machines to war uses—and cannot afford to spend its time laboriously perfecting a drill inherited from the past and having little connection with the modern battle formations. All energy needs to be focused on combat efficiency, and drill is valuable only so long as it helps to develop that."

EXISTING REGULATION
Each Squad Swings to Left to Form Platoon Front from Column
Column of Squads
Platoon Front
PROPOSED REGULATION
Platoon Column (3 Squad Columns)
Platoon Front

The diagrams illustrate the simplification of infantry drill under proposed new U. S. army regulations. Under the present regulations a standard method of changing a unit from column formation to a front formation or vice versa is by executing "squads right" or "squads left." This is complicated and requires constant drill for perfection because each of the eight men in each squad executes a different movement. This is illustrated in the diagram on the left in which a platoon in column of squads changes to platoon front by executing "squads left." Under the proposed new regulations a platoon column is formed with three squads of 12 men each, making a column of threes. To form platoon front from platoon column each man does exactly the same thing. He marches by the left flank (as shown in the diagram at the right) or by the right flank. If not in motion each man merely faces right or left.

Hunts a Job

MRS. CATHERINE CRABB.

Delavan, Ill., Jan. 29.—[Special.]—Mrs. Catherine Steinmetz Crabb, wife of Willis W. Crabb, until two weeks ago president of the Tazewell County National bank, is looking for a job. She formerly was a beauty operator. She became Crabb's second wife in 1936. Last week Crabb surrendered his personal fortune of about $75,000 to the bank to make good an alleged shortage.

Mrs. Crabb is 30 years old. She said today she will accept any form of dignified employment which commands fair pay.

"I worked before I met Willis and I'm not too proud to work again," Mrs. Crabb replied when asked what kind of work she can do.

"I was a receptionist for the Caterpillar company for quite a while, and I know beauty culture. I also can operate a telephone switchboard. If Willis has to give every penny he has we'll get along somehow."

Funds Gone, Relief Office Will Be Closed Till Feb. 1

Rockford, Ill., Jan. 29.—[Special.]—The Winnebago county relief office at Blake school will be closed tomorrow, due to lack of funds, for the balance of January. Families now on relief rolls already have received food orders for the period. No new food, rent, or fuel orders will be issued. The relief staf will work preparing February orders.

RUMANIAN GIRL LEADER OF IRON GUARD ENDS LIFE

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Jan. 29.—(AP)—A girl leader of the terroristic Iron Guard organization was reported to have committed suicide today by jumping from a third story window of the Bucharest police station after breaking away from guards.

They identified her as Adelina Robescu, 23 years old, a student. She was arrested Jan. 24 for participating in a plot of the outlawed and Nazi-inclined Iron Guard to fire Bucharest buildings. While being led down a corridor, police said, the girl darted into a lavatory, raised a window, and jumped into a courtyard. Authorities said the girl had been an Iron Guard sympathizer for years, and served the conspirators recently as a courier.

Her death was the fourth among the alleged Iron Guard conspirators accused of plotting against the government. Lieut. Dimitrescu Nicholai, inventor of flame throwers the plotters were constructing, hanged himself with his belt after police said he admitted details of the conspiracy. The other two were said to have either killed themselves or been slain trying to escape.

SPURNED SUITOR SHOOTS WOMAN, SISTER, AND SELF

A frustrated suitor invaded the north side apartment of his former sweetheart last night, shot her and her twin sister, and then turned the gun on himself. He is William Harlev, 52 years old, 1857 South Ridgeway avenue, a salesman.

For some time he had been courting Miss Georgia Fitz Hugh, 47 years old, a secretary, living in a hotel at 5653 Kenmore avenue. She stopped seeing him last August after learning he was married.

Last night Harlev smashed in the door of her apartment, fired several shots wildly, and wounded her sister, Mrs. Virginia McAlpine, a widow, in the left hand. He then fired five shots into Miss Fitz Hugh's neck, shoulder, and body, and shot himself twice in the head. Police said he had to reload at least once during the shooting spree. He was taken to the Bridewell hospital. The sisters were taken to the Edgewater hospittal. Harlev and Miss Fitz Hugh may die, physicians said.

Mrs. McAlpine told Lieut. Michael Ahern of the Summerdale station that she and her sister are great-great-great-granddaughters of Patrick Henry, Virginia patriot, and third cousins of Gen. Robert E. Lee. A grandfather, Dr. Thaddeus Fitzhugh, said Mrs. McAlpine, was a confederate veteran and postmaster at Kansas City, Kas., during the Cleveland administration.

BREAKS INTO AN OFFICE; FORGES 91 CHECKS; CAUGHT

Find Counterfeit Plant in Burglar's Room.

Stanley Dale Purvis, 23 years old, who sought to acquire money by forged checks, was being held by police last night for federal authorities. The possible charges against him, police said, are counterfeiting, forgery, attempting to pass a bogus check and burglary.

Stanley Purvis.

Purvis was arrested Saturday by Detectives Edward Kirby and Guy Willoughby after he tried to pass a forged check for $39 in a currency exchange at 203 South Wabash avenue. The check was drawn against a decorating company at 1341 East 75th street, and bore the purported signature of Joseph Maskow, an official of the company.

Find 91 Forged Checks on Him.

Suspecting the check, D. S. Wolfberg, manager of the currency exchange, called police. In Purvis' pockets detectives found ninety-one checks. Each bore the apparent signature of Maskow.

Police said Purvis later confessed breaking into Maskow's office on Friday, stealing a set of blank checks, running them through a perforating machine, and then signing them with Maskow's name. He used one of Maskow's canceled checks as a model.

Find Counterfeiting Plant.

In Purvis' room at 6342 Kenwood avenue, detectives found more ambitious preparations for his easy money dream. There he had a complete miniature layout for counterfeiting $1 and $5 bills.

Chemicals, plates, and proofs of bogus bills were found. Capt. Thomas Callaghan of the federal secret service was called into the case. Purvis is also known as Howard Baker.

IOWA BANKER, SEIZED IN SHORTAGE, GIVES UP IDEA OF REDUCING

Little Rock, Ark., Jan. 29.—(AP)—Thoughts of reducing apparently vanished, portly Harold J. Kriebs, 37 year old bank cashier accused of absconding with $83,000 from the First National bank of Dewitt, Ia., ate heartily today of the county jail's Sunday fare.

Federal agents seized the 6 foot, 250 pound missing banker while he attempted, they said, to alter his appearance by narrowing the waist line at a private sanitarium near Little Rock. The Iowan partook of Irish stew, prunes, stewed peaches, milk, and bread in dinner at the jail.

Federal agents said Kriebs readily agreed to return to Iowa, where the federal grand jury will meet at Davenport April 4 to consider embezzlement charges against him. He signed a waiver making unnecessary a special removal hearing, agents said.

Rapes Nurse, Robs Mother in Hospital and Gets Away

Murphy, N. C., Jan. 29.—(AP)—A masked bandit entered a hospital here before dawn today, Police Chief Fred Johnson reported, and bound, gagged and ravished a nurse in the maternity ward. Before he fled, the chief said, the intruder took a pocketbook containing $90 from a woman patient who had given birth to a baby a few hours earlier.

DIES AT 74 AFTER FALL.

George Kuehni, 74 years old, died in county hospital yesterday of pneumonia, which developed following a fall on the ice Friday in front of his home at 4924 North Seeley avenue.

Family of 6 Dead in Fire That Destroys Their Home

Cincinnati, O., Jan. 29.—(AP)—Fire annihilated a family of six in nearby Newtown today, destroying their four room cottage while they slept. The dead were: Everett Frost, 32 years old, section foreman for the Norfolk & Western railroad; Gladys, 28, his wife, and their children, Ernest, 11; Eugene, 9; Velma, 4; Kenneth, nine months.

INDIAN FIGHTERS GIVE TENNESSEE PIONEER LEGACY

Ideals of Liberty Won by Constant Vigilance.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Elizabethton, Tenn., Jan. 29.—[Special.]—A mile from town the new homes of a moderately prosperous people edge their way along the valley of the Watauga river. The roadway is along a hillside, opening to views of the barrier ranges and set above the great factories in the flatland, red brick buildings of neat efficiency hemmed in by the automobiles of hundreds of workers.

Daniel Boone.

The river is silent, clear water between wooded banks and meadows, until it comes to Sycamore shoals, where it breaks into a boisterous, silver flashing activity along the rocks, with a deep and steady undertone. Here it tells a story that is important not only to this mountain valley but to America.

It began, perhaps, in the dim stone age of human development when ice covered the northern part of the continent and the inhabitants of Europe lived in caves. For there are mounds in this section of a prehistoric people. Then it became the camp and hunting grounds of the historic Indians. In the latter part of the eighteenth century a new race of white human beings began to trickle over the mountain gaps. Since then the pace of change has been accelerated.

Life Never Made Easy.

The first settlers in this valley were, in the words of Cromwell, "upon an engagement very difficult." There is no record of life being made easy anywhere for the pioneers of the western waters. James Robertson, who led the way in 1770 for the first civilized settlement west of the Alleghanies, was lost and nearly starved in the wilderness on his first expedition, but never thought twice about it. He packed up his family and got his neighbors together from old southwest Virginia and started out again.

Evan Shelby and his son, Isaac, came on from Maryland. John Sevier and his family started from New Market, Va. William Bean had come through earlier and may be regarded as the first settler. Daniel Boone had also came scouting, a bold knight of the coming democracy. He had stood on a hillside and said:

"I am richer than the man in the Scriptures who owned the cattle on a thousand hills. I own the wild beasts in a thousand valleys."

On a tree along Boone creek, a tributary of the Watauga, he carved the words: "D. Boon cilled a bar on tree in year 1760."

First Impress on Forest.

It was the Robertson settlement at Watauga, however, that made its first impress upon this ancient forest. Here 30 men with ax and rifle held the wilderness against 20,000 armed savages. Later, 200 strong, they held the gateways of the mountains against the hordes of Indians which Great Britain had enlisted for the destruction of the colonists who had dared to settle beyond the line drawn by the English king. England wanted this for her fur trade, not for unruly colonists.

The significance of this place, however, is not so much in the individual heroic acts of the settlers, but in their capacity for colonization and self-government. Here, long before the tidewater had decided, America had cut loose from Europe and embarked on a new adventure in the history of government.

"One can find no more striking fact in American history," says the Historian McLaughlin, "than the simple ease with which these frontiersmen on the banks of the western waters, on the threshold of the central valley of the continent, finding themselves beyond the reach of the eastern law, formed an association and exercised the rights and privileges of self-government."

Go to Help of Colonists.

The attitude of these men toward the republic, then just emerging in thought above the struggles of a hundred years in the new world, is seen by their actions in going to the help of the eastern colonists. They left their cabins and families at the mercy of Indians more than once to march over the mountains. They not only fought at the battle of Kings mountain, which was a decisive blow, but also went into other engagements before and after that battle. They went to the aid of South Carolina. One of them, at least, was at Yorktown.

A monument of field stones and marble by the roadside marks the site of old Fort Watauga at Sycamore shoals, where on Sept. 5, 1780, the patriots assembled to go to Kings mountain. Here also was negotiated the treaty of 1775 under which Transylvania [Kentucky] was acquired from the Cherokees. That, however, is another story.

Proves Mettle in Indian Fight.

It was at Fort Watauga that John Sevier took the leadership of men which was to last throughout his lifetime. This man from the Shenandoah valley had at the age of 17 proved his mettle in an Indian fight. The Indians had attacked his store at New Market. After they had been driven off he set forth with half a dozen men and followed the trail to their village. They killed the Indians and burned the village. Later he was in Lord Dunmore's war and was made a captain of the Virginia line. His record is thirty-five Indian battles with not one battle lost.

At Elizabethton the Daughters of the American Revolution have erected a tall white monument to the Watauga association, marked as "the first place west of the Alleghanies where men joined together in a written compact for civil government and for the preservation of their ideals of liberty." It took constant fighting to establish and preserve these ideals.

The thirteen founders were Charles Robertson, James Robertson, Zachariah Tobell, John Sevier, John Carter, Jacob Womack, James Smith, Jacob Brown, William Bean, John Jones, George Russell, Robert Lucas, and William Tatham.

Factories Hem in Old Fort.

The white waters over the shoals are unchanged in aspect, but the valley is now peaceful, with Elizabethton counting 6,000 workers in the big rayon mills, and a pay roll of $125,000 a week. There are 4,000 farm homes in the county, subsistence farms of from one to ten acres, encouraged by the factories as an aid to dull times and a healthful method of living. There are still bass in the Doe and rainbow trout in the hill streams, and fine fishing lines are made here. Railroads and factories hem in the site of the old fort, but beyond the mountains call as of old. The valley is called Happy valley, and the town has a population of more than 12,000, with six schools and twelve churches.

In the shadow of Kings mountain lies the big textile center of Gastonia and the county is known as the combed yarn manufacturing center of America. In the town and suburbs are forty-three plants employing 9,000 persons. More spread out into the county, with a weekly pay roll under full operation of $300,000. One-third of the people are engaged in agriculture, with products worth $2,000,000 a year.

[The seventh article of this series, which will appear soon, will be about the lost state of Franklin and its old capital.]

ATTORNEY'S HOME LOOTED.

B. G. Stackhouse, an attorney, reported yesterday that burglars broke into his apartment at 8147 Maryland avenue Saturday night and stole a pair of antique onyx earrings, two .22 calibre revolvers, rifle, lether brief case, hunting knife, and a duplicate set of house keys.

SLOT MACHINES CUT OFF; PEORIA TREASURY BARE

Mayor and Councilmen to Act in Fiscal Crisis.

Peoria, Ill., Jan. 29.—[Special.]—Mayor David McCluggage and the city council finance committee will meet tomorrow night to consider action on Peoria's empty treasury. Slot machine racketeers kept treasury in funds from 1935 until the spring of 1938.

Mayor McCluggage. [A. P. Photo.]

Since last spring, when slot machines were put out of Peoria after a Democratic factional split, the city has been borrowing the banks refuse from banks. Now to lend any more because the city has no revenue in sight with which to pay the loans.

Peoria became faced with a money shortage in July, 1935, when the state vehicle tax law was amended to prevent collection of the $4 tax formerly assessed. The amendment, which became law in January, 1936, was so drafted as to affect Peoria only and no other city in the state.

Racketeers See Opportunity.

The state law which authorizes collection of the tax was changed by the insertion of an exception prohibiting collection of the tax in cities of more than 100,000 population and less than 200,000. Peoria's population is 105,000—the second largest in the state.

Representative Leo Crowley, a Republican, was credited with having obtained the amendment. Mayor McCluggage, a Democrat, also was in the legislature at the time.

Slot machine racketeers saw in the city's loss of legal revenue a golden opportunity. They offered to make up the deficit in return for freedom to operate unmolested.

A deal was made under which the racketeers were to contribute $1,500 a month instead of paying fines, despite the protests of magistrates over the loss of court costs. The amount paid to the city was later increased to $8,000 a month.

Party Split in Primary.

When the primary campaign was started last spring one Democratic faction favored heeding the demands of the Ministerial association and other organizations for the elimination of slot machines. The party was split and the machines finally disappeared from the city and county.

A saloon keeper was murdered late in December. A few weeks later his close friend, Anton J. Miller, was shot to death when he stepped from the garage in the rear of his home. The killings were attributed to some phase of gambling and slot machine activities.

John E. Cassidy, a resident of Peoria, became attorney general of the state last Nov. 23. He demanded a solution of the Miller killing and sent T. P. Sullivan, head of the state bureau of investigation, to Peoria to investigate. Miller was found to have been the locksmith who made keys used by slot machine hijackers in other parts of the state.

By this time Cassidy was thoroughly aroused against slot machine racketeers. He obtained the support of Acting Governor John Stelle.

Stelle ordered Walter Williams, chief of the state police and also a native of Peoria, to use his force of 350 men against the slot machine racket throughout the state. Sheriffs throughout the state were warned to get busy and slot machines disappeared all over the state within the last week.

EXPECTS '39 TO BE RECORD YEAR FOR TOURING BUSINESS

Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor club, told 700 employés in the Palmer House yesterday that 1939 would see the greatest mass travel movement in history.

"The touring business will top the four and a half billion dollar mark established last year," said Mr. Hayes. "Our duty is to give every assistance to this business, the third largest industry in the country. The building of rural deathproof highways and elevated highways in metropolitan areas would be of tremendous help to the travel business in saving lives and in saving time."

Other speakers were William Gerwe, oil company executive; J. H. Braun, secretary and general counsel of the club; Joseph J. Cavanagh, general manager, and G. W. Cavanagh, sales manager. Those attending the meeting, the club's annual convention, came from ninety-six counties in Illinois and Indiana.

2 ATTEMPT TOUR ON A SHOESTRING AND LAND IN JAIL

Two transients tried to finance a taxicab tour on a shoestring yesterday. The tour ended in jail. They found a Yellow cab in the loop, its engine running and the driver nowhere in sight.

"Where to?" asked Philip Dolsky, 38, seating himself at the wheel.

"North, my good man," said Paul Pankroff, 26. They proceeded north. When they got to Libertyville, the cab ran out of gasoline.

From a pocket of his ragged coat Dolsky produced two packages of shoestrings. He went into a restaurant to peddle them for gasoline money.

The proprietor called Policeman Joseph Samm. The tour was over.

PURSE SNATCHER GETS $500 BONDS.

Miss Josephine Garvey, about 55 years old, of 1405 Elmwood avenue, Evanston, reported to Evanston police last night that a colored youth stole her purse, containing $6 in cash and $500 in bonds, at Elmwood avenue and Greenwood boulevard.

CHARGES 2 STATE POLICE WINK AT SLOT MACHINES

Sherif Elmer J. Hoffman of Du Page county said yesterday he would ask State's Attorney Russell W. Keeney for an opinion as to what action can be taken against two state highway policemen who permitted operation of slot machines at the Glen Oak Country club in Glen Ellyn.

Deputies Charles G. Pratt and Michael Krause confiscated three machines early Sunday during a President's Birthday ball given by Wheaton and Glen Ellyn residents. They said the state policemen, in uniform, were looking on with apparent enjoyment, but making no move to halt the play at the machines.

Hoffman said he had the policemen's star numbers, but would not disclose their identity until he gets Keeney's opinion.

A survey of north shore suburbs showed that slot machines were clicking as usual. Last Thursday and Friday there were "out of order" signs on the heavier machines. These had been removed for the week-end trade.

BLONDE '26' GIRL BEATEN IN ROOM; NAMES ATTACKER

Mrs. Betty Martin, platinum blonde who was acquitted a few years ago of a charge of murdering her husband, was seriously beaten early yesterday in her room at 817 Lakeside place. She suffered a skull fracture, and is in the Lakeview hospital.

She told police during moments of consciousness that a man struck her during a quarrel. She gave his name, and he is being sought. Mrs. Martin is 35 years old, and employed as a "26" girl. She has been using her first husband's name—Parker—according to police.

Mrs. Martin shot and killed her husband, Andrew Martin, a former handbook operator, on April 9, 1936. At her trial she told a story of having been long abused by her husband. The jury found she was temporarily insane at the shooting.

Good Morning!

Stories about the French penal colony are always popping up. Some ring the bell. Some don't. The one on the Garrick screen is a grim little chronicle that manages to hold your shuddering interest, principally because of Boris Karloff's fine work.

He portrays with strength, intensity, restraint, and appeal, a doctor who, during the war, had aided a wounded, escaped prisoner in France, been arrested, convicted of treason, and sentenced to Devil's Island.

After suffering all sorts of tortures, inflicted under the order of Col. Lucien, head of the prison who, with other officials, is engaged in grafting from the government, he and other convicts are helped to escape by Madame Lucien. For Dr. Gaudet has saved the life of her child, and she is not one to forget.

The fugitives are saved! . . . Ironic this! . . . By the crew of a convict ship, on its way to the island with a group of new prisoners. . . . But, though Gaudet and his companions don't know it, also on the boat is the new head of colonies—a just and honest man, who hears Gaudet's tale and later works great changes on the island. . . . The finale is all that the observer could wish for.

Fine supporting bits are contributed by Robert Warwick, Charles Richman, and Nedda Harrigan. . . . Atmosphere and backgrounds are what the story demands.

See you tomorrow.

Film Folk Dress Up in Gay '90s Attire for Bergen's Party

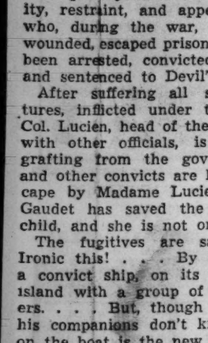
Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 29.—(AP)—Weber and Fields and John L. Sullivan and David Belasco and countless chorines in skimpy skirts and stagedoor Johnnies in brown derbies helped Edgar Bergen celebrate "something or other" until an early hour this morning.



Tyrone Power as Weber.
[A. P. Wirephoto.]

The celebrities and lesser lights of the gay nineties were depicted by Hollywoodites who gathered in the ballroom of a hotel which had been converted into "Bergen's music hall." It was the year's first big costume party and once again proved that even actors like to pretend they are people they are not.

Tyrone Power covered his famous nose with a gob of putty, his dimpled chin with a pointed goatee, and his slick locks with a yellow wig. He was Weber of the old stage team and a friend portrayed Fields. Power said he had been wanting to dress up thus all his life.

Betty Grable, Martha Raye, Dorothy Lamour, Mrs. Harold Lloyd, Sari Maritza, and Miriam Hopkins were some of the short skirted chorus girls.

Bergen didn't bring Charlie McCarthy to the party. He had a black faced dummy who explained that Charlie doesn't believe in late hours.

Power Receives Crown.

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 29.—[Special.]—With his mother in the audience in a radio studio in Hollywood, Tyrone Power tonight received the Chicago Tribune-New York News Syndicate crown testifying to the fact that he had been elected 1939 movie king. The presentation was made by Ed Sullivan.

Whole Feminine World Turns to Jackets; Colors Are Rampant

BY RHEA SEEGER.

The whole world, it seems, is wearing jackets. If you ever had any such wild idea as dressing without a jacket just forget it. Jackets and more jackets are arriving daily.

Absurdly short jackets top crisp underdresses made with trim plaited skirt and a simple blouse top. Prints of every description are being cooled down by a topper of thin wool, usually cut like a bolero. There are tailored short boleros and fascinating new feminine affairs edged with old-fashioned quilting, fluting ruffles or plaits.

You can't escape the jacket craze even if you wanted to do such a silly thing. Plaids, as bright as any you ever dreamed of, are ready for the shears of the sewing shoppers and also appear in the ready to wear models. Huge, blinding color effects are as plentiful as the less abandoned patterns. There are some neat little hound's tooth designs in scarlet, green and black and gold. Stripes in vertical lines are another way of getting jacket contrast.

Color rages rampant; there's a promise of a fine early spring favor for dark blue, black, brown and dark green dresses.

Smart as a new paint job are the short, young looking, plaited all the way round skirts worn with these short jackets and boleros. Short or long sleeves and curved edges or straight lines mark the newest boleros or jackets and the combination simply can't be beaten if you want that much to be desired crisp, fresh appearance.

Details such as padded initials, monograms, quilted frontispieces, cuffs, spanking white narrow collars and cuffs of pique [also in pale pastels] provide additional lure for the spenders hunting for something fresh, new and eternally young. Buy jackets now for wear under your winter coat; you can use them later for spring wear, with or without furs.

Elman, in 30th Year, Displays Early Virtues

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Mischa Elman's recital at the Civic Opera house yesterday afternoon possessed the musical interest which always attaches to his appearances here. In addition there were two other considerations which doubtless had their effect on the enthusiasm of his large audience.

In the first place this '38-'39 tour of the great Russian violinist marks the thirtieth anniversary of his first American appearance. In the second place, Mr. Elman is donating the proceeds of this year's concerts to three organizations—Jewish, Catholic, and Protestant—which are doing welfare work for German refugees.

To turn from the personal and humanitarian aspects of the tour to its purely musical considerations, Elman displays after thirty years before the American public the very virtues which first won him recognition and which have kept his name to the fore through all these decades. There is the Elman tone, sensuously beautiful in high degree and capable of the most amazing variety of tint. There are his excellent rhythmic sense and his dazzling agility.

In Lalo's Symphonie Espagnole and a miscellany of shorter things, Mr. Elman played yesterday with an urgency of feeling and a magnificent maturity of style that won one burst of applause after another from his listeners. An encore group that began with the Schubert "Ave Maria" followed the recital proper.

In an afternoon dominated by gifted Russians, young Vitya Vronsky and Victor Babin played their two pianos at the Auditorium theater and helped to confirm the good impression which they made last season in two appearances here.

Opening with the Saint-Saëns Variations on a Beethoven theme [the minuet of the E flat sonata, Opus 31, No. 3], these two well integrated pianists gave a performance bright with rhythmic verve and with aptly calculated tonal effects. In Debussy's "En Blanc et Noir," which followed, Vronsky and Babin achieved in the slow movement a subdued glow and in the Scherzando a brilliant glitter.

A Rachmaninoff suite found the pianists able to encompass both the mournful melodic curves of the Romance and the headlong sonority of the Tarentelle. A big audience applauded cordially.

PRESENT BRAHMS RARITY

BY CECIL SMITH.

Nowhere in all his music did Brahms discover a nobler mood of elevation and serenity than in the rarely performed "Rhapsody" for contralto solo, male chorus and orchestra, written to Goethe's "Harzreise im Winter." For the first time in more than five years this great work received a Chicago hearing in the Illinois Symphony orchestra concert at the Great Northern theater yesterday afternoon. The vocal parts were sung by Maurine Parzybok, contralto soloist of the Fourth Presbyterian church, and an octet of male voices from the Illinois Philharmonic choir. Izler Solomon conducted.

Miss Parzybok's grasp of the music has deepened immensely since she first sang it at the University of Chicago in 1933. On the emotional side her performance has gained in warmth, and on the musical in continuity and development. Her singing was beautiful and touching; it needed only a brighter vocal resonance to become forceful.

Mr. Solomon and the orchestra also gave an adept and penetrating reading of the Fourth [and last] Symphony of Albert Roussel. In more conservative vein than the Third Symphony, the work proved both rugged and inviting and should be added to the regular symphonic repertoire.

Items by Gretry, Gluck, and Jarnefelt were also on the list. Robert Sanders' barn dance, "Saturday Night," was so infectious that the audience demanded a repetition.

To open the second Civic orchestra concert in Orchestra hall yesterday afternoon Hans Lange conducted a prelude, "Christmas," by Martin Dumler of Cincinnati. The composer is president of the Bruckner Society of America. His prelude evokes memories of both Bruckner and Karg-Elert, subjecting familiar Christmas songs to a sonorous romantic treatment.

An overcrowded calendar kept me from hearing Eugenia Buxton play the Tschaikowsky Concerto with the orchestra. She returns for a solo recital in Orchestra hall Feb. 12.

With the occasional assistance of a group, Frances Allis danced in the Goodman theater yesterday. Her body is responsive to many demands of modern technique. As yet her compositions are weak and chaotic, both in their basic ideas and in the ordering of the movements she chooses to employ.

Next Vassar Benefit Party to Be Feb. 10

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Honors for the biggest hat at a barn dance at the Vassar House restaurant last week went to Miss Marie Stevenson, daughter of the Robert D. Stevensons of Evanston. The dance was the first of a series of parties arranged by a large committee of young people. The next one, to be given on Feb. 10, will be an amateur night. The restaurant is conducted for the benefit of the Vassar scholarship fund.

King Carol's Scholarships.

During his talk before the Council of Foreign Relations Saturday, R. H. Bruce Lockhart said that Carol of Rumania is, or was, at least, pro-British and pro-American, but more pro-British than pro-American. The reason: In his youth Carol financed the education of fifteen Rumanian youths, arranging scholarships from his personal funds that enabled them to study in England and America. Seven were sent to England and eight to the United States. The ones sent to England returned to Rumania after completing their term of study and now occupy important posts there. The ones sent to America—stayed there.

Reflective Note.

"Have you stopped to consider," asks Harry Little, "that former President Benes will lecture at the University of Chicago on the Walgreen fund to promote Americanism, while Northwestern university grants refugee scholarships with money from the Lindgren Foundation to promote international amity?"

Spiritual and Material Warfare.

A taxi driver, humming happily as he drove, turned to his fare to say, "Do you know what I've got in my pocket? A balcony ticket to hear Toscanini at the Auditorium next Tuesday night. Am I going to scalp on that! I'll double my money." Then he added thoughtfully, "But I hope nobody offers me anything for it. I'd like to go myself."

Our favorite of the many Toscanini stories, brought to mind by the fact that the maestro and his men arrive tomorrow morning and reherse tomorrow afternoon for the Passavant benefit concert tomorrow night, is the one vouched for by Radio City folk. During a rehersal Toscanini broke his watch that had been given him by the New York Philharmonic. Becoming angry, probably at a sour note from the oboe player, he dashed the timepiece to the floor and stamped on it. John Royal of NBC quietly assembled the pieces and two days later delivered the watch, repaired, to Toscanini. In the package were two inexpensive watches inscribed, "For rehersals only."

Poets' Academy Head Guest at Tea Tomorrow

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE guarantors, regular subscribers and contributors to the magazine Poetry have been invited to tea at Mr. and Mrs. William S. Monroe's from 4 until 7 o'clock tomorrow to meet Mrs. Hugh Bullock of New York. Mrs. Bullock is president of the Academy of American Poets.

Although Mr. and Mrs. Monroe have not met their guest, she was a good friend of Mr. Monroe's sister, the late Miss Harriet Monroe, founder and editor of Poetry. Like Miss Monroe, who was known as the "patron saint of American poets," Mrs. Bullock is starting young in life to champion the cause of poetry. The organization she heads raises money for fellowships for poets.

Young Leader Attains Success with Benefits.

Mrs. Bullock is on her way home from California. George Dillon, the present editor of Poetry, and the many poets and friends of the magazine who will meet her during her four hour stopover in Chicago undoubtedly will be astonished to find a really young person. In spite of her tender years Mrs. Bullock successfully has sponsored big entertainments in New York to raise funds for the academy, and she heads a committee to choose a poet laureate for the New York world's fair.

Formerly Marie Leontine Graves of New York, Mrs. Bullock is a cousin of former Gov. Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania. She and Mr. Bullock were married in April, 1933, and a month later she was presented at the court of St. James's at the third court of the season. Two former Chicagoans were presented at that same court, Mrs. Lawrence Gardner of London, the former May Stillwell, daughter of the late Mrs. Charles Glidden Osborne [May Peabody of Chicago], and Miss Katherine Parker, daughter of Maj. Gen. Frank Parker, who at that time was commander of the 6th corps area, and Mrs. Parker.

Congratulations to the James R. Bremners for arranging one of the cleverest surprise parties of the season, and congratulations to the Alfred W. Mansfields, the "surprisees," for being surprised. The party was arranged for yesterday noon at the Columbia Yacht club, and the 100 guests had cocktails and brunch [breakfast-lunch] successfully kept the secret the Bremners entrusted to them in rhymed invitations that were sent out two weeks ago.

Every one was asked to wear cruise clothes for the make believe sailing. Fortunately the club is heated and has a wood burning fireplace, so silks

A Stranger in the Dark

By Frank R. Adams

(Copyright: 1939: By Frank R. Adams.)

SYNOPSIS.

The hero, pursued by Detective Mike Clancy, is stopped in a Chicago railway depot by a young man, apparently dying, who gives him his wallet and baggage check to get him his medicine. He gets the sick man's bags, then, seeing the man being carried away on a stretcher, he uses the man's ticket, and is on his way to Clovis, N. M., as John Bowman—an innocent fugitive, having taken the blame for missing bank funds to save his father. Before reaching Clovis he confesses his identity to Sheriff Tom Johnson, who boards th train to welcome John Bowman, whose father, Pete Bowman, is dying and longs to see the son separated from him by divorce since babyhood. The sheriff persuades him to take on the rôle. John's sister, Mary, and her fiancé, Charles Ferdinand, manager of her father's ranch, meet him in Amarillo and fly him to the ranch in Charles' plane. Mrs. Lodge, wife of Pete's physician and guest, is with them. Our hero falls instantly in love with Mary and dislikes Charles, a handsome show-off, who is the pet of Pete's sister, Matilda, who had loved Charles' father. The hero meets paralyzed old Pete Bowman, kept a virtual prisoner by Matilda. Pete asks hi to stay and help Mary, and gives him his guns. Charles is carrying on an affair with Mrs. Lodge and even Dr. Lodge knows about it. In the middle of the night Pete sends his nurse for "John" and has him open the safe and burn a paper. When Matilda finds him there she fires the nurse.

INSTALLMENT XIX.

THE WEDDING DAY.

Mrs. Lodge was dressed in an expensive and charming filmy negligee—deep rose with maribou cape-collar and cuffs of the same color.

As she entered she looked anxiously at Charles. "What's the matter?" she said, and it seemed to me that she directed her question at the ranch manager.

But it was her husband who answered. "The trouble is not exactly what you expected, my dear, and it concerns you only indirectly. We're having a little of our usual nurse difficulty and I need your help."

Mrs. Lodge went to her husband's side. "I'm sorry I took so long to get here. I just couldn't seem to wake up. I can hardly keep my eyes open now. But, of course, I'll be glad to do anything I can."

"I knew you would, dear." The doctor took his wife's hand and pressed it against his cheek. "Your fingers are as cold as ice, darling."

"Just nervousness, I guess."

Doctor Lodge reached his hand up inside the wide, flowing sleeve of her negligee and touched her under her arm. "Your body, too is chilled—just as if you had been in the water."

Without moving her head she shot a swift glance at Charles Ferdinand.

"I—er—took a shower after Mary called me—to wake up, you know."

I looked covertly at Mary. She caught the question and shook her head imperceptibly. Mrs. Lodge had not had a shower while Mary waited for her.

But I had known that anyway.

Mrs. Lodge, however, smiled blissfully on. She was glad to be of service and eager to stay up the rest of the night with Mr. Bowman.

Charles was the only one who protested. "We have no right to ask Mrs. Lodge to lose her sleep on our account."

"No?" Dr. Lodge didn't look at him, but I saw him smile to himself.

"Eatin' breakfast with me ain't goin' to make you particular popular."

"Charles, I think you rush in where angels have singed their wings. Thanks for not wanting to keep my wife awake, but I'm sure she's so thoroughly alert now that she wouldn't sleep anyway. Besides, she'll be interested in this case. It just happens that she's a damn good nurse."

When I got to my room dawn was lighting the sky—the dawn of Mary's wedding day.

I don't care much about sleep which was very fortunate because in a few hours guests began arriving for the wedding. These were the local gentry, such rancher neighbors as were on speaking terms with the Bowmans, which necessarily limited their numbers considerably, townspeople from Clovis and Amarillo and a few belated friends who came in on the morning train. In addition there were lots of Indians from several of the nearby reservations.

Long wooden tables and bench seats were being arranged in the patio of the old ranch house. Apparently refreshments were going to be served to the wedding party. It looked to me like a hot place to eat but I didn't see what else could be done about it. One of the things the ranch was lacking in was shade.

On the slope which led to the new red-granite house that was to be Charles' and Mary's home, a temporary altar was being erected and decorated with Spanish draperies and flowers. The wedding was going to take place there out in the open. That had an unmistakable circus touch which stamped it as Charles' idea—sort of like being married in the lions' cage.

I went into the ranch dining hall for breakfast. Only a few of the regular guests were there. I surmised that most of them, including my own darling (by proxy), Josephine, were being served in their bungalows.

At one of the smaller tables was Sherif Tom Johnson. I sat down opposite him.

He grinned at me. "Surprised to see me here, ain't yuh? I wasn't invited none too cordial, but I knew Pete would want me to be on hand. Besides my curiosity kind of overcome me. How you makin' it so far, son?"

"All right, I guess."

"Eatin' breakfast with me ain't goin' to make you particular popular with Aunt Matilda and Charles."

"I'm not anyway."

"But Mary likes yuh—and Pete?"

"Yes."

"I thought they would. I'm goin' in to see Pete if they'll let me."

"If you do," I warned him, "be careful what you say. There's a dictograph right alongside of his bed."

"A dicto-what?"

"A dictograph—a sort of a microphone rigged up so that whatever you tell Mr. Bowman can be heard by anybody listening in the next room."

"Well, I'll just nacherally be plumb damned. Does Pete know about it?"

"Yes. He told me—by signs, of course. I don't believe they think he knows, though."

"Bet it was put in special for your benefit. And the old coot found out about it!"

"I wonder why they wanted to know what I'd say to him."

"Because they're scared of yuh—that's why. I knew they didn't like it when he insisted on your comin' home for the weddin.'"

"Why not?"

"You might complicate things. If Pete takes a shine to yuh——" He stopped and lowered his voice. "By golly, that's it. They're afraid he might make a new will, replacin' the one they've probably got him to to sign, disinheritin' yuh and leavin' everything to Mary—which is the same as Charles."

"What difference does it make? A will favoring John Bowman wouldn't mean a thing. You're forgetting that I'm not Pete's son."

"I pretty near did. You ought to be him anyway."

All this conversation took place between visits from the distracted waitress who served us indifferently well, her mind doubtless on the hundred extra duties of the day.

When she had gone for the last time Sherif Johnson regarded me soberly. "In a way I'm sorry I helped to force yuh into this. If they think Pete likes yuh too much, yuh may be in a spot."

"It's all right, Tom. I'm glad I took a hand."

"Mary is a sweet girl, ain't she?"

He wasn't kidding me. His mind was just traveling ahead, that's all.

"Yes," I admitted, "one of the nicest I've ever known."

"Too bad yuh ain't goin' to know her better."

That startled me a little. This man was too shrewd. I thought I'd better shut him up. "Listen, Tom, things like that don't happen. I said I liked Mary—not that she cared anything about me."

"She does, though. I've already talked to her this morning. She don't know what ails her, of course, but I never did see a girl so took with her own brother before. Something ought to be did."

"What could I or anybody do now?"

"I dunno." Tom chewed reflectively on a piece of bacon. "When I was younger there was a schoolmarm down Santa Rosa way—but maybe that ain't the same kind of a case. Besides she finally married another feller anyhow."

I laughed at him, which was what I think he intended. "You're a lot of help, Tom. If you'll excuse me," I got up, "I'll go and see if I can scare up some clothes that'll do for the ceremony. I'm to give the bride away, you know."

Most of us have our own favorite recipes for yeast rolls of the common garden variety. But now and then we'd like to try a different type, the hard roll or a simply made "fancy" one such as orange yeast muffins. Good recipes for these aren't easy to find, but I believe that I have discovered two excellent ones which are easy to follow.

Hard Rolls.
[Two dozen.]

1 cake compressed yeast
¼ cup lukewarm water
1 teaspoon salt
¼ cup sugar
2 tablespoons butter or butter and lard
1 cup boiling water
4 cups sifted bread flour

Crumble yeast into lukewarm water. Put salt, sugar, and butter into a bowl and pour boiling water over them. Cool to lukewarm. Add softened yeast and beat in the flour. Knead lightly for five minutes. Put dough in greased bowl, cover, and let rise in a warm place until doubled in bulk. Shape the dough into long rolls by rolling with the palm of the hand on a lightly floured board. Cut into four inch lengths. With a sharp knife make a slight gash lengthwise in the top of each roll. This will spread apart somewhat in rising. Place rolls two inches or more apart on greased baking sheet and let rise until very light. Brush with butter. Bake in a slow oven, 300 degrees, for forty minutes. Increase heat to 375 degrees and bake ten minutes longer.

BRAIDED POPPYSEED ROLLS.

After dough has risen until doubled, roll it to a fourth inch in thickness on a lightly floured board. Cut into strips four inches long and one-half inch wide and braid together, three strips for each roll. Brush over with egg white diluted with water, sprinkle with poppyseeds, let rise until very light, and bake according to directions given in the previous recipe.

Dough may be rolled into three long strips, which may be braided together and cut into rolls with scissors. In any case, it is important to press edges together well so that they do not become unbraided.

Raised Orange Muffins.
[Fifteen.]

1 cup orange juice
½ cup sugar
¼ cup melted butter or other shortening
1 cake compressed yeast
¼ cup lukewarm water
1 egg
2 tablespoons finely chopped candied orange peel
1½ teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon nutmeg or mace
4 cups sifted bread flour

Combine strained orange juice, sugar, and melted shortening. Soften yeast in lukewarm water and add to the other mixture. Add beaten egg, orange peel, salt, and nutmeg or mace. Add about half the flour and beat mixture until smooth. Add the rest of the flour and mix to a stiff batter. Drop by spoonfuls into greased, deep muffin pans. Cover and let rise in a warm place until very light. Bake at 425 degrees for twenty minutes.

Buns may be made by rolling pieces of the dough into smooth balls with the hands buttered. These then may be placed close together in a greased bread pan to let rise.

Home Is Ideal Play Place for the Youngster

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.
[Copyright: 1939: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

Home as a fascinating playground—this was the subject of yesterday's talk. It was aimed at showing mothers, if they hadn't already discovered it, that just the ordinary furnishings and equipment of a home can provide interesting and enjoyable occupation for children.

There was not quite space enough to include all the ideas that came to mind for indoor winter days. Here are the remaining ones:

For the older boys permission to use some of the hardier chairs, the more utilitarian pillows, and old blankets which can be made into caves and tents will provide lots of excitement. A flashlight or a small electric lamp and a book, or some "eats" will be the final touch for the pirates or the desperadoes cast on a desert isle who are hiding in their caves!

Then there is "dressing up." The boys, of course, will have a propensity for pillows stuffed into their fronts, but the girls are for more esthetic effects! They can have hilarious afternoons with a few "properties," as the actors say. But they have to be the right age to enjoy this special form of entertainment, and the right temperament, too.

Then there is this last of all: Water, my especial favorite. So many things can be made on it and in it and with it. There is the bath tub for sailing boats and the kitchen faucet and sink for other aquatic sports. Little sailboats can be made in many ways. A half inch slice from a large cork makes a seaworthy vessel. The mast can be either a darning needle, a large pin, or a beheaded match. The sail will be a piece of colored paper. Or a boat can be made of a small piece of wood, or a square of paper folded [a trick I suppose we all know]. A little imagination will do the rest.

These are only a few of the possibilities of pastimes to be found in any home, however humble. You probably know many more and your children can devise still others. Let them do it, even if it does mean bother, confusion, and work for you, for it tends to make them resourceful and imaginative and able to accommodate themselves to their surroundings. Even the young ones can be taught to be somewhat helpful, too, in clearing up.

Of course, I am not belittling their toys; they should have plenty of the right kind, but there is richness in the contents of a home that can satisfy many phases of the child's desire to play, and through playing to learn manual dexterity and muscular control, creative imaginative play, inventiveness—all those things which the modern toys are especially designed to inculcate and develop.

Incidentally, many of these suggestions are a blessing when one has a convalescent child. I have seen a child play for hours in bed with a little salt on a sheet and a spoon and cup, or making little boats, or tidying up a sewing box. It will help a child during those trying days to be more self-sufficient, and that in turn will shorten the period after an illness when he continues to want to be the center of the universe, the hub of your wheel, and the exacting apple of your eye!

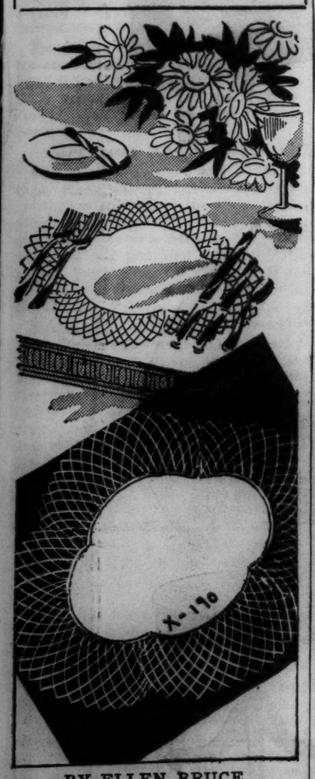
Crochet Edging Lends Ethereal Effect to Doilies



BY ELLEN BRUCE.

Those who love the effect of ethereal beauty in luncheon doilies could do no better than to crochet this lovely edging around a circle of sheer white linen. It is a simple process requiring only a few minutes, and the result lasts virtually a lifetime. Only the finest white mercerized crochet cotton is used for this set of doilies, and the mesh stitch is the quickest and simplest of patterns.

For instructions for crocheting the mesh edging for the luncheon cloth, No. X-190, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 5th avenue, New York City.

Two Attractive Aprons

WOMAN'S AND MISS' APRONS.

We're assuming today and, we think, correctly, that no woman can have too many aprons. Even if she is a business person and spends a limited amount of time at home, she does have her occasions to entertain. For every household task, no matter how small, one must wear an apron. Today's pattern presentation includes two particularly lovely designs.

Sketched at the left is a coverall that fastens at the front waistline, the tabs having been brought around from the back. The neckline is round and rather high. The armholes are deep enough for comfort without sacrificing any of the essential covering. Two pockets may be used on the skirt, if you like. This apron may be bound with bias trimming or given a rickrack braid finish. Embroidery, as illustrated, is another attractive idea. The delicate pattern is No. E-757, available for ten cents extra.

The other apron has a ruffled collar and equally feminine pockets. The trimming should be in contrast to the body of the apron, which has a dainty shirred bodice and a flared skirt. A voluminous sash ties in back. Both plain shades and prints are effective mediums.

Style No. 2032 is designed for sizes small, medium, and large. The medium size requires 1¾ yards of 35 inch material.

Style No. 2034 is designed for sizes small, medium, and large. The medium size requires 1⅛ yards of 39 inch material, with ⅝ yard of 35 inch contrasting.

Each pattern costs ten cents.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central Station, NEW YORK CITY, inclosing ten cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

Grandmas, 33 to 85, Swing Lively Ankles in a Minstrel Show

Chicago grandmothers can still swing a mean ankle. This was demonstrated for the edification of 600 friends and relatives yesterday at the minstrel show of the Grandmothers' Club of Chicago in the Morrison hotel.

For downright scandalous conduct Mrs. Grace A. Gray, president of the club, stole the show with a gold sequin and red feather creation in a Mae West number. But Mrs. Gray is only 52 years old. The oldest in the ensemble was Mrs. Rosetta Storey, 85, dressed as a colored mammy, and Mrs. Emma Thomas, 81, cut quite a figure dressed as one of the Dionne quintuplets. The youngest grandmother present was Mrs. Ethel L. Burton, 33, club secretary.

For talent, Mrs. Annabelle Whitford Buchan, 60, had something of an edge, for she was the original Gibson bathing girl in the first Ziegfeld Follies, in 1907. She sang the song again yesterday, but didn't wear the bathing suit.

The Housewife

A great help to the home laundress is a new product, a liquid, ready to use starch. It comes put up in a generous sized bottle and needs to be diluted, nothing more. You do not boil it.

For heavy starching use six parts of water to one part of the liquid starch; for medium starching use eight to ten parts of water, and for light stiffening you can dilute it with ten to twelve parts of water. There is no waste, for any leftover diluted starch can be kept in a bottle till another time. EDITH WEIGLE.

Music Club Federation Leaders to Meet Today

and linens were entirely comfortable. The Bremners' son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Bremner Jr., returned from a holiday in Pasadena just in time for the party. They were disappointed that because of rehersals Mr. and Mrs. Onslow Stevens and Miss Cornelia Otis Skinner were not able to be present. Mrs. Bremner Jr. worked with Mr. Stevens at the Pasadena Community playhouse, where she and Mr. Bremner met.

The Mansfields are sailing Feb. 14 in the Kungsholm for a cruise to South America. They are going to New York this week. The Bremners' daughter, Mrs. Cushman Bissell, is leaving today for California. Her parents will go west in a few weeks.

Seventeen men from the Chicago Symphony orchestra, assisted by the Philharmonic String quartet, will give the music series. The next concert will be given on Feb. 27.

Mrs. Quincy Wright, who has just returned from the Pan-American conference at Lima, Peru, will be the principal speaker at the annual foreign policy conference of the Cook County League of Women Voters today at the Chicago Woman's club.

Among those who have made reservations to hear Mrs. Wright are Mrs. Augustus A. Carpenter, Mrs. Wentworth G. Field, Mrs. John Paul Welling, Mrs. Carroll H. Sudler, Mrs. Mitchell D. Follansbee, Mrs. Arthur G. Bissell, Mrs. Cyrus Bentley, and Mrs. Frank Hixon.

Garden Club Lectures Today and Tomorrow.

Every one who is planning her garden will want to attend a three class lecture series on "Landscaping the Small Property" today and tomorrow in the Palmer House. Annette Hoyt Flanders will give the lectures. The Garden Club of Illinois is offering the study program.

At 10:30 o'clock this morning Mrs. Flanders will discuss how the landscape plan for a small property should be worked out. At 2 o'clock this afternoon she will speak on construction, grading, and soil preparation. At tomorrow morning's meeting she will tell how to make a planting plan and plant a small property.

Mrs. Flanders will be a guest of the club at luncheon today. The lectures are free to club members. The guest fee is $1.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1939: By Ely Culbertson.]

Once more I must point out to contestants in the recent examination that they were solemnly warned not to attempt the solution of questions by mere reference to my books. Many questions were purposely devised to "come in between" bidding rules; that is, they did not conform exactly to any of the examples given in the Gold Book. Question 52 is a case in point.

Both sides vulnerable, the bidding proceeds:

East	South	West	North
1 heart	?

You are South and hold:

♠ A J 10 8 ♥ — ♦ A Q J 10 ♣ K Q 10 9 4

What call do you make?

The answer was that South should bid two hearts. I was well aware that this might be considered to conflict with the statement on page 273 of the Gold Book . . . "An overcall in the opponents' suit requires: At least five honor tricks, or freakish distribution, which makes a game both probable and safe, even though partner has no assistance." It is true that South's hand is one full honor trick short of the required five, but certainly his hand is freakish. Moreover, South has every reason to hope for a game in one of his three suits. Actually North may not have a face card, but if he has reasonable length in any of these suits he may easily be able to bring home the required number of tricks.

But that is not the whole story. Suppose I concede that a two heart bid represents a stretch. What of it? It still is, by all odds, the bid that most nearly expresses South's values and potentialities. I do not agree with certain authorities that a takeout double is suitable on a hand such as South's. From long observation I am certain that many of these doubles are left in by the partner with something like K J 9 x x of the adversely bid suit and that the penalty [if any] which is collected does not compensate for the probable lost game. Once more I call readers' attention to the intermediate cards in South's hand and earnestly advise them to pay more attention to tens and nines than apparently they have paid in the past.

TODAY'S HAND.

South, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.
Match-point duplicate.

	NORTH
	♠ 9 7 5 ♥ K J 10 3 ♦ Q J 7 6 ♣ 8 5
WEST		EAST
♠ Q 6 4 ♥ 9 8 ♦ A 10 5 3 2 ♣ 10 7 4		♠ K 10 8 3 2 ♥ 7 4 ♦ 9 4 ♣ 9 6 3 2
	SOUTH ♠ A J ♥ A Q 6 5 2 ♦ K 8 ♣ A K Q J

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 diamond	Pass	1 heart	Pass
2 spades	Pass	3 diamonds	Pass
4 no trump	Pass	5 diamonds	Pass
6 no trump	Double	Pass	Pass
Pass

I do not make a practice of recording psychic bidding, but since readers may, at any time, enter an expert duplicate game or tournament I think it only wise to describe some of the bids that occur at those scenes. Obviously West was gullible enough not only to fall for South's "phony" bidding, but also to be steered away from the lead [a spade] that would have wrecked the contract. The average player may find himself up against this type of bidding whenever he ventures into the higher brackets and therefore I had better point out the signs by which such psychic bidding can be detected. West should have known, as soon as South's diamond bid was repeatedly raised by North, that the opening bid had been an effort to forestall a diamond lead. That being true, what was more likely than that South's next bid, spades, was an identical effort? Note that South's last two bids [four no trump, then six no trump] were proof that South had intended all along to play the hand at no trump. That being so, why should he have mentioned a spade suit unless he was trying to give false information? Experts do not give anything away willingly, hence the overwhelming assumption was that South would not have bid spades and thereby warned the opening leader against a spade lead if South really had held a good spade suit.

If West had reasoned as above and had opened a low spade, declarer would have found himself with a fat zero on the board instead of the absolute top that he actually made against West's choice of an opening heart lead. Incidentally, of course, six hearts would have been cold.

Chicago Church Federation Will Honor W. R. Mee

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

The Chicago Church federation proclaimed as the largest city association of free churches in the nation, if not the world, will celebrate the 20th anniversary of the leadership of Walter R. Mee, executive secretary, at a meeting today in Central Y. M. C. A., 19 South La Salle street. The federation represents 1,060 churches of twenty denominations.

Walter R. Mee.

One of the major developments during 1938, Mr. Mee said, was the admission into federation membership of the Polish National Catholic church. Virtually every type of ecclesiastical polity is now represented in the federation, Mr. Mee said.

Officers will be elected and annual reports made at the meeting today. Dr. Albert W. Palmer will retire as president after the customary two year term. The Rev. Dr. Ralph Wakefield, vice president, is expected to be named his successor. Dr. Wakefield is pastor of Irving Park Methodist church, Keeler avenue and Grace street, and if elected will be the third Methodist leader to head the organization since its founding 31 years ago.

Dr. Wakefield was chairman of the commission on evangelism which conducted the streamlined revival in the national preaching mission two years ago.

Dr. Palmer's report as retiring president praises the twenty years of leadership of Mr. Mee.

"Probably few years in the federation's history have witnessed such perfection of the federation's structure and program," reads the report. "It has been a year when a prominent clergyman said, 'When I think of the present standing of the federation and contrast it with the situation nineteen years ago when Mr. Mee became secretary, I am both amazed and stimulated.'

"There were then two employés of the federation, now there are eighteen, nine on the general staf and nine serving in public institutions."

The report of the treasurer, Roy E. Marquardt, prepared for today, shows expenditures of $50,046 during 1938, principally for Christian education, social service, and social work in the Boys' court.

Hand Grace Is One Result of Ballet Dancing

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.
[Copyright: 1939: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

It's amazing the way interest in the dance is growing. We speak more of the ballet type of dance than the ordinary ballroom dancing.

More and more appeal goes out to parents to have their children allied with dancing in the progressive form. If the girls never reach stardom, nor have any inclination themselves to adopt the dance as their career, they are promised certain beauty rewards that cannot be denied. Recently we have run into a number of the professionals and dancers of more or less nonprofessional attainment. We are reimpressed with the qualities of poise and grace with which students of the dance carry their bodies and use their hands. It is in this latter graceful feature especially we see the fine work accomplished by dance instructions.

Only when you see hands used with great grace and beauty do you begin to think of how hopelessly inadequate your own may be. When you see hands used in beautifully curved gestures, you wish yours were not so angularly, awkwardly moved. But here is a field in which one may accomplish much for herself if the ballet dance work is out of the question. We doubt if it will be accomplished as effectively without the training of the body, too, included in the development of a dancer. But then the majority of us has to be content with a good imitation in a number of departments if a whole hearted career is not within our opportunities.

This, we might say, applies to voice, to carrying clothes like a divinely perfect professional model, and so on. We would be better for dramatic voice training. We would wear clothes more beautifully did our jobs depend upon it—but, as said, by a good imitation of the correct and graceful thing, many women manage effects sufficient for their needs. By concentrating on a feature, such as the use of hands, say, you observe what is ugly, at least, and avoid it.

"If you look powdered, you're in bad taste," says Antoinette Donnelly in her booklet, "Makeup Magic." Learn the makeup secrets which can enhance your beauty. Get a copy of this booklet today. THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Sometimes we think the romantic, exotic note is stressed too much where perfumes are concerned. Not that we don't love perfumes of charm and romance. We do. But only for the appropriate occasions and costumes.

Certainly the girl who's going to work at a desk all day doesn't want to douse herself of a morning with a heavy, languid perfume. Her boss wouldn't want her to, either! But being feminine, she does like to use some scent. The right kind of a scent makes her feel fresher and fortifies her poise. We can't explain why this is so, but it is, as you probably know.

Looking about for a fragrance that was far removed from the exotic school but feminine and fresh AND appropriate for every day use during the daily grind, we found a cologne that is just what lots of working girls have been looking for.

The perfume of it is fresh, in good taste, and really delightful—the clean, light scent of heather. And it's inexpensive, so that even the slim budget can permit its generous use as a body lotion. It's a good cologne and the added perfume is of top quality. The scent clings quite nicely and is even better after contact with the skin than it seems as you sniff it in the bottle.

We found that this heather cologne, unheralded and fairly new, is already tremendously popular, particularly with the working girls. Its perfume is the kind that's suitable with trim daytime clothes. It's sprightly and refreshingly outdoorish, not cloyingly sweet, and anything but exotic.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Blackhawks, technically defending world champions of the hocky business, but more accurately qualified as scoreless wonders, last night absorbed their second 1 to 0 shutout in successive appearances in Chicago Stadium when they succumbed to the tailend Montreal Canadiens.

The Canadiens, playing their first game under a new manager, Jules Dugal, were slow to respond to the stimulant which is supposed to come from manager bouncing. They broke the scoreless tie in 17 minutes and 37 seconds of the final period. At that belated juncture Johnny Gagnon took the puck into the Hawk defense zone and shoved a short pass to Toe Blake. Blake shot to Walter Buswell, Canadien defense man who had stationed himself in front of the cage. Buswell slashed the puck home without giving Goalie Mike Karakas much of a chance for a save.

A Rcord of Futility.

The rather tame performance gave the champs an almost unparalleled record of futility since their owner, Maj. Frederic McLaughlin, fired Bill Stewart on Jan. 3 to quell what is known as wide open hocky. Since Stewart's demise, the Hawks, despite able coaching by Paul Thompson under the tight hocky prescription of his employer, have made six goals in nine games—a sorry development since they opened the season with six goals in one game.

In acquiring their nine game average of two-thirds of a goal a game, the Hawks never have scored more than a goal a game. They have been shut out three times in the span, 6 to 0 by the New York Rangers, and then the 1 to 0 affairs, against the Detroit Red Wings and against the tailenders last night.

Except for another night of booing by the customers [who again were kept from tossing débris on the ice] little criticism has been made of the Hawks' willingness to try to play hocky.

And Look What's Ahead!

The game last night was no worse than many others but seemed just another clincher that the Hawk front office, quite naturally lulled by success in last year's Stanley Cup miracle, has not provided Chicago with a team possessing the class rated by a town of its importance in the sports world.

The Hawks, having failed to score against the two teams in the league which have been as sad as they have, now must face high grade competition for a while, starting with the Rangers in New York Tuesday. Their next game at home will be next Sunday night when they have to face the league leading Boston Bruins, who have whipped them four times in four games, including two shutouts—two of the six shutouts they have suffered this year.

The Hawks just now are a game and a half out of the cellar, and should reach it easily in at least ten days.

CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 29.—Whizzer White was paid $15,800 for his services with the Pittsburgh Pirates football club. . . . Reports that he gave back $6,000 are the bunk, according to Owner Art Rooney. . . . While it is improbable that White, who now is at Oxford availing himself of a Rhodes scholarship, will return to the Pirates next fall, he will not decide definitly until he has completed his first semester. . . .

Before leaving for England Whizzer sought Rooney's advice. . . . This is what he was told: "You've had a fling at professional football. Now try out Oxford. That's the only way you can tell. But, at any rate, finish your schooling." . . . White plans to become a lawyer. . . . If he wants to rejoin the Pirates and continue his education in the United States there will be a place for him on the club.

At last it's wedding bells for me. My B. F. finally found the cash for the ring. He had been paying 25 cents for Martinis in Chicago, so last week he bought a second hand car and drove to St. Louis, where he heard he could get Martinis for 15 cents. He sold the car and invested in Martinis until he had doubled his money. Now I have him back completely intoxicated by all this good fortune. —Dere of Deerfield.

LEIGHTON BEATS FREISINGER FOR SKATING CROWN

Ronchetti, Defending Champion, Is Third.

Oconomowoc, Wis., Jan. 29.—(AP)—Charles Leighton of Minneapolis, 20 year old member of the 1940 Olympic skating team, advanced from third place in point standings to win the men's open championship in the Great Lakes speed skating meet today. Leighton won his first major title by placing third in the half mile and then taking firsts in the mile and five mile events.

After compiling only forty points in yesterday's events, he boosted his total to 110 to beat Leo Freisinger of Chicago, another Olympian, by ten points. Vic Ronchetti of Chicago, the defending champion, who made fifty points yesterday, but did not compete today, finished third. Del Lamb, Olympic team member from Milwaukee, was fourth with thirty points.

Neberz Third in Mile.

Freisinger led the first day's scoring with sixty points and appeared well on his way to winning the title when he placed second to Lamb in the half-mile in the first event of the day. Leighton finished third in this event, but outskated Freisinger in the mile, winning it in 3:02.4. Tony Neberz of Chicago trailed in third position.

Then Leighton, who qualified for the Olympic team in the recent trials here, brought the crowd of 3,500 up cheering when he moved from fourth on the gun lap of the five mile event to beat Eddie Schroeder, Chicago Olympian, in 16:03. Al Kucera, another Olympic veteran from Chicago, was third, a few feet ahead of Freisinger.

Madeline Horn of Beaver Dam, Wis., who bettered the national three-quarter mile mark yesterday, won the half-mile and mile events today to capture the women's championship with 120 points. She skated the half-mile in 1:35.7, defeating Shirley Jameson, Chicago, and then beat Rose Vyvanek of Cedar Rapids, Ia., with a 3:33.7 mile.

Bunny Lawler Beaten.

Bud Handlan of St. Louis won the intermediate boys title with 100 points, ten more than Bernard Machovich of Oconomowoc. Handlan won both intermediate events yesterday, but finished second to Machovich in the half and mile today.

Geraldine Nuhfer of Cleveland, defeated Bunny Lawler of Chicago, the defending champion, in the junior girls' division, when she skated the 440 yard event in :51.6.

Allan Sprosty of Lakewood, O., turned in victories in the 220 yard race and half mile to lead the juvenile boys field with ninety points.

TABLE OF POINTS.

C. Y. O.	350	Winkler A. C.	30
Northwest S. C.	330	Midwest A. C.	30
Tilden S. C.	190	Champaign-Ur. S.C.	30
Elgin S. A.	60	Rand A. C.	20
Glen Ellyn A.A.A.	60	Aurora, Ill.	20

Vic Ronchetti, 1937 Tribune Silver Skates winner who failed to win a place on the American Olympic skating team in last week's trials, proved his superiority at the American style of racing when he won the class A senior men's Tri-State crown yesterday in Elgin.

Ronchetti, 1938 national and North American outdoor champion, and winner last year in the Tri-State competition, won all four races in his division. It was the first grand slam in the history of the Elgin meet, scored over rivals from Illinois, Wisconsin, and Iowa, in the quarter, half, one, and two miles races.

The Women's Champion.

Ronchetti performed much better yesterday than he did in last week's Olympic trials in Oconomowoc, Wis., which were conducted on a time basis. The spur of personal competition seemed more suited to Ronchetti than did skating against the stopwatch.

Elaine Bogda of the Northwest Skating club won the class A senior women's title with victories in the quarter and one mile events. She scored 60 points. Alice Steffan of the C. Y. O. was second with 30 points

Youth Is Served in Casting, Too

Boy, 16, Wins Fifth Tribune Casting Prize

Edward Yasulaitis, 16 year old member of the Chicago Fly Casting club, scored a 99 yesterday afternoon to win The Tribune casting championship in the International amphitheater. His near perfect score also won for him a trophy offered by THE TRIBUNE. Twenty-six competed in the finals of the week-long tournament, which was held in conjunction with the International Outdoor Sportsmen's show.

It was the second 99 scored by Yasulaitis during the tournament. Last Monday night he made the same score to win the event sponsored for his club. In five years of competition in TRIBUNE tournaments he has won five trophies, both in junior and open competition.

They're All Experts.

Of the twenty-six competitors twenty scored more than 90 and eleven made scores of 95 or better. Nick Schroeder was second with a 98, and third place was a triple tie among Mrs. Howard Chatt, George Cik, and Chester Garnsey. All three finished with 97s. Other casters who scored 95 or higher were Ted Phee, Miss Margaret Weaver, Robert Miller, Richard Grutzmacher, G. P. Almy, and Milton Huguelet.

The obstacle casting event, held last night for the first time, attracted twenty-seven fishermen. They applied skill learned on fishing trips to placing their plugs in rings camouflaged by logs, branches, and other obstructions. Five casters tied for first place by hitting six of the ten rings. On the castoff Ronald Giese hit seven of ten to win. C. H. Humes won the second place trophy, S. T. Shoemaker was third, M. C. Hoppin fourth, and M. H. Swanson fifth.

275,000 Attend Show.

Ralph Muchow of Chicago defeated William Price of St. Louis for the Illinois table tennis title last night. The scores were 21-17, 21-19, 16-21, 21-8. The tournament was sponsored by the Illinois Table Tennis association.

Officials of the outdoor show said last night that 275,000 spectators attended during the nine day run. Plans for making the show annual were announced.

GOPHERS BATTLE MAROON QUINTET IN BID FOR LEAD

Chicago's basketball team, which on Saturday night created a tie in the Western conference race by losing to Ohio State, will break the deadlock tonight on the Midway in an engagement with Minnesota, co-leader with Ohio State. This is the only contest scheduled tonight which will have a bearing on the race, other teams still being too engrossed in midyear examinations.

Minnesota comes to the Midway from Notre Dame, where on Saturday it suffered a 55 to 33 defeat in a nonconference contest. It was the Gophers' second loss in twenty-two starts. They are not apt to be in a very friendly mood when they face the Maroons, whom they whipped, 38 to 28, in Minneapolis earlier in the season.

Maroons Are Stronger.

Chicago, although whipped, 52 to 25, by Ohio State in Columbus Saturday, should be a stronger aggregation than the one which tied the Gophers four times in the first half and lost in the waning minutes of the game at Minnesota. It has the services of Bob Cassels and Bill Murphy, who were of little value in the previous game, having just returned to the squad after a period of ineligibility.

A Maroon victory would drop the Gophers out of the tie with four victories and two defeats, leaving Ohio State alone in first place with four and one. Minnesota can take the lead by defeating the Maroons, who are holding up the conference with one victory and four defeats, one more defeat than Northwestern which is in ninth place.

Hull Takes Scoring Lead.

Chicago's failure in Columbus was due largely to inability to keep the ball away from Capt. Jimmy Hull of the Buckeyes, who dropped in eleven field goals and a free throw to take the scoring lead in the Big Ten with 81 points. His 23 points placed him 7 points ahead of Pick Dehner of Illinois, who ascended to first place a week ago.

Notre Dame, playing aggressive basketball, went to the front in the first few seconds of the game against Minnesota and was never headed as its superb teamwork kept the Gophers on the defensive throughout and distributed field goals among seven players. The Irish scored twenty times from the field.

550 MORE BOXERS TO TAKE GOLDEN GLOVES EXAMS

Check Boys Tomorrow for Three Sections.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Five hundred and fifty letters of instructions and parental consent cards have been mailed to Golden Gloves boxers requesting them to appear for physical examinations tomorrow night in Trafton's gymnasium, 180 West Randolph street. Those who pass these tests will be assigned to the south, northwest, or north section. The west side tournament list has been completed and the first bouts will be held in the Madison Athletic club, 4711 Madison street, Wednesday night.

The west side tournament will continue Thursday evening and then will be concluded Feb. 8 and 9. On this last date the boys who qualify for the matches in the Chicago Stadium will be named. The west side novices, eight sectional champions in the eight weight classes, will join the novices who later will win other sectional titles in the semi-finals of the Chicago tournament Feb. 28. The open division boxers from the west side will enter the Tournament of Champions in which forty-seven out of town teams compete. This tournament opens in the Stadium Feb. 27.

No Reserved Seats.

Admission Wednesday night to the Madison Athletic club is 75 cents. There are no reserved seats. The first bout will start at approximately 7 p. m. All west side contestants will report between 4 p. m. and 6 p. m. in the Madison A. C. gymnasium for their second physical examination and to make weight.

Opening nights for the other Chicago qualifying tournaments and locations are:

SOUTH—White City, South Park avenue and 63d street, Feb. 7.

NORTHWEST—Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace streets, Feb. 15.

NORTH—Loyola university gymnasium, Loyola avenue and Sheridan road, Feb. 20.

Amateur boxers may enter Golden Gloves until midnight Saturday. Final preliminary physical examinations will be held in Trafton's gym, Feb. 10. At this time, and also tomorrow evening, any boy who has received a parental consent card may report for examination if that card is signed by his parent or guardian and brought to the physicians. Frequently a boxer cannot keep the appointment made in his letter of instruction. He is eligible to report at any subsequent examination.

Six Veteran Announcers.

Six men, all veteran members of the Tribune Officials' association, will serve as announcers during the Chicago sectionals and the Tournament of Champions. These announcers are Frank M. Kalteux, Dick Mastro, Ted Canty, William Kerwin, Sam Abruscato, and Leonard J. Sterling.

'HAVE MY OWN REASONS,' IS HIS ONLY COMMENT

Hopes to Return to Western School.

Palo Alto, Cal., Jan. 29.—(AP)—Glenn S. [Pop] Warner, at his home here, said he sent a special delivery letter to Temple university authorities tonight tendering his resignation as head football coach.

Glenn [Pop] Warner.

Warner declined to say why he had resigned. The 68 year old coach said he had "nothing else in view."

It had been rumbred for months that Warner would quit at Temple, but he and university officials had always denied the reports.

"I've decided definitly; I won't reconsider," he said, adding that he had not had "a formal offer" to return to Stanford as "advisory coach." He declared, however, he would be "interested" in such an offer, but would not be receptive to overtures from any eastern institution.

"I have my own reasons for resigning at Temple," he said. "I can't say more than that."

Completes 44th Season.

Warner went to Temple from Stanford university in 1933 as successor to Henry J. [Heinie] Miller. His original five year contract was canceled in 1936 and a new three year agreement, ending in 1939, signed.

Warner won 31 games, lost 18, and tied nine in his six years at Temple. Last year Temple won three, lost six, and tied one.

Warner's best season was in 1934 when Temple, led by Full Back Dave Smukler, now a star with Philadelphia in the National Football league, emerged undefeated but twice tied in a nine game schedule. Invited to play in the first annual Sugar Bowl game at New Orleans, it lost to Tulane for its only defeat.

Warner, originator of the Warner system, completed his 44th season as head coach last year. During that time his teams have won 305 games, a record unequaled by any other coach in the country.

Coached Thorpe, Nevers.

A graduate of Cornell university in 1895, Warner supervised pre-season training at Iowa State university and then became coach at the University of Georgia that same year. After an undefeated season at Georgia in 1896, Warner accepted a contract at Cornell where he remained until 1899.

After five years at the Carlisle [Pa.] Indian school, he returned to Cornell in 1904, but in 1907 went back to Carlisle until 1915 when he became head coach at the University of Pittsburgh. His Pitt teams of 1915 through 1918 were undefeated.

Completing his contract at Pittsburgh in 1923, Warner served as advisory coach at Stanford that same year and in 1924 assumed full charge at the west coast institution.

Among Warner's star pupils were Jim Thorpe, Carlisle's great all-around Indian athlete; Ernie Nevers, star Stanford full back, now coach of the Chicago Cardinals, and Smukler.

FOUR COACHES VISIT ARIZONA; NOBODY SIGNS

Tucson, Ariz., Jan. 29.—(AP)—A University of Arizona board of regents committee spent the entire day today interviewing four of the leading candidates for successor to Football Coach Orian Landreth and then announced "no decision reached, no offer made, no new meeting date set, but a further survey ordered."

President Alfred Atkinson said that "action of some kind" should be taken before the end of the week. Several less optimistic members of the committee indicated further interviews, possibly with a group of California coaches, were likely.

Closeted with the committee at various times today were Miles Casteel, assistant coach at Michigan State; Harry Gamage, head coach at the University of South Dakota; Melvin H. Taube, back field coach at Purdue, and Leo Calland, coach at San Diego [Cal.] State college.

Two U. S. Swimmers Set South American Records

PARANA, Argentina, Jan. 29.—(AP)—Two South American swimming records were broken at an exhibition meet last night in which the touring United States team competed with swimmers from Ecuador, Chile, and Argentina. Jeanne Laupheimer of Brooklyn set a new South American record for the women's 100 meter backstroke when she won the event in 1:22.8. The old record was 1.23.4. Andrew Clark of Detroit set the second record when he swam the men's 400 meter free style in 4:48.5.

LEE MEETS ARON IN MARIGOLD 10 ROUNDER TONIGHT

Kist and Haberski Box Semi-Windup.

Indian Billy Lee, Milwaukee welterweight, who stopped Verne Patterson three weeks ago, will face sterner opposition tonight when he meets Milt Aron in a ten round bout in Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street.

Lee's chances to score an upset are materially helped by the fact that Aron has not fought since last November, when he conquered Jackie Burke. Idleness usually throws a boxer off form.

Barbara Wants Winner.

Johnny Barbara, former Chicago Golden Gloves 147 pound finalist, who stopped Harold Brown in his last appearance, says he is ready to meet the survivor.

Dick Kist, Danville, Ill., welter, will be after his thirteenth triumph in fourteen starts in a five round semi-final against George Haberski of Waukegan.

Nyberg Meets Lind.

The best of the supporting matches appears to be a four rounder between George Nyberg, Port Arthur, Ont., 152 pounder, and Art [Swede] Lind, last year's Navy middleweight champion.

In other contests Ernie Valente, Tony Scala's light heavyweight protégé from Milwaukee, boxes Pete Atkins, and Jimmy Mason, local lightweight, with Young Armando Santiago.

Wrestling shows will be held this evening in White City, 63d street and South Park avenue, and Cicero Stadium, 19th street and 52d avenue. Jim McMillen and Olaf Olson will be windup principals in White City. Supporting matches:

Chin Lee vs. Jack Hagen.
Al Williams vs. Rudy Kay.
Jack Conley vs. Eddie Blake.
Ray Clements vs. Stan Novak.

Main event contestants in the Cicero arena are Zack Malkov and Mike Markoff. Phil Gruber meets Manuel Cortez in a secondary feature. Other matches:

George Mack vs. Gene Almon.
John Doehring vs. John Mason.
Joe Mitchell vs. Ed Van Herrick.

Norman Hughes and Vernel Williams will meet in a middleweight contest featuring the amateur boxing show tonight in Coulon's gymnasium, 1154 East 63d street. . . . Pete Altizer, 124th Field Artillery armory amateur featherweight, and Rudy Lazaide of South Chicago, have been matched for a five round fight in the armory Wednesday, Matchmaker Joe Heniff said yesterday.

Eddie Lander, one of the best featherweights to be developed on the west side, will make his next appearance against the capable Frankie [Kid] Covelli in Marigold arena Feb. 13. . . . Lyle [Kid] Mason, 19 year old 145 pounder of La Crosse, Wis., has placed himself under the management of Sammy Mandell, former lightweight champion. . . . Leone Efrati, Italian junior lightweight, will return from Rome on May 1, his manager, Emil Nanny, said last night.

BRUINS CONQUER AMERICANS, 3-2, AND ADD TO LEAD

14,848 See Rough Game on Garden Rink.

New York, Jan. 29.—(AP)—The Boston Bruins scored a 3 to 2 victory over the Americans tonight in a rough game before 14,848 in Madison Square Garden. The victory increased the Bruins' lead in the National Hocky league to eight points over the Americans and the idle Rangers, who are tied for second place.

In the closing minutes the Americans took out Goalie Earl Robertson and put six forwards on the ice.

Eddie Shore scored a disputed goal late in the first period with the count tied at 1 to 1 and Johnny Sorrell in the penalty box. Taking passes from Porky Dumart and Milt Schmidt, the Bruins' defenseman whacked in a low shot which—so the goal judge ruled—hit the metal at the rear of the goal frame and bounced out. Shore then batted in the rebound but, as he was in the goal crease, Referee Norman Lamport called the play back. An argument broke out and after Lamport consulted the goal judge he allowed the first shot as a goal.

C. Y. O. Beaten by Pepsi-Colas; Planerts Lose

The Pepsi-Colas defeated the leading C. Y. O. Shamrocks, 2 to 0, yesterday, to go into second place in the Arena Amateur Hocky league. In another game the Detroit Rayl's ended the success of Arena teams against outside competition with a 3 to 2 triumph over the Planerts.

After each team had missed numerous scoring opportunities in the first two periods, the Pepsi-Colas scored the decisive goal in the second minute of the final period, Eddie Janelle counting on a solo effort. The C. Y. O.'s efforts to tie the score resulted in the second Pepsi-Cola goal, Stan Evoy breaking away in the final two minutes.

Zbyszko Will Repay Talun for Kind Deed

Stanislaus Zbyzsko, once heavyweight wrestling champion, will second Wladyslaw Talun, his giant protégé, against Danno O'Mahoney in a wrestling headliner in the Coliseum tomorrow.

Since a second is unnecessary in a wrestler's corner, the fact that Zbyzsko will be behind Talun, who is 6 feet 9 inches tall and weighs nearly 300 pounds, has opened speculation how the old fellow plans to help Wladyslaw.

They Hold Rehersal.

The pair did a little rehersing in a loop gymnasium yesterday and despite Zbyzsko's age [he admitts being 63 years old], Stanislaus showed his protégé additional tricks.

After the workout it was reported that Zbyzsko is all set to repay Talun in kind for his assistance in his rôle of a second during a bout between Zbyzsko and Fritz Von Schacht in Detroit on Jan. 23.

The fact that the referee called he struggle no contest because Talun pulled Von Schacht from the ring and sat on him so hard that he couldn't continue is immaterial to Zbyzsko.

He's a Fine Fellow.

"Talun is a fine man," Zbyzsko is said to have remarked after the match. "I will reward him by doing everything in my power to help him beat O'Mahoney"

NAME POLO FOES ON YALE-HARVARD SUPPORTING CARD

The 124th Field Artillery and Fort Sheridan will clash as the supporting attraction when the Harvard and Yale polo teams meet Feb. 10 in the Artillery armory, it was announced yesterday by Lieut. A. J. Strak, athletic officer of the 124th Field Artillery and Metropolitan league manager.

C. D. Sutton of the Penguin Ice Yacht club won the two races held yesterday on Fox Lake between five Skeeter class iceboats of the Penguin club and the Chicago Ice Yacht club. Commodore A. R. Prager of the Penguin club was second in both races.

A strong northwest wind, combined with snowdrifts over spots on Fox Lake, resulted in several iceboats capsizing. Ed Schnabel Sr.'s Gone With the Wind was dismasted.

Fans Are Tired of Mile; Turn to Other Races

New York, Jan. 29.—(AP)—The mile run, which can be as monotonous as it sometimes is magnificent, appears threatened by decay in this season's big indoor track spectacles. Fans have been working themselves into periodical frenzy over this event ever since Paavo Nurmi, the flying Finn, started spending his winters on the American board saucers fifteen years ago. They may continue to do so, but they hardly will reach the apoplexy stage this winter.

Instead there is reason to believe that the 32d annual Millrose games in Madison Square Garden next Saturday, always one of the sport's most triumphant extravaganzas, will see the spotlight of popular favor shifted to other events.

He's Just Too Good.

Glenn Cunningham and the rest of the milers will be on hand, but their efforts this week-end in the Prout Memorial meet in Boston and the Metropolitan A. A. U. meet in Jersey City were not reassuring.

Cunningham won his fifth consecutive K. of C. mile in Boston last night in 4 minutes 15.2 seconds without a challenge. Thirteen thousand spectators gazed silently, indifferently, as the runners plodded ten times around the arena without changing the contours of their little bunch and even when the field began to shuffle itself in the final lap there was no great concern.

You'd Think He'd Get Tired.

The Metropolitan mile was won by Leslie MacMitchell, a New York university sophomore who has been highly touted, in 4 minutes 31.9 seconds after Archie San Romani tripped and fell. Thus it seems the track fans who have feasted on stirring mile duels in the past are in for some dreary exhibitions.

None of the younger runners can give Cunningham a chase, if efforts to date are any criterion, and he must be getting pretty tired of battling that other old man, Father Time, race after race. There are other events ready to share in the glory. The Prout 600, which was to have been merely a supporting item to the mile in Boston, uncovered for the east Harold Cagle of Oklahoma Baptist university.

C.C.N.Y. Picks Strong Team to Battle Loyola

The City College of New York will send a veteran lineup into action against Loyola in the Madison street armory Friday night. The game will be half of a double-header, Butler university of Indianapolis meeting De Paul in the other game.

Nat Holman, C. C. N. Y. coach, has announced he will start Co-Captains Manny Jarmon and Lou Lefkowitz, Dave Siperstein, Al Souplous, and Al Wingorad, a lineup which has featured the team's twenty-one consecutive triumphs on its home floor.

Holman, one of the greatest professional stars of all time, has been coaching the team for nineteen years. His teams have won 219 games while dropping only 55. Its victims this year include the University of Oregon, St. Joseph's college of Philadelphia, Brooklyn college, and McGill university.

Butler Is Good, Too.

While local fans have been awaiting the Loyola-C. C. N. Y. game since the early part of the season, indications now are that the De Paul-Butler battle will be just as interesting. De Paul, after a ragged start, has come along rapidly under Coach Tom Haggerty. The Blue Demons showed their class in New York last Friday night, defeating the St. John's team of Brooklyn, 40 to 26.

Butler, De Paul's opponent, has been known for years as one of the best basketball schools in the middle west. The team recently defeated Michigan State, which forced Loyola into overtime play on Jan. 2 in the armory.

PRELIMINARY GAME

Youngsters who in the near future may be college basketball stars will play in a preliminary game to the Loyola-De Paul contest in the Stadium on Feb. 8. The C. Y. O. is sponsoring the game.

The boys are members of the Mount Carmel and St. Philip High school teams. This will be their third meeting this season. Each has won one game.

Mount Carmel is coached by Johnny Jordan, former Notre Dame player. It recently won the St. George tournament. Charlie Butler, a highly talented shooter, tied the scoring record of 32 points in the last Loyola tournament. He was chosen on the St. George all-tournament team and awarded the tournament's most valuable player award.

The loss of Jack McCullum because of appendicitis was a blow to the Mount Carmel team. However, Eddie Klimek, who was captain of the light weight squad, was moved up to the heavies by Coach Jordan, and he played so well that he was named on the St. George all-tournament team. Other regular members are Dick Creevy, Jocko Hernon and Bill Ryan.

St. Philip, coached by Billy Shay, former De Paul basketball star, has a record of eleven victories and one defeat for the season. Jim Murphy, center, who stands 6 feet 4 inches, is the captain. The forwards are Ed Kinsella and Phil Ludford. The guards are Ray Olsen and Sol Rizzo.

INDIANA OPENS TRACK SEASON AT NOTRE DAME

Notre Dame, Ind., Jan. 29.—[Special.]—Notre Dame and Indiana will open their 1939 track seasons here tomorrow night in a dual meet. Capt. Greg Rice of Notre Dame will oppose Mel Trutt of Indiana in the mile run, feature of the meet. Trutt ran in the Prout games in Boston last night, taking fifth place.

MELODY TAKES YACHT SERIES FOR BARCARDI CUP

HAVANA, Jan. 29.—(AP)—Paul H. Smart's yacht Melody won the Bacardi cup today in the thirteenth annual international star class regatta by placing second and third in two races in addition to its fifth in yesterday's opening race.

The leader of the central Long Island sound fleet in reality tied with Adrian Iselin's Ace II. at 44 points, but regatta officials invoked a rule that in case of a tie the boat which defeats the other the most times shall be declared the winner.

Melody crossed the finish line ahead of Ace II. in both of today's races although Ace II. won the event yesterday.

The Iselin yacht is a part of the western Long Island sound fleet.

Today's final race was won by Harold Halsted's Chuckle III., which was forced to withdraw from the morning race because of a broken tiller. It finished second yesterday and might have had a chance of winning the cup.

The defending champion, Gale, owned by Harry Nye of Chicago, won the morning race. Gale finished third in yesterday's opening race.

Nye sailed his craft over the ten mile triangular course in 1 hour 22 minutes and 29 seconds, with Fofo II., sailed by William H. Picken Jr. of the Great South Bay fleet second, 53 seconds behind. Melody was third, 1 minute 10 seconds behind the winner.

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 29.—(AP)—For the second straight year the Chicago B team beat the Chicago A team in the finals of the western squash racquets tournament in the Minneapolis club today. The B team won two matches to the A team's one.

J. Dudley Pope of the Dartmouth club of Chicago beat H. L. Dixon Jr. of the Chicago Athletic association to repeat his 1937 victory in the individual event. The scores were 15-6, 15-12, 10-15, 12-15, 15-11.

Swedish A Is Victorious in Soccer Meet

BY OFFSIDE.

All day competition in a seven a side indoor soccer tournament, in which forty-eight teams participated, ended in the 132d Infantry armory last night with the Swedish-American A team defeating its B team in the senior division. Each team scored two goals, the A team winning on three corners to the B team's two.

The juvenile championship was won by the American Eagles, who defeated the Workers S. C., 3 to 0, and the Schwabens beat the Davenport, Ia., Sports club, 1 to 0, for the junior trophy. The tournament field was made up of eight juvenile teams, sixteen in the junior division and twenty-four in the senior bracket.

T. Hamilton Leads Rally.

The Swedish-American A squad took an early lead in the senior final on Bob Fidler's shot from twenty yards out. The B team forced a corner, but soon found itself two goals behind when Nels Olson eluded A. Edman to beat Goalie S. Larson and the A squad forced its three corners.

T. Hamilton led the B team in a futile rally in the second period, beating Goalie Mike Holmes from three yards for the first goal and passed to T. Swanson for another a few minutes later after the B squad had forced its second corner.

Maze Scores Twice.

The winning goal in the junior final was scored by Hans Behnke, outside left, in the last three minutes of play. The Davenport team was the surprise of the tournament, having been accorded little chance to advance into the final round.

In the juvenile class, which included players under fifteen years of age, the Eagles led, 2 to 0, at half time. James Maze, outside right, scored two goals for the victors, and James Conroy, center forward the other.

The winners and runners-up in both classes were presented trophies by Edward J. Kaindl, Cook county recorder. Score:

New York, Jan. 29.—[Special.]—H. Sherman Howes Jr. of Boston won the third annual Union club invitation squash racquets tournament today, defeating Francis D. Rogers of the Yale club, 15-10, 15-7, 15-12.

College All-Star Eleven Loses to Professionals, 6-0

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 29.—(AP)—A third period touchdown enabled the All-Star professionals to defeat the West Collegians, 6 to 0, on a rain soaked field before 5,000 today despite a sparkling performance by Davey O'Brien, Texas Christian half back for the college group.

After being outplayed in the first half, mainly through the individual work of O'Brien, the pros capitalized on a break to score. Midway in the third quarter Ray Clemens, former Oklahoma player now with the Los Angeles Bulldogs, intercepted a pass by O'Brien and returned the ball twenty-five yards to the Collegians' 9 yard line.

A line plunge netted nothing, then Clemens took the ball around left end for the score. The place kick for extra point was blocked.

Chief pregame interest centered around the pass throwing duel between O'Brien for the Collegians and his Southwest conference rival of last season, Billy Patterson of Baylor university, who played with the pros.

O'Brien played in the first and third periods. He tossed one pass to Clarence Manders, quarter back from Drake, for forty yards. A continual downpour prevented him from running. He gained twenty-six yards in four tries, but lost a total of forty-four yards on six others.

During the first quarter Patterson tossed four passes which fell incomplete and gained a total of seven yards on four tries. In the third period O'Brien passed to Manders for a one yard gain and returned a punt eleven yards.

Eddie Zajac, who bowls with the Schlitz team in the Chicago Classic league, last night finished as the winner of the twenty-second Petersen individual bowling classic as his total of 1,745, compiled with the first squad on Friday night, withstood the efforts of over 250 of the middle west's leading bowlers.

Zajac collected $2,000 for his winning score, in addition to the $75 he received for leading the first squad.

Day, with a total of 1,739, received $500 as the runnerup. Hank Mariano, another Milwaukee entrant, wound up third, his 1,691 earning $500. Fourth place went to Anton Sperando of Marpath, N. Y., who had 1,689.

HARRISON'S 138 TAKES CROSBY GOLF BY STROKE

Revolta and Luxford Win Pro-Amateur Prize.

Del Mar, Cal., Jan. 29.—(AP)—E. J. [Dutch] Harrison of Chicago won his first major golf tournament today—the $3,000 pro-amateur event sponsored by Bing Crosby, movie and radio star.

The lanky Arkansas-born pro clipped three strokes off the difficult par 72 of the Rancho Santa Fe course and, as the largest gallery in the three year history of the Crosby event looked on, wound up with a 36 hole card of 69—69—138.

Smith, Nelson Are 2d.

Beaten out for $500 first prize for low professional medal score were Byron Nelson of Reading, Pa., who went into today's final round with a one stroke lead, and Horton Smith, Chicago.

Nelson's card read 68—71—139 and Horton reversed it with 71—68—139.

Johnny Revolta of Evanston, Ill., teamed with Maurie Luxford of Hollywood's Lakeside Golf club to win the best ball pro-amateur event with a score of 67—63—130. Luxford helped Revolta with seven strokes yesterday and four today, but Johnny came back to score an individual 67, tying the competitive course record set last year by the winner, Sam Snead.

Harrison Closes Steadily.

As Nelson, Smith, Jimmy Demaret, Harry Cooper, Jimmy Thompson, and other stars dropped out, the 28 year old Harrison swept into the back nine four shots under par 36. He faltered on 14 and 15, going a stroke over on each, but closed steadily for his 69.

Harrison, touted as one of the coming pro stars when the troupe came to California several weeks ago, lived up to expectations today.

MARTIN LEADERS LINE UP PLANS FOR CONVENTION

Two Auto Union Rivals Address Workers.

BY JOSEPH ATOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit Mich., Jan. 29.—[Special.]—Auto union officials claiming to represent 192,000 members met here today under the leadership of Homer Martin and made plans for a special convention on March 4 in an effort to end the split in the union.

During the day Martin and R. J. Thomas, who was named acting president by the anti-Martin faction that has C. I. O. backing, faced each other on the rostrum of a meeting of the powerful Chrysler local. Thomas was booed down when he attacked Martin's contention that communism is the issue in the split, but on other matters he got a respectful hearing.

On the other hand, the all day meeting of local union officials, called and dominated by Martin, refused to pass a resolution favoring withdrawal of the auto workers from the C. I. O. Martin already has resigned his vice presidency in the organization.

Martin Wins Backing.

In all other respects the meeting was pro-Martin in its actions. It appointed a convention committee headed by Joseph Green, secretary-treasurer of the Motor Products local in Detroit. It passed a resolution demanding that if a new set of international officials is elected at the rival convention, called for March 27 in Cleveland by the anti-Martin faction, the election be submitted to a referendum of the rank and file.

Another resolution provided that all members whose dues are paid up by Feb. 5, including some 40,000 members who are out of jobs in motor plants and are enrolled in the WPA local of the union, shall be entitled to representation at the special convention.

Martin's actions in his fight with the executive board, fifteen members of which he has suspended, all were approved by resolution. The suspensions were approved and the officials demanded the disbandment of the rival organization as a dual union.

Suspension of Chiefs Approved.

They also approved Martin's suspension on Jan. 7 of the officers of the big Plymouth local here, which he charged was dominated by communists. A resolution, presented by the Ford local of Detroit, condemning the opposition for "slanderous attacks and adverse and destructive criticism" of Martin's negotiations with the Ford Motor company also was passed. The Ford negotiations are the issue on which the opposition is fighting Martin, charging he betrayed the union.

The Martin forces assert that the 390 officials at the meeting represented 145 locals with a membership of 192,000, while seventy other locals with 60,000 members sent telegraphic assurances of support. The anti-Martin forces say the figures are exaggerated. If they are correct, the meeting probably would have represented almost the full strength of the union.

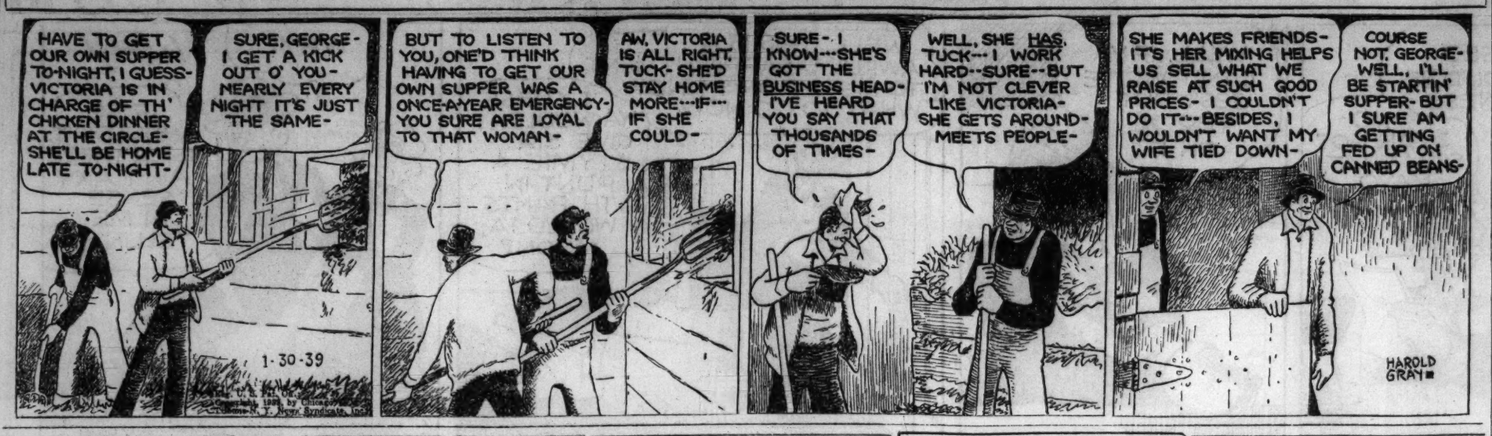
Leaders Tell Issues.

In the debate before the Chrysler local, Martin and Thomas told their stories on a number of issues. On the subject of strikes—which under the United Automobile Workers' constithirds majority in a secret ballot of thirds" majority in a secret ballot of the local affected—Martin said that more than 1,000 wildcat strikes have been staged since the General Motors contract was signed two years ago February.

Thomas struck back, asserting that in a conference Martin had said:

"For the good of the publicity and the good of ourselves, we're opposed to wildcat strikes, but off the record they're o. k."

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: His Dish



WILLIAM B. YEATS, IRISH POET AND PLAYWRIGHT, DIES

Suffers Heart Attack at French Resort.

MENTONE, France, Jan. 29.—(AP)—William Butler Yeats, Irish poet and playwright and winner of the Noble prize for literature in 1923, died yesterday in the little French Riviera town of Roquebrune. He was 73 years old.

W. B. Yeats.

His death, which followed a short illness, occurred at a boarding house where he had been staying with his wife.

He will be buried tomorrow at Roquebrune. It was expected, however, that eventually the poet's body would be removed to his native Ireland.

Yeats arrived in Roquebrune early last month in ill health. He suffered repeated heart attacks and was able to take only short walks. He had been confined to his bed since Tuesday.

Son of Noted Artist.

Yeats was born June 13, 1865, at Sandymount, near Dublin, the son of a distinguished Irish artist, J. B. Yeats. He studied painting for a time but at the age of 24 he published his first book of poems, "The Wanderings of Oisin," and from that time he concentrated on literature.

His poems were inspired largely by the legends, romance, and folklore of Ireland.

His first poetic play, "The Countess Cathleen," was published in 1892 and five years later he undertook to help form the Irish Literary theater. It subsequently was established in the Abbey theater in Dublin with Yeats as a director. He had hoped in the Irish Literary theater to found a verse theater in Ireland—but this aim was abandoned.

Plays Successful.

Yeats' first three plays in prose, "Kathleen ni Houlihan," "The Pot of Broth," and "The Hour Glass," were produced successfully.

His subsequent plays demanded great tragic acting. They included "Deirdre," in 1907 and later he wrote "The Player Queen," a fantasy in prose. In the early 1920s came the unrealistic "Plays for Dancers," and "The Cat and the Moon."

Some of his early work was elaborate. With the appearance of "Poems Written in Discouragement," in 1913 and "Responsibilities" a year later, he discarded elaboration. A new style—still more austere—was first seen in "The Wild Swans at Coole," published in 1917.

Some of His Other Works.

Among his other works were "John Sherman," "The Celtic Twilight," "The Poems of William Blake," "A Book of Irish Verse," "The Secret Rose," "The Wind Among the Reeds," "The Shadowy Waters," "Ideas of Good and Evil," "In the Seven Woods," "The King's Threshold," "The Green Helmet and Other Poems," "Reveries," "The Cutting of an Agate," "The Winding Stair," "Words for Music, Perhaps," and "Wheels and Butterflies."

In 1917 he married Georgie Hyde Lees. They had two children.

He visited the United States in 1932 for the opening of "The Words Upon the Window Pane," in New York City.

From 1922 to 1928 he served in the Irish senate.

Philo, Ill., Jan. 29.—[Special.]—Dave and Joe Maddux, who say they are the nation's oldest twins, were honored here today at a community birthday dinner party sponsored by the women of the four churches of this agricultural town of 500. The twins, lifelong Republicans, will be 94 years old Friday. Both are active and in good health.

Born near New Holland, O., the twins came to Christian county with parents in a covered wagon in 1855. They moved to Champaign when Dave married in 1872. Joe, remaining a bachelor, has lived with Dave all of his life. Both retired from farming in 1909 and moved here. Dave's wife died in 1930.

Mark Maddux, Dave's son, and Lyman Maddux, his grandson, both of Wingate, Ind., attended the party, which was given in the high school gymnasium.

MOTHER BEATRIX DIES; CARMELITE NUN FOR 70 YEARS

Rochester, N. Y., Jan. 29.—(AP)—Mother Beatrix of the Holy Spirit, 93 years old, oldest member of the Carmelite order in the world and ranked as the most powerful American factor in the canonization of St. Therese, the Little Flower, died today in the Carmelite monastery here.

Death came quietly to the nun who spent seventy years of her life as a brown-robed Carmelite. She established branches of the order in Boston, Philadelphia, Santa Clara, Cal., and this city.

When Mother Beatrix, born Camilla Josephine Magers in Baltimore in 1845, joined the Carmelites in Baltimore in 1868 there were only two branches of the order in the country. Today there are thirty-two, nearly all of which she helped to establish.

She worked with the Sisters of Charity during the civil war, making bandages for wounded soldiers of both union and confederate forces. She came to Rochester in 1930 to found the Carmelite monastery and remained here until her death.

PASSAGE OF OPEN PRIMARY BILL IS EXPECTED TODAY

Lets Party Deserters Return to G. O. P.

Bills giving voters complete freedom to enter either party fight in the Feb. 28 primary, and to remove kinks from the operation of the permanent registration system, are expected to become laws today at Springfield.

Final legislative action on the two bills is scheduled in the senate this afternoon. Acting Gov. John Stelle has announced he will sign the measures immediately, making them effective at once.

Few Minor Amendments.

The Bidwill open primary bill, passed in the house by a 122 to 13 vote Thursday, requires senate concurrence in a few minor amendments. In its original form it was approved by the senate with only one dissenting vote.

Republican party leaders expect passage of the bill will bring 100,000 Chicago Republicans back into the column they deserted last spring in order to take part in the battle between the Nash-Kelly and Horner-Courtney machines. The measure provides that any person voting in a party primary after Jan. 1, 1939, shall not alter his party affiliation for the next twenty-three months following the primary election.

Print List of Voters.

The Ward bill for improving the permanent registration system provides that the Chicago board of election commissioners must print a precinct register of qualified voters within ten days after the last day of registration. Today is the last day of registration, therefore the rush to have the bill become law.

It also gives persons whose names do not appear on the printed lists ten days to appeal to the election board. If master cards are found in the board's files, the board must issue these persons certificates entitling them to vote.

NEW 'RHUMBA' RADIO WAVE IS BOON TO FLYING

Also Hailed as Speeding Television Work.

Palo Alto, Cal., Jan. 29.—(AP)—By causing electrons to do the rhumba, three young scientists have produced a totally new type of radio which may speed television development, give aviation a formidable life saver, and perhaps revolutionize the whole field of ultra-short wave transmission.

Stanford university, announcing invention of the instrument today, said it generates extremely short waves that are both powerful and easily controled—an impossibility with the usual ultra-short wave equipment. The waves, only about one-tenth as long as short radio waves now in use, can be concentrated and reflected like the beams of a searchlight.

Aid in Blind Landings.

A single wave, they reported, could be made so narrow—so nearly like the shape of a beam of light—that an airplane pilot could follow it with complete confidence to a blind landing under conditions which might make such practices hazardous with a broader wave.

This same narrow wave, they said, could serve with new found precision as an absolute altimeter—an instrument which tells a pilot his exact distance above mountains, buildings, and other invisible dangers. Such an altimeter already has been developed, using broader and therefore less effective waves than these.

Technically, the revolutionary instrument utilizes the fact that an electric field influences the speed of electrons. An electron stream from a cathode tube is run parallel to the invisible lines of force in an electric field. The field causes the slower electrons to speed up and the faster ones to slow down. The result is that they align themselves into waves or "solid fronts."

Ultra-Short Waves.

These electron bunches then pass into a tank containing an electrical current of extremely high frequency. This curren picks up energy from the bunched electrons and then bangs itself against a metal plate three billion times or more every second to produce the ultra-short wave.

The new instrument for producing these waves, which are ten centimeters [less than 4 inches] long, as compared with the minimum of about one meter [slightly less than forty inches] now used by commercial air lines, was patented in the name of Stanford university and leased to the Sperry Gyroscope corporation.

It is called the Klystron, from a Greek word denoting the breaking of waves on a beach.

Fires in Shanghai Destroy Homes of 4,000 Chinese

SHANGHAI, Jan. 30 [Monday].—(AP)—Four thousand Chinese were made homeless and a number were believed to have perished in fires last night and Saturday which destroyed 500 huts in the international settlement. The first fire destroyed the huts of 1,000 Chinese in a colony near St. John's university. It was followed by another last night in a second area of the settlement. It spread like a prairie fire despite a heavy rain.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Frank Ridgway

Solve Hay Problem

Jan. 29, 1939.

PRACTICAL farm tests with legume silage in the Chicago region during the last few years indicate that farmers have found a solution to the problem of handling hay crops in rainy seasons when haymaking is difficult. An increased tonnage of alfalfa, clovers, soy beans, and other crops, including nonlegumes, grown for hay, are being made into silage.

Farmers usually have difficulty in curing legume hay, especially the first crop, which often is ready to cut during a rainy season. Green legumes may be cut, chopped up without curing, blown directly into a silo and made into silage while still wet from rain.

Make Legume Tests.

On St. James farm near Naperville, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey McCormick, legume silage is being tried out this winter for the first time. Ninety tons of soy bean silage was stored last fall and plans already have been made for making more extensive tests this year, using alfalfa and soy beans.

The soy beans were originally planted for use as hay. The decision to make them into silage was made suddenly when heavy rains began to fall, making it almost impossible to cure the beans for hay.

Fearing that the entire crop of soy beans would be lost, the St. James farm manager cut them with a mower and a binder. The plants were still green and small beans were just beginning to form in the pods. Harvesters followed the mower and binder. They raked up the green plants and hauled them direct to the ensilage cutter. Some of them still were wet from a fresh rain.

The beans were promptly run through the ensilage cutter and blown into the silo. To each ton of soy bean plants a hundred pounds of molasses was added. The molasses was mixed with the soy beans as the plants were being run through the cutter. A pump was used to spray the molasses on evenly.

Use Concrete Silo.

An old concrete stave silo was used for the test. The silage was evenly distributed and men were kept in the silo to tramp the material to eliminate air pockets and prevent loss from mold. The green plants did not require the addition of water.

The beans were put into the silo during the latter part of September. The silo was not opened until Jan. 15. It was necessary to remove only about one foot of the material on top. The silage is in excellent condition.

More juice has oozed out at the bottom of the silo than usually is the case with corn plants.

The St. James farm manager's experience in feeding the soy bean silage to dairy cattle and the ration used will be given in this column later.

NEWS OF FINANCE AND COMMERCE

ALTERED TRADE HABITS CREATE BANK PROBLEM

Efforts to Adjust Practices Told.

New York, Jan. 29.—[Special.]—Banks are trying to adapt themselves to the changed conditions under which banking must operate now because of altered business habits and a change in the political philosophy of the country.

This statement was contained in a report on a study of "The Earning Power of Banks" issued today by the research council of the American Bankers' association. Leonard P. Ayres, vice president of the Cleveland Trust company, is chairman of the council.

Among measures which banks are taking to meet the new trend, the report said, are extension of intermediate capital loans to business, enlarged volume of mortgage loans on the basis of "scientific amortization" and many types of personal loans and consumer credits.

Credit Volume Curtailed.

The council said that "great changes in the nation's business habits have extensively curtailed the volume of credit of all kinds employed by industry and trade."

"Within the banking structure itself the most important modifications which have occurred are in the loans and investments of commercial banks," the report continued.

"Loans have been largely replaced by investments and there have been radical decreases in the yields which may be obtained from these modified earning assets. Formerly loans of all types composed more than 70 per cent of aggregate earning assets and investments less than 30 per cent. Today all loans are less than 45 per cent and investments more than 55 per cent.

Other Changes Told.

"Strict commercial loans formerly constituted over 50 per cent of total earning assets. They now amount to little more than 20 per cent. Up to 1929 the composite gross yield of the bank dollar from loans and investments was nearly 6 per cent. Today it is less than 3 per cent."

"The unavoidable shift of a large proportion of the earning assets of banks into investments," the report added, "has placed them in competition to this extent with other types of financial institutions which also employ moneyed capital.

"Since such institutions do not render in connection with the funds they use the various services which are an inherent part of a bank's relations with its customers and which create from 50 to 75 per cent of its operating costs, they are in a better position to supply money at the reduced yields now prevalent in the market than are the banks."

TRUCK FREIGHT VOLUME HOLDS ABOVE YEAR AGO

Washington, D. C., Jan. 29.—(AP)—The American Trucking Associations, Inc., reported today that the volume of freight moved by truck in December, for the fourth consecutive month, exceeded the volume for the corresponding month of 1937. The December volume, however, was 5.08 per cent under November.

Reports from 193 motor carriers in forty states showed they transported an aggregate of 736,388 tons in December, compared with 775,755 tons in November and 590,008 tons in December, 1937.

Guaranty Bank Asks Relief Be Decentralized

New York, Jan. 29.—(AP)—The fact that "21,300,000 of our inhabitants, according to current estimates," are receiving one or more forms of relief indicates a situation which is "strongly inimical to economic and social progress," the Guaranty Trust company of New York said today in a monthly survey.

"No civilized country today," the survey said, "will voluntarily allow any of its citizens to remain in want of the necessities of life as a result of conditions beyond their control. But the very necessity of relief makes it essential that it be placed on a permanently practical basis."

12 Billions Since 1933.

Strictly relief expenditures by federal, state, and local government from the beginning of 1933 to the end of November, 1938, totaled more than $12,000,000,000, the survey said. It asserted that after the 1921-'22 depression, relief expenditures did not return to the pre-depression level. They continued to mount in subsequent years "despite the fact that the period was generally considered the most prosperous in the history of the country."

If that experience holds good, said the survey, the effects will be much more serious now.

Urges Balanced Budget.

As a solution, the survey asserted, "that part of the load which is unavoidable and permanent, or semi-permanent, must be placed on a sound financial basis and brought within a balanced federal budget.

"It may be possible to decentralize, in whole or in part, both the administration and the financial burden of relief by returning the task to the state and local governments. And it would certainly contribute to a sound solution of the problem to create a closer coördination between the relief and the reëmployment agencies of the various governmental units."

TELLS "HIDDEN" TAX ON HOLDERS OF INSURANCE

Washington, D. C., Jan. 29.—[Special.]—The Chamber of Commerce of the United States charged in a statement tonight that the 65,000,000 insurance policy holders in this country paid $103,281,169 in "hidden" taxes in 1937 in the form of special state levies on insurance companies. This figure, it said, excludes taxes paid in common with other businesses.

The special taxes, it said, reached in 1937 the largest total ever collected, 5 per cent more than in 1936.

These special taxes originally were intended to cover only the cost of insurance supervision in the interest of policy holders, the chamber said. It added, however, that the great bulk of these taxes "are now being diverted for general use." In 1937, it said, only $5,262,842 was spent for maintenance of state insurance departments, the remaining $98,018,327 going "for purposes for which policy holders already had paid their share as general taxpayers."

LUMBER OUTPUT IS THIRD LARGER THAN YEAR AGO

Washington, D. C., Jan. 29.—(AP)—The National Lumber Manufacturers' association today reported production in the first three weeks of 1939 was 33 per cent above that of the corresponding period of 1938. Shipments increased 17 per cent and new orders 13 per cent.

In the week ended Jan. 21, 532 reporting mills produced 183,602,000 feet of softwoods and hardwoods combined, shipped 203,136,000 feet and booked orders of 209,925,000 feet. Revised figures for the preceding week were: Mills, 537; production, 178,460,000 feet; shipments, 196,221,000 feet, and orders, 216,792,000 feet.

GAINS AND "WASH SALES."

Investors' Guide: Your column of Jan. 6 said that a man who sold stocks at a loss and repurchased them within thirty days could not deduct his loss on the sales in figuring his taxable income. I believe you called this procedure a "wash sale." My situation, however, is different. I sold some stocks at a profit [instead of a loss] in December and bought them back in a few days. I used the profits to offset some losses on other stock sales made in 1938. Was this all right and do my December sales count as ordinary sales?—H. S.

Answer: Yes, your sales are considered legitimate sales for tax purposes, even though you repurchased the stocks within thirty days. The "wash sale" restriction applies only to losses.

The tax advantage to you in this case of selling at a profit and rebuying is that your cost price is now higher than before for the stocks. If later on you sell them you will have had either a smaller profit or a larger loss than you would have if you had not made the December transactions. This may help to reduce your future income taxes.

HE WAS PAID IN STOCK.

Investors' Guide: When the Cities Service company bought my oil business in 1930 it paid me in Cities Service stock. I received 250 shares of common and 110 preferred shares, but they haven't done me much good. Neither stock has paid dividends since 1932 and about $40 in back dividends has accumulated on the preferred. What I should like to know is whether the company has earned anything on the preferred stock, even though it hasn't paid it.—P. G.

Answer: Cities Service has reported profits applicable to its preferred stock in every year since you received your shares. The earnings amounted to $4.71 a preferred share in 1932, compared with the $6 dividend rate. They dipped to only 5 cents in 1934, but climbed to $5.50 a year in 1935 and 1936, and were $10.31 in 1937. For the first nine months of last year $4.66 a share was earned.

Directors have omitted dividends, however, to use cash for repaying bank loans and modernizing equipment.

ONE CAN VOTE.

Investors' Guide: What difference is there, if any, between American Tobacco common and American Tobacco B common?—P. H.

Answer: The only difference is that the common has voting rights and the B stock has not.

U. S. Treasury Speeds Up Data in New Report

Washington, D. C., Jan. 29.—[Special.]—The treasury department today began publication of a new monthly statistical bulletin. It contains much data hitherto kept secret and cuts in two the time lag in reporting capital movements.

It analyzes in a new way the government's income and outgo, gives the composition of the public debt—which rose in 1938 by $2,262,000,000, it states, to total $39,427,000,000, and includes detailed treasury statistics.

One of the graphs in the 36 page bulletin shows the cumulative net capital movement into the United States from foreign countries from January, 1935, to November, 1938.

Rush of Funds in Autumn.

It shows the inflow of so-called "hot" or "frightened" money last September and October was in unusually large volume, and that almost all of it went into deposits at the banks rather than into the stock market.

The result was that at the end of October foreign bank deposits in this country—the "hottest" kind of hot money—reached for the first time in a year the level of foreign investments in securities here, each standing above $1,750,000,000.

Together with brokerage balances, these funds boosted the total foreign money in this country to $3,662,174,000—or within $250,000,000 of the peak reached early in October, 1937.

The total is known to have increased since November, but the bulletin did not state how much.

Changes to Be Shown Monthly.

The fact that the position at the end of last October is now publicly known is in itself a new development. Under the system followed by the treasury prior to the creation of this bulletin the October figures would not have been made known till late in March. Hitherto the capital movement was published only quarterly. Henceforth the bulletin will give it monthly with a lag of only three months.

The treasury acquired $804,700,000 of silver in 1938, and now has $3,346,800,000 of it on hand, according to one of the tables.

U. S. MAY GIVE BACK PART OF LOAN COTTON

Action to Be Asked in Congress.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 29.—(AP)—The administration intends to ask congress for authority to give to growers upwards of 4,000,000 bales of the cotton now sealed in warehouses under government loans, it was learned today.

Administration spokesmen in congress with whom the proposal has been discussed said details may be laid before the house agriculture committee within a few days.

Farm officials were said to have decided on the proposal because of an apparent scarcity of cotton supplies available for manufacturers and exporters.

11 Million Bales Pledged.

Although this season's supply of American cotton totaled 25,500,000 bales—the largest on record and sufficient to supply normal needs for two years—more than 11,000,000 bales, much of it the better grades, has been pledged by borrowing farmers as collateral for loans totaling more than $500,000,000.

Congressional leaders said release of part of this loan cotton would have a twofold effect.

Farmers receiving cotton would be required to market it immediately. Thus the reported scarcity of market supplies of the better grades would be relieved.

Grower recipients of the staple would be required to make reductions in their 1939 planting.

Would Have to Cut Crop.

If 4,000,000 bales were returned to farmers from loan stocks, for instance, they would be required to hold this year's production to about 8,000,000 bales, instead of the 12,000,000 bale goal set up in the 1939 program.

Farm leaders said this would cut down present price depressing surpluses.

Some advocates of this proposal expressed belief it would help the United States regain foreign markets. Exports are running 43 per cent below last season, because of a scarcity of supplies and the fact that prices of American cotton have been above those of competing growers. The government loan program has pegged prices above world levels.

BRITAIN STORING FLOUR RESERVE IN EVENT OF WAR

Great Britain, mindful of the potential threat of German bombs in wartime, is reported to be storing a reserve of flour.

Various European countries are known to have been building up emergency supplies of wheat and other grain for some time, but they have run into the problem of finding storage space. Reports to grain traders indicate that England has adopted the idea of storing flour because it eases the storage problem to some extent.

Storage Problem Simplified.

Storing a large reserve of flour is more simple than finding room for excess stocks of grain. Flour can be placed in small warehouses, bakeries, and homes scattered throughout the country. Wheat cannot be held to advantage except at ports and mills.

The British mills are concentrated at a relatively few points. Nearly all of them are within two or three hours' flying time from Germany, reckoned in terms of the speed of bombing planes.

Slightly higher prices prevailed in the wheat market last week. Corn prices averaged somewhat lower mainly because of lack of export demand.

SENATOR O'MAHONEY PLEADS DEMOCRACY FOR U. S. BUSINESS

Democracy in business is needed to support democracy in government, United States Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney [D., Wyo.], chairman of the joint committee investigating monopolistic practices, said yesterday. He spoke before the Charles Carrol forum in the Palmer House.

Senator O'Mahoney.

"When economic freedom is lost, political liberty is in serious danger," he said.

O'Mahoney said there were 300,000 corporations in 1929, but that 594 of these owned 54 per cent of all corporation assets. "We've got to find a way to introduce democracy into these corporations," O'Mahoney said, but added: "Most of the managers of these corporations have a deep sense of obligation to the stockholders, workers, and consuming public."

Answering a question from the audience, he said, "We've got to replace government spending with private spending. Taxation is the great incubus upon the back of enterprise."

Tri-Continental Reports Gain in Net Asset Value

New York, Jan. 29.—(AP)—Earle Bailie, chairman of the board of Tri-Continental corporation, investing concern, reported today that net assets of Tri-Continental at the end of 1938 were equal to $179 a share on the preferred stock and $4.84 a common share, against $152 and $3.26, respectively, at the end of 1937.

Buyers Attending Shows Stimulate Chicago Trade

Buyers attending trade shows in Chicago are stimulating business here, the Chicago Association of Commerce reported yesterday in its weekly survey. Grocery wholesalers were reported to have benefited from the canners' convention, which closed last week.

STEEL DEMAND SAGS ON RUMOR OF PRICE CUTS

A tendency to delay orders has developed among steel buyers as a result of the recent rumor of price cuts, the magazine Steel said yesterday.

"Despite vigorous denials by producers, this rumor has contributed to buyer hesitancy," said the trade journal's weekly review. "Chronic weakness still prevails in some products, principally in resale markets, but quotations on most [steel] commodities are steady."

Buyer hesitancy probably is only temporary, Steel commented, adding that consumption generally is steady or rising slightly.

"Steel demand, slow to gather momentum, is receiving better support from railroads," the review said. "So far this month nothing has developed to alter expectations of a moderate upturn in steel production later this quarter."

A 50 per cent reduction in heavy melting steel at Pittsburgh lowered Steel's scrap composite 8 cents to $14.71 a ton. The finished steel composite remained at $56.50 a ton.
